The opening period in the mammoth "Salesmanship Club" campaign running on the Transcript shows a score of the most popular men and women of this entire section actively engaged in securing new and renewal subscriptions to this popular paper. As yet, of course, none of the candidates have performed their best but it is an assured fact that during the coming week those who expect to be the winner of one of the capital prizes will get started in real earnest and poll as large a vote total as possible.

Those who expect to be in the lead when the bonus offer closes will be the ones who do the best work the coming week as after next Saturday the votes on each subscription will decrease, and as it is the number of votes and not the number of subscriptions which count, each one should strive to get as many subscriptions as possible before the close of this offer.

60,000 EXTRA VOTES HIS PERIOD.

When it is taken into consideration that 60,000 extra votes are allowed on each $15.00 in subscriptions collected up to and including next Saturday then it is readily understood just why it is so necessary that a candidate get exceedingly busy before the expiration of this offer. Bear in mind that one subscription now averages nearly four times as many votes as will be allowed during the closing period and then make up your mind that it is now or never if you expect to win the beautiful Studebaker as it would indeed be hard for a candidate to catch up after another contestant had secured a large lead, especially after the subscriptions have decreased in value.

The rules of the campaign are such that subscriptions turned in during the opening period, up to and including Saturday, July 21, average nearly four times as many votes as will be allowed during the closing of the campaign. Thus a new subscription which averages 8,000 votes this period only count 2,000 votes at the finish. As stated in the opening advertisement it is not the amount of money turned in which will decide the winners but the number of votes, as one subscription now is worth four later, then it is evident that the ones who do the best work before the close of this offer will be the ones who stand the best chance of winning the capital prizes.

WILL YOU BE A WINNER?

This is a question which every candidate must answer for himself or herself. Will you take advantage of every opportunity to collect votes or will you be satisfied to wait for your friends to look you up in order to give you their subscription? Will you work harder each day, seeing every possible prospect If so, then your chances of winning one of the capital prizes are indeed good. However, if you wait to get started and let those with more ambition and pep than you get a large lead then you are more than likely to be left when the best prizes are awarded, and inviting yourself to win one of the smaller prizes.

Those who fail to get their full share of bonus votes have no one to blame but themselves, as it has been consistently advertised that the votes on each subscription would decrease on the 21st. The subscriptions count less votes each period. Those who listen to the ones who advise them to hold back their subscriptions to the close of the drive are indeed making a mistake, as never again during the entire campaign will the votes on subscriptions count as many votes as are allowed during this offer.

One young lady came into the campaign manager's office last Saturday and explained that quite a number of her friends had advised her not to turn in her votes until toward the close of the campaign. She stated that she would certainly hate to turn them in now and then later on find that she could have gained more by holding them.

The manager explained that as has been advertised the votes would decrease each period and she was foolish to listen to people who knew nothing whatever of the rules of the drive. To impress upon her the fact that all rules o fthe drive would be rigidly enforced, he explained that he would donate $1000 to any charitable institution of this entire section if ever again the subscriptions would be more valuable than now. The lady left the office determined to get as many votes as possible before the votes decreased.

VOTE SCHEDULE EXPLAINED.

As there have been some candidates who have failed to understand the vote schedule, the manager would say that with just a little thought on the part of the workers and it is evident how simple it is. On the back of every candidate's receipt book is printed the exact number of votes allowed on each subscription. This printed schedule is in effect all during the campaign, but an additional bonus of 60,000 extra votes is allowed on each and every $15 in subscriptions collected up to and including July 21. This club of $15 does not have to be in ten-year subscriptions, but every $15, whether in one-year or ten-year subscriptions yields the extra votes.

CANDIDATES MAY STILL ENTER

The polls for new entrants does not close until the 21st, so there is still plenty of time for a candidate to enter the drive. Some of the best territory is as yet uncovered and anyone with energy and ambition can make the next four weeks the most profitable of their etire career. In order to enter one simply clips the coupon in the full page anouncement of the campaign, in this issue of The Transcript and either brings or sends it to the Campaign Manager and he will at once look you up and explain all details governing the drive. The sooner the coupon comes in the better for the prospective candidate, as each day lost can never be regained, so if you want a beautiful STUDEBAKER, clip the coupon now, or at least call the manager at The Transcript Office and let him show you how easy it will be to turn your spare time into real money.

C. A. GOODWIN RESIGNS

L. G. Brown Elected President Chestertown Business Men's Association

At a meeting of the directors of the Chestertown Business Men's Association, held Thursday evening, Mr. C. A. Goodwin resigned as president of the Association, due to the fact that he will leave Chestertown shortly to engage in the automobile business in Baltimore. Mr. Goodwin, in his farewell address to the Association, stated that it is with much regret that he is leaving Chestertown, but he is drawn away due to opportunity and a young man's ambition.

He said that he is leaving in Chestertown some of the best friends that he ever knew.

Mr. L. G. Brown, of the Adkins Lumber Co., was elected president of the Association to succeed Mr. Goodwin. Mr. Brown has resided in Chestertown about four years and during that time he has made many friends here, due both to his personality and good business methods. He is wide-awake, active and progressive, and has been affiliated with every movement for the progress of the town during the past few years. He will make an ideal successor to Mr. Goodwin.

Big Day At Galena August 1

From the preparations that are being made, August 1 promises to be a red letter day in Galena, Kent county. A big baseball game between Massey and Galena will be one of the features. The two towns are close rivals for baseball honors and the game will be one that will be looked forward to with some interest. I tis stated that there will also be a big gathering of the politicians, who will welcome a chance to get in touch with the people of the county.

Nuptial Announcements

Mr. and Mrs. C. Walter Fletcher announce the wedding of their son, Chas. Walter Fletcher, to Miss Mary G. Shopland, of Clark county, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Peterson announce the engagement of their daughter, Olive R., to Mr. Thomas Mogle, ...edding to take place in the near ...

To Go To Wilmington

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has invited all business men, and others who care to accept, to a noon-day luncheon on Monday, July 16. The trip will be made by motor and the visitors will be shown through the city and the magnitude of Wilmington's commercial and manufacturing interests explained by a committee of the Chamber. One of the chief points of interest will be the new three million dollar Marine Terminal. The object of the Wilmington Chamber is a proper co-operaton and co-ordination between the respective interests of the two cities. No doubt the junket will be highly interesting and instructive and of great benefit to the Association. It is desired to have as large a number as possible on the trip and all those interested are requested to get in touch with Mr. Richard Collins, Jr., as soon as possible.

Farm Bureau Under Way

State Farm Bureau Organizer, O. Z. Remsberg, working with the committee of Kent farmers, have about completed, with great success, the soliciting of advs. for the Farm Bureau Special Edition, which will appear on July 28.

The farmers of Kent are becoming much interested in the Farm Bureau and what it is doing for the farmers of Maryland and other states. In the Special Edition, which will be published by the farmers of Kent, will be found articles telling of the work of the Farm Bureau in all patrs of the United States. Be sure to read every article in the Special Edition, as it will be helpful in the operation of the Farm Bureau in Kent.

During the week of July 30, there will be held fifteen meetings in as many different communities of Kent, to tell the story of the Farm Bureau t othe farmers of Kent. No memberships will be received into the Kent County Farm Bureau that week. It will be a week to familairize the farmers of Kent with the Farm Bureau Organization.

The week of August 6 will be membership solicitation week. Every Kent farmer will be visited on his farm and asked to join the Farm Bureau.

The American Farm Bureau Federation is going FORWARD with over a million and a half farmers. Soon Kent County farmers will be marching forward too.
