We can make it... if you care and share

Mrs. Santa needs you!

Baltimoreans are facing a tough winter, what with layoffs, cuts in welfare payments and increased fuel and food costs. You would be surprised at the calls everyday from people at their wits end trying to find ways to pay just their Gas and Electric bills.

The Mrs. Santa Fund, AFRO Charities, is a non-profit organization sponsored by the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers to raise funds to make sure that no family goes hungry this Christmas. Names are supplied by our readers, AFRO Clean Block Captains, city agencies and the Police Department.

There are two ways you can help us make our goal of $20,000.

One - Make a generous cash donation so that food baskets may be purchased wholesale.

Two - Wear a flower supporting the AFRO's Mrs. Santa. Senior Citizens and volunteers have crocheted red flowers which we will be selling during December at $1.00 each. Urge your club or other organization to sell these flowers at various social functions and business meetings.

Special Note: - We'll be glad to arrange a picture with Mrs. Santa for all contributions over $100. When it is published in the AFRO, it will encourage others to give and we desperately need all the help we can get. money orders payable to Mrs. Santa, AFRO Charities, 628 N. Eutaw Street, Baltimore, MD 21201. All Contributions are tax deductable.

Mrs. Santa's helpers

By Ida Peters

People being nice! A senior citizen walked into our office and handed us a brown paper bag and started to hurry out of the office without leaving his name.

He said, "call Me. Mr. A" and don't put my name or his picture in the AFRO. When he handed us the bag, it was so heavy, we almost went to our knees.

Seems he has saved all of his spare change, nickles, dimes and quarters for about a year and he brought in $39.39. We thanked him from the bottom of our hearts and wished him a Merry Christmas.

Letters

Dear Mrs. Peters:

It was a pleasure to meet both you and Mr. John Murphy on Friday, Nov. 27, when a few members of the Baltimore Chapter of Jack and Jill of America, Inc. made clothing and toy contributions to the Mrs. Santa Drive. Again, I apologize for the low level of group participation. I have made follow-up inquiries and I feel confident that members of the group are responding to my second request. I most certainly appreciated the personal interest shown by both you and Mr. Murphy when conversing with the children. It was interesting to learn a little of the history of the AFRO as well as of your previous involvement with Jack and Jill.

I consider myself a part of the newspapers' past because, while a student at Edmondson High School, I wrote a regular column for the AFRO entitled "Edmondson Notes". This column contained information about the activities, students and educational offerings of the school, which at that time was a brand new facility. The experiences I gained in writing, proofing, and editing my column prior to submitting it to the newspaper, has been quite valuable.

Sincere best wishes for health and happiness during the Chrismas season and the New Year. Sincerely, Maxine J. Wood, Ed.D.

NEW PASTOR — The Rev. James J. Thompson is the new pastor of Nazarene Baptist Church, Harford Avenue and Biddle Street. Installation services for Rev. Thompson were held Dec. 6 at the church. Shown with Rev. Thompson from (L) are his daughters Lisa, Rev. Thompson, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Thompson, wife; Margo and Antoinette Thompson. Not shown is the oldest daughter, Mrs. Deborah Hardy who lives in Philadelphia.

Since the Rev. Dr. Harold A. Carter has been pastor of New Shiloh Baptist Church, Fremont Avenue and Lanvale Street, 36 members have entered the gospel ministry and 15 have been ordained and now serve as pastors.

The Rev. James Jordan Thompson, who has been a member of New Shiloh since September 1974 and served as a deacon and teacher in the Saturday Church School is now the new pastor of Nazarene Baptist Church at Harford Road and Biddle Street.

Installation services for the new pastor were held Dec. 6 at Nazarene Baptist Church with friends, relatives, members of the church and local ministers attending.

He succeeds the Rev. William Ashley Hall as pastor of Nazarene. After appearing as a guest speaker and participating in an interview process, Rev. Thompson was elected as the official leader of Nazarene. He has served as pastor of the church since August and has represented his church in the community through fellowship and association with other churches. The church now has 16 new members since Rev. Thompson has been pastor.

