Carter mounts write-in campaign in A.A. Co.

By Patricia Tatum
AFRO Staff Writer

Sarah Carter, a two-term Anne Arundel County Councilwoman, was forced to give up half of her northeast District 3 earlier this year in the redistricting plan.

Mrs. Carter, a 62-year-old grandmother, was moved to District 1. She ran for a third term in the new district and lost by about 58 votes in the Sept. 14 primary to a Linthicum pharmacist, Theodore J. Sophocleus.

Such a defeat may have persuaded other candidates to hang up their political shingles, but Mrs. Carter, apparently undaunted, has mounted a countywide write-in campaign to regain her A.A. County Council seat.

The campaign, however, is not without
