—IN LOVE

love" and happy couple is expecting another child in February and looking forward to many more years of wedded bliss.

JAMES M. ABRAHAM, now public relations director for the Soul Shack Restaurants, Inc. is engaged to GINGER MOORE, a first - grade teacher at Friends School, says: "I am definitely in love with Ginger and I know it."

"We are engaged and I knew from the moment I saw her that I would marry her. It was love at first sight.

"At the time I met her I had a lot of girlfriends, but I ended all those relationships after I met her. I have no desire to see anyone else. "

I love her qualities of intelligence, her pretty brown eyes and her great sense of humor. She also has a lot of patience with me. She understands me.

"Even though we have some different tastes and interests in our life styles it's good for our relationship. It makes us exciting to each other and we're never bored with each other.

"Ginger also gives me a sense of continuity in that there are few surprises with her.

"I am looking forward with eagerness to December when we will be married. I can't wait."

Ginger says: "My falling in love with James was a more gradual process. As we dated and I got to know and trust him I began to feel secure. Prior to meeting him I had had some unhappy relationships and this had made me cautious. I think this is the reason that falling in love with James had to be gradual with me.

"His sensitivity, intelligence and his great sense of humor overcame any misgivings I may have had and now I trust him completely. "There are more differences in our lifestyles (his is adventurous, mine more sedate) but this makes our relationship more dynamic.

"We both admire each other's lifestyles and the fact that they are different makes us able to have it both ways — a sense of adventure and the predictability of a settled life. "I am looking forward to spending the rest of my life with him."

WILLIAM T. and VIRGINIA CLARK, of Arunah Ave., in Catonsville, a 36 - year veteran married couple attest that they are still in love. William or 'Bill,' a recently retiree of the Baltimore City Police Dept. states: "Yes, I'm still in love with Virginia. I would never have stayed with her if I weren't.

'We are compatible. Even our horoscopes agree on that — they say Virgo and Taurus make good mates. She's a good homemaker, a good wife. "I think our love has lasted because it is really what has held us together.

"When we disagree on things we generally try to talk it out and we settle it. We both have preconceived ideas of what's right and what's fair. We both try to bring our understanding of life to solving the problem.

"We're both broadminded and have great respect for each other. When acting on anything each of us considers each other's feelings."

Virginia, an Anne Arundel County school teacher with 30 years of service says: "Of course I'm still in love with Clark" (her pet name for him) He's a wonderful person and he understands me. We have great communication.

"We do things together and always have — vacations, social gatherings, plays and going to church. I think that's the reason our love and our relationship have lasted.

"We disagree on some things but not that often, and when we do, it's always settled peacefully."

Virginia's advice to other couples who want a lasting relationship is "Doing things together is very important and trying to develop an interest in whatever he's interested in is good too."

Bill states, when advising younger couples about success in marriage: "Marriage is a 50-50 proposition and not all what one person wants. It takes two to make it work. If there are disagreements I don't think newly - married people should use abusive language to each other.

"This just inflames the situation and shows a loss of respect for oneself and his or her mate and respect is very important.

"I also think that in order to stay together you have to stay close to church. I believe in that saying: "The family that prays together, stays together."

The Clarks have three children, William Jr. "Billy" who works as a mayor's rep; Guy (who lives in California) and Sabina, a local nurse. They also have one grandchild, Tamara Clark, daughter of son Billy.

The culture may be undergoing great upheavals and the way men and women have traditionally related to each other may be dramatically shifting.

But these three couples provide positive answers to the Roberta Flack — Donnie Hathaway plaint — "Where is the love . . .?"

Travel and Tourism course

A course in Travel and Tourism will be among those offered in the Evening Session at Villa Julie College this fall, beginning September 7.

The course will include a new emphasis on the handling of in-bound travel in recognition of the growing influx of tourist travel to Baltimore and to better prepare those in the field for servicing it.

The course is designed to assist those now working in travel to up grade their skills in all areas, as well as to serve the needs of those interested in beginning careers in this rapidly expanding field.

