As the wheels turn
so progress is measured

WHEN man invented the wheel he straightened his back and lengthened his stride. Wheels milled his grain. Wheels helped him to lift burdens. Wheels moved him from place to place. But with wheels came friction and the need for lubrication.

Friction holds back; lubrication urges forward. Today millions of motor-cars, trucks, tractors and launches would be dead machines without a lubricant such as Polarine, the "Standard" oil for motor lubrication. Polarine is made from crude petroleum specially selected for its yield of lubricating stock. It lifts the load from delicate bearings, freeing power for the work to be done. Let Polarine protect your investment in automobiles from the attacks of friction.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (New Jersey)

An instance of service—not a definition of it

Your gasoline costs less today

THE Standard Oil Company (N.J.) announces a reduction of one cent per gallon in the tank wagon price of gasoline, effective on April 20th.

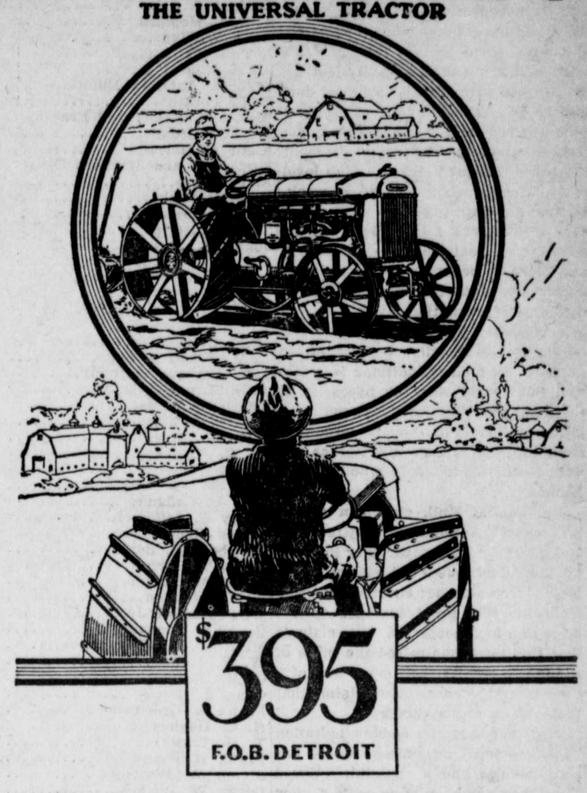

This lower price has been made possible by a remarkable increase in the production of crude oil in California—amounting at this writing to more than 700,000 barrels every 24 hours. This has created a surplus above market requirements on the Pacific coast, with a consequent drop in price.

Owning a large fleet of tankers, we have been able to move California oil through the Canal 4930 miles to our refineries on the Atlantic seaboard, and so take advantage of the opportunity to buy cheaper crude. A refinery located on deep water can avail itself of crude oil delivered either by tank steamship or pipe line.

This reduction is in line with our consistent policy that the consumer should benefit from economies brought about by lower costs of our raw material or in the expenses of refining, transporting and marketing products.
