HOW WORLD WAS PEOPLED

Comprehensive Expression Concerning One of the Greatest Problems of Anthropology.

Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, the distinguished American ethnologist, contributes to the proceedings of the American Philosophical society an important paper on the peopling of Asia, which "constitutes one of the greatest problems of anthropology." He concludes that the cradle of humanity was essentially southwestern Europe, with, later, the Mediterranean basin, western Asia and Africa. It is primarily from Europe and secondarily from these regions that the earth was peopled, and this peopling was comparatively recent. Early man was unable to people the globe, owing to his insufficient effectiveness, and until the end of glacial times and his old stone culture he had evidently all he could do to preserve mere existence. Only an advance in culture could enable him to control his environment and secure a steady surplus of births over deaths. The cause of man's peopling of the world was not a mere wish to do so, but the necessity arising from growing numbers and correspondingly decreasing supply of food. It was this which eventually led to agriculture. This spreading over the globe was conditioned by three great laws—movement in the direction of least resistance; movement in the direction of the greatest prospects; movement due to a force from behind, or compulsion. —Scientific American.

DISEASE AFFECTS ALL TREES

White Pine Blister Rust an Enemy to Be Combated by the Entire Civilized World.

Giant white pines in Switzerland that in 118 years have fought their way to a height of 130 feet and more are being killed by white pine blister rust, and no effort is being made to control the spread of the disease, according to Dr. Perley Spaulding of the United States Department of Agriculture, who recently returned from an eight months' study of rust conditions in Europe. Doctor Spaulding, who made the trip to determine the extent of damage done to old trees and to seek any new points in the life history of the disease, says that the white pine blister rust has been known in Switzerland since 1854, but that it has been only within the last ten years that it has spread to such a state of destructiveness. The urgent necessity of co-operating in the attempt to control the spread of the disease in the United States, he says, will be better realized and facilitated by lumbermen throughout this country when it can be pointed out to them that the disease affects old trees as easily as young seedlings.

As Others See Us.

Our children probably give us the truest glimpse of ourselves we ever get. The other day May arranged her entire family in a row in the big rocker. There were assembled three rag dolls, an unbreakable doll with a broken nose, a drunken elephant and an armless teddy bear. She placed herself before them rigidly and wagged her finger up and down.

"Don' touch the baby's bottle. Don' you dare," she said in exaggerated mimicry of me. "Did you hear mamma?" she exclaimed sharply. She seized the elephant, spanked him smartly and placed him back with a decided thump.

"Dere, now young lady," she said to him severely. Then, after a moment's silence, "Well, don't cry. Mamma kiss you, but you mus' mind your mamma."

Whereupon she took up the disgraced elephant, kissed the injured spot warmly and mothered him tenderly.

I felt humiliated, but was glad to see she made it up with the disreputable old thing.—Farm Life.

Honor System in Prisons.

One of Italian Premier Mussolini's first actions on coming to power has been the adoption for state prisons of the "honor system" in vogue in Oregon and other western American states and which was once tried out at Sing Sing.

Mussolini is greatly impressed by the success of the system as practiced in America and has ordered that, among other things, solitary confinement be abolished in Italian penitentiaries, and all prisoners be given a chance to work on farms or in factories at stated wages.

These wages will be divided into three parts, one of which goes to the state, to form a fund for the betterment of prison conditions, a second part to the party which suffered under the crime for which the prisoner was convicted, and the third part held in trust by the authorities until the day of the prisoner's discharge.

Italy is the first European country to adopt the honor system.

Useful Radio Improvement.

A French trans-Atlantic steamship company was the first to experiment with the radiogonometer, invented by Bellini and Tosi. By means of this apparatus the direction of an invisible vessel, sailing along a coast and emitting wireless signals, can be determined from two stations on the shore, and its course can be accurately mapped. Conversely, a vessel furnished with a radiogonometer can determine its place near a coast by observing the directions of the waves coming from two wireless stations on the shore, and can thus make its way in a fog, when the coast lights are invisible.—Washington Star.