Two courses in accounting will also be offered in Villa Julie's Evening Session. They are: "Introductory Accounting," taught by Manuel Greenfield, CPA, and "Intermediate Accounting," taught by Thomas O'Neill, C.P.A.

There is free parking adjacent to classroom buildings on campus.

For more information on these and other courses in Villa Julie's Evening session, call 486 - 7000.

Bits o' briefs

Leukemia golf

A charity golf tournament, called by its WCAO sponsors "The Louie and the Bear" Open, will be held Sept. 13 at Turf Valley.

Proceeds are earmarked for the Leukemia Research Foundation.

Not so tough

Herschel Walker runs helter - skelter into and over big football players, but he's not so tough — and admits it.

The Georgia running back seems to be able to do anything on a gridiron. The golf links, however is another story.

"I can't play golf," says Walker. "I went out and lost a bunch of balls. I gave it up. It's no fun."

Blacks 2-2

Black entries won two and lost two in the first round of play Thursday, in the U.S. Open tennis championships.

Nigerian Nduka Odizor beat Mike Cahill of Memphis, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. And Yannick Noah of Paris, downed Kevin Curren of South Africa, 6-3, 7-6, 6-3.

But Zimbabwe's Haroon Ismael and America's Lloyd Bourne were dispatched. Ismael lost to Hans Simonsson of Sweden, 7-5, 6-1, 6-1. Bourne of Pasadena, Cal., bowed to Harold Solomon of Fort Lauderdale, 7-5, 6-4, 6-1.

More Mota

LOS ANGELES — Manny Mota, baseball's all - time pinch - hit leader and Los Angeles' 44-year-old first base coach, has been activated for the pennant drive, the Dodgers announced late Tuesday.

Mota, in his third year as a Dodger coach, didn't play last season. But in 1980 he was activated in late August and collected three pinch hits in seven at-bats.

A native of the Dominican Republic, Mota has a lifetime .304 batting average in 19 major - league seasons. He has 150 pinch hits, six more than former record holder Smokey Burgess.

Bears embark on 'don't-know' season Saturday in New York

Coach Tom Morris and his Morgan football team left campus this morning (Friday) bound for New York where on Saturday night they begin a campaign in which virtually no one knows what will happen.

Operating with funds which can produce little in the area of recruiting, Morris and his assistants are faced with the unenviable task of taking on a well - fortified foe in the form of a Grambling eleven that is a perennial contender for small - college national honors.

Grambling and Yankee Stadium where the game will be played combine to make the situation anything but inviting to the young Bears.

Added to the "don't - know" aspect is the rumor which circulated this mid - week that Morris is on the way to being eased out as head coach of the team, if in fact this has not occurred already.

Athletic director Earl Banks told the AFRO Thursday morning that there is no question that Morris still is the Bears' head coach this year. The emphasis on "this year" was noticeable, although Banks would not elaborate on its meaning.

Tom Morris 'don't know' No. 2

The director explained certain absences by Morris from practice drills and press conferences, as caused by "the considerable amount of paper work "now required of Morgan head coaches.

In the 12 - year series to date, the Tigers have posted 11 wins against a loss to the Bears, suffered away back in the opening contest of this annual Whitney Young Classic.

The youth of the 1982 aggregation is a source of concern in the Morgan camp and some who have been close to the football scene for a number of years are openly expressing doubts that Morris can put together a winning year.

Morris, however, sees an opportunity for genuine respectability.

"I'll admit we do not have the outstanding talent that some of the better funded teams possess, "he declares." And we may be a bit short in experience.

"But these young men have tremendous desire. And in my book, desire means a lot. Neither physical capability or experience will go far without the drive of desire."

Baltimore is well represented on the new Bears unit.

Antoine Smith of Poly, is a 5-10 halfback at 185 pounds; Drew Troy a 6 - 3 tight end from Northwestern, may be moved to a flanker position because Morris prefers more than 210 pounds at the blocking post.

Defensive ends Priestly Reeves (6 7,225) and Milton Kearney (6 - 1, 205) are from Dunbar and Northern high schools, respectively. And Eric Felder (6-2, 195) is a linebacker hopeful from Northwestern High.

