ROMANCE IN ARTIST'S LIFE

Friendship Between Chopin and George Sand That Had Ending In Lovers' Quarrel.

In 1836 Chopin, the ... composer, whose appearanc... was "one of the most mysterious and ... history of music"—w... as introduced to the novelist George Sand. She was a ... romantic writer who rode horseback astride, at times wore trousers, and even smoked cigars, which used to disgust Chopin to the bottom of his soul. She was not accounted an exceptionally beautiful woman, but she had an arresting personality and almost masculine assertiveness.

"Chopin was fascinated," says Olin Downes, in his "The Lure of Music." "There were times when he turned away in despair; but back he came. In the summer of 1838 he was ill, and George Sand, who was going with her family to the island of Majorca, induced Chopin to accompany them." While there the weather became unusually cold for the island. "It was Chopin who shivered and complained, and George Sand and her son who built the fires, which smoked. In this place he wrote some of his most dramatic and imaginative compositions."

The friendship of Chopin and George Sand ended in a lovers' quarrel in 1844, and they were bitter enemies to the time of his death in 1849. She "wrote up" Chopin as the Prince Karol in her novel, "Lucrezia Floriana."

SMART PIECE OF ADVERTISING

Excursions Inaugurated by St. Paul Real Estate Man Got Result He Had Hoped For.

One of the most daring schemes ... real estate advertising, and perhaps the first, in the United States, was a series of December excursions on the Mississippi between 1865 and 1879, conducted by Col. Girard Hewit of St. Paul. Colonel Hewit opened a real estate office in St Paul in 1856. Business did not go well. Immigrants from the old countries heard of the "hyperborean climate" of Minnesota and preferred to stay away from it.

In December, 1865, shortly before Christmas, Colonel Hewit organized a steamship excursion on the Mississippi. Guests were invited with the understanding that every one was to wear a linen "duster" and be equipped with a fan. A section of the Mississippi that was not covered with ice was chosen for the excursion and a spot not far from St. Paul as the picnic ground.

On the appointed day the guests arrived, all protected with heavy woolen sweaters and fur coats underneath the linen dusters, and each armed with a fan in his gloved hands.

Colonel Hewit's trick worked. News of the St. Paul excursion was spread far and wide throughout the East. Colonel Hewit's December excursions on the Mississippi were kept up till 1879, the year of his death.

Arizona Desert.

A vast stretch of clean-swe... to distant mountains; sand ... gray, but garnet red and ri... brown. Stately columns of ca... twenty, thirty, forty feet high—s... green with a faint pink bloom. Cu... ing, fingerlike cactus with crimson blossoms, like gorgeous jewels, at the tips of graceful stems. Shorter cactus, a fluff of white. Close to the ground, little cactus heads, delicately pinkish green. Sage bush, gray-green in leaf, gold in blossom. Palo verde trees, a tangle of slender green stems. Everywhere graceful mesquite bushes like rich dark evergreens. Over all, a turquoise sky. Flooding all, sunshine like molten gold. Far away, purple, rose, amethyst and lavender of silent hills.

That is the desert—a silent, slumbering land of exquisite color; a vast, soundless place of peace.

The Padlocked Face.

Fixing the padlock to a human being's mouth was at one time the ecclesiastical punishment for blasphemy in Hungary. In Spain the same offense was punished by tearing out the culprit's tongue. In France the tongue of the blasphemer was branded, in Holland it was pierced by nails. In the museum at Budapest is the relic, taken from an ancient grave, of a padlocked human face. The staples are driven through the bones of the face at both sides of the mouth. A visit to some of the many dungeons of Europe and a study of the many instruments of torture once used upon the prisoners, is a convincing proof of the cruelties of past ages.

Making Liars.

A contributor says that woman is the creator of the liar:

When she asks him if she is the only girl he ever loved.

When she asks him where he has been, with whom, and doing what.

When she insists upon knowing what he did with that $5.40 he had last week.

When she inquires into any phase of his personal business.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Revival of Wood Engraving.

The art of wood engraving is very old. When it was rare to find a prince who could write, little woodcuts for attesting documents were in use in Europe. But before that the Chinese had invented the art. In modern times the woodcut has been submerged beneath other methods of reproducing drawings and photographs, but the art is now being kept delightfully alive by the Society of Wood Engravers of London.