The new minister has started a new members class and is planning to offer classes to the deacons and deaconess of the church. The Rev. Quay Theophilus Rich of New Shiloh was the 11 a.m. speaker for the installation services.

The 3 p.m. speaker was the Rev. Dr. Harold A. Carter. The Rev. Dr. Alfred C. D. Vaughn, pastor of Grace Memorial Baptist presided at the services. Among others who participated in the installation services were the Rev. Vincent Thompson, associate minister New Shiloh; Henrietta Moody, Carolyn McManus, the Rev. Dr. Roland Patchett, Sen. Robert L. Douglass, Councilman Nathaniel J. Irby.

Also, Dr. Weptanomah Carter, New Shiloh Choir, Thelma Betts, the Rev. Stanley Butler, pastor Christian Life Fellowship Baptist, the Rev. Darrell S. Greene, pastor Martin Luther King Jr., Community Church, Mrs. Brenda J. Greene, first, the Rev. Lindsay Freeman, pastor Ivory Temple Community; Matthew Wilson, David Mayo, William Johnson, Merry Byrdsong, Ruth Lashley.

Rev. Thompson is married to Mrs. Elizabeth G. Thompson and the father of four daughters, Deborah, Antoinette, Margo and Lisa.

Baptist hail decision on campus religion

Baptist church - state experts and student work leaders are applauding the U.S. Supreme Court's Dec. 8 decision declaring that students at state universities have constitutional right to conduct worship services on campus.

In Washington, Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs executive director James M. Dunn said the high court's 8 to 1 ruling "should cause all church - state separationists to rejoice."

Dunn said the constitutional danger facing the court in Widmar v. Vincent was an effort by the state "to stifle the free exercise of religion," a posture "we dare not permit." At issue in the case was a policy of Missouri — Kansas City barring religious services from campus buildings and property on grounds that to permit them would amount to an unconstitutional establishment of religion.

Dunn said further that the effort to ban worship on college campuses represents one of "two tyrannies" faced by those who would defend church - state separation. The other, he said, is the temptation to "allow any religion, especially our own, to use the authority of the state to promote or favor any faith."

Baptist Joint Committee general counsel John W. Baker, who wrote a brief for the agency on the side of 11 students who challenged the ban, said the decision "greatly expands the religious rights of students."

Bishops study church in '80s

At the request of the American Bishops, a group of faculty members at the Catholic University of America have contributed a series of papers on issues and trends of society and the church which will face in their ministry through the 1980's.

The essays from a 384 page "background paper" which the bishops will study in their upcoming 12 day Bishops Assembly for Prayer and Reflection on Episcopal Ministry in the United States. The meeting will be held June 23, 1982 on the campus of St. John's College in Collegeville, Minn.

Eighteen of the 25 papers were written by Catholic University faculty. Topics fall generally in two areas: "Society and the Church" (politics, economics, science, culture, population, values, youth, family) and "The Changing Church" (church government, parochial schools, charitites, ideologies, role of laity, role of parish, role of women, liturgy, rural church, evangelization, and ecumenism).

The Most Rev. John L. May, archbishop of St. Louis, was chairman of the committee of bishops in charge of the writing of the background material for the 1982 meeting. The work was coordinated by David M. Byers on the staff of the United States Catholic Conference.

The background papers will not be voted on or are they designed to help formulate any kind of statement by bishops, explained one of the authors, James G. Brennan, physics professor at Catholic University. However, he said, the issues raised by the papers are crucial to the bishops talks and the meeting's purpose, which has been stated as: "To consider various implications for pastoral ministry in the United States through the 1980s in light of Vatican II."

The authors expressed their "gratitude" at Archbishop May's request for collaboration of university faculty members.

Catholic University, founded by the American bishops in 1887, is the Catholic Church's official institution of higher learning in the United States.