All these players are freshmen, which helps point up the youth of the team.

Jeff Chandler after March win no arrests made in alleged assault

Stabbed by whites?

Mystery clouds attack on WBA boxing champ

Mysterious circumstances surround an alleged attack on World Boxing Association bantamweight champion Jeff Chandler, early this month in Philadelphia.

One report declares that the 27-year-old fighter was stabbed by a gang of unidentified white men during an altercation on Aug. 9.

According to the Philadelphia Tribune, a spokeswoman at Pennsylvania Hospital said the 118-pound boxer required over 20 stitches and had to be given a tetanus shot on Aug. 9. She said Chandler came to the medical facility at 8th and Spruce Sts., at 10:05 p.m. with a stab wound to the back.

Chandler could not be reached for comment at press time, but a friend of his, Marvis Gaynor, gave this account of the incident.

Chandler was driving south on 10th Street near Carpenter when an auto driven by two men stopped in front of him. Chandler asked the driver to move and an argument erupted.

According to Gaynor, Chandler told him that the driver got out of his car and came back to Chandler's car and struck the fighter in the face. Chandler started fighting with the man, when the passenger in the other car joined the fight against the boxer.

At that point, Gaynor said, a group of men gathered on the scene and without warning attacked Chandler.

Gaynor said Chandler told him he was attacked by at least 10 men. He said he felt a sharp pain in his back and realized he was stabbed.

Chandler, according to Gaynor, said the man with the knife ran away shortly after the stabbing and the fight stopped.

Chandler got back into his car and drove to Pennsylvania Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Chandler's mother, Beatrice, said her son is scheduled to defend his title on Oct. 27 in Atlantic City.

She said in a telephone interview from her home in the 600 block of Washington Avenue that Chandler "is not training now, but will start training in a week."

Time left, but just barely

What do O's need to close gap?

No one needs to tell Baltimore baseball fans that time is running short Yor the Orioles to make up the ground necessary to catch the Milwaukee Brewers.

With Milwaukee and Baltimore facing 31 games and Boston 30, as of FriaFriday morning, one must wonder how the Birds can make up the 5 - game deficit that holds them in third place behind the Brewers and Red Sox.

At this desk, the target seems to be 16 Baltimore victories against not more than eight losses in the next 24 games.

That's a .667 place, which is not unreachable if the Birds play at their usual September Clip.

Why 24 games?

Well, if the O's can accomplish this figure (.667) over that period, it seems more than a hope that they can gain at least one game om the leaders; certainly, they wouldn't be likely to lose ground.

Each of the three contenders plays the same opponents in the remaining schedule, and all three have similar home and away obligations.

So, why the seven - game gap not accounted for in the 24, game spread?

WING TO BIRD — Among newcomers to the Orioles for late pennant drive is John Shelby, 25 - year - old switch - hitter from Rochester. With Redwings, young Kentuckian batted .279, had 16 homers, 57 RBI, scored 93 runs and stole 33 bases.

Those seven games come at the end of the season — between Sept. 27 and Oct. 3.

That is when Milwaukee will have to play the Red Sox three times in Boston, then come to Baltimore for a four - game closing set with the Birds in Memorial Stadium.

Maybe the optimism is in the nature of dreaming — but don't be too sure . . . SAM LACY.

Celebrity barbecue contest

WASHINGTON

On Saturday, September 11th many of Washington's noted political, business, civic and media leaders will don chef tongues and take barbecue tongs in hand to raise funds for NCBA Estates, a facility for the elderly located at 2801 14th Street, N.W.

Coming back to defend their title of yesteryear are Industrial Bank Vice President Drapher Pagan, Special Assistant to the President Stephen Rhodes, Councilmember Jerry Moore, and Director of the D.C. Office of Consumer Protection Herbert Simmons Jr.

Among the many notables competing for the honor of "Best Barbecue Chef in Washington, D.C. for 1982-83," are Councilwoman Betty Ann Kane; Board of Education Members R. David Hall and Eugene Kinlow; City Department Heads William "Bill" Johnson and Matthew Shannon; Candidate for Mayor Patricia R. Harris; architect Charles Bryant; businessman Joseph MacLaughlin; media personalities Kathy Blunt and Jerry Phillips; and Musician Frank Hinton.

A special feature of this year's event will be the senior competition preparing barbecue from recipes passed-down through family generations, the sponsors said. They intend to show the "youngers" a thing or two about cooking.

Sponsoring this unique event is The National Center on Black Aged Housing Development Corporation of the District of Columbia.

Laurel, MD.,- Kalaglow, the only horse in Europe still eligible to take home $1 million in the Washington, D.C. International on November 6, is heading for Laurel this fall.

John D. Schapiro, Laurel president accounced Tuesday that the owners of Kalaglow, who has a sparkling 10 for 13 career record, have accepted an incitation to reace in the Laurel turf classic in the colors of England.

The 4-year-old gray colt captured the prestigious King George and Queen Elizabeth Diamond Stakes at Ascot, carrying 133 pounds, on July 24 to qualify for a possible $1 million reward at Laurel.

Kalaglow, who races for a partnership of seven owners, includign his trainer, Guy ding hid trainer, Guy Harwood, now must win the October 2 Arc de Triomphe in Paris to keep alive his $1 million purse bid in the Interntional

Rebuilding Bowie St. faces test in Ohio

Bowie State opens her 1982 football season Saturday by traveling to Central State, and head coach John Organ finds himself in a massive restructuring job with the ambitious Bulldogs.

Organ will have to rely on returning veterans such as defensive back Danny Hayes, defensive tackle Lennie Barfield and offensive tackle Joe Mills to help mold the team into shape for the season in an effort to better their 1981 record of 5-5.

ON OFFENSE, THE QUARTERBACK POSITION IS UP FOR GRABS. "It's anybody's job," said Organ "We'll just have to wait and see who we have coming back and what some of the rookies look like. We won't really know anything until camp opens because we don't have a spring training period."

Offensive tackles Joe Mills and Carey O'Casio, both seniors, will anchor the offensive line. Coach Organ will be counting on both those veterans to provide leadership along the offensive line. He is also hoping that running back Mike Jordan can provide the offensive team with a strong and potent running attack.

This year, the defense will be without the services of All American free safety Marco Tongue and defensive end Mike Kemp; but the Bulldogs will be counting heavily on the experience of Danny Hayes and Lennie Barfield to provide the leadership that will be needed to bolster a defense that was nationally ranked against the pass in 1981.

"We've got a lot of holes to fill," Organ said. "But our veterans have been working out on their own more or less during the off - season and will come to camp in good shape. That will give us time to work with the rookies and shore up some of the other problem areas. We have one tough schedule ahead of us, but despite everything, I still think we're going to surprise some teams and a lot of other people."

Over Colts Sat.

Odds favor Chi Bears

Until a week ago, the revampted Colts would have entered tomorrow's (Saturday) game at Chicago no worse than even - money against the Bears. But the 37 - 16 debacle, loss to the Steelers last Saturday, changed that drastically.

As a result, Baltimore is being held as 4 - point underdog to to a Chocago Club that is 1 - 2 in three games of the pre - season and reeling under a quarterback situation similar to that of the visitors.

The Bears lost to the Chargers and Cardinals earlier and defeated the Bills.

The game promises to feature at one time of another three of the NFL's most prominent 1982 draft choices; all quarterbacks. For the Colts, Ohio State's Art Schlichter, the fourth player selected in the draft is expected to see more action. However, Arizona State sensation Mike Pagel has been assigned the starting job by first year head coach Frank Kush.

For the Bears, Jim McMahon is scheduled to play in the Bears nine play rotation system which is being installed by Coach Mike Ditka for this game. Vince Evans will start for the Bears and be allowed nine plays or the right to finish the series which ever comes fiust.

In the series, the Colts hold a 20 - 13 advantage versus the Bears in regular season action. However, Chicago has a 4-2-1 lead in the preseason games against Baltimore.
