DODGE BROTHERS

have not simply brought out a complete new line of motor cars. They have done something infinitely wiser and better than that.

They have brought out New Beauty, New Riding Ease and New Mechanical Perfection to the Product on which their Reputation as Builders has been Founded.

They have built a better and a more deservable line of motor cars—yet basicially and fundamentally the idenity of their product remains the same.

The same Sturdy Engine is under the hood, the same dependable chassis, improved in numberless details, underlies the body.

But the rear springs--now underslung--have been materially lengthened. The wheelbase, too, is longer, and the combined result is a notable improvement in riding qualities.

The Receiver Off the Hook

When a telephone user fails to replace the receiver on the hook a serious interruption to the service results. In such cases incoming calls cannot be completed, and the operator is compelled to report the line "out of order."

On party lines, if the receiver is not replaced at any one of the stations, not only is that telephone affected, but none of the other telephones on the line can either make or receive calls. Thus an entire line is put out of service, until the receiver of one telephone is replaced.

Sometimes the receiver is accidentally permitted to rest upon a book, or some object which prevents the hook from coming all the way down. When this occurs it produces the same effect as if the receiver were not replaced.

In cases of this sort a repair man must be sent to inspect the telephone. Some little time must therefore elapse before the receiver is replaced, and during this interval calls of great importance may be lost to the subscriber.

Hawes, The Consumer's League; Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's bureau, Washington; Miss Margaret Bregden, Johns Hopkins Social Service; Miss Lena Waters, secretary, American Association of Hospital Social Service Workers; Miss Dorothy Kahn, secretary, the Hebrew Benevelent Society; Dr. Esther Richards, Phipps Clinic, Johns Hopkins; Earl de Sweinitz, Philadelphia Welfare Federation; Charles H. Johnson, president, the American Prison Congress; William Mueller, Maryland probation officer; Dr. William Burdick, Playground Athletic League, Maryland; and Leon Faulkner of the Maryland School for boys. This list of speakers will give an idea of the scope and nature of the discussions.

Everyone interested in social problems generally is invited to attend the meetings, dinners and luncheons given during the session. This promises to be one of the most fruitful meetings of this sort ever held in Maryland.

We now take up the case of freight rates on wheat. There is particular hazard in movements to adjust rates and fares with a view to benefitting particular classes or groups of the people at the expense of other groups or of the country as a whole.

Freight rates in particular are a constant source of attack, often for class or sectional motives. The assaults will probably be renewed in the next Congress. Are freight rates too high as judged by the general price level? The question is a legitimate one. There are a few comparisons that may prove enlightening.

At the present time the average revenue for hauling a ton of freight one mile on all of the railroads of the country is about pre-war levels. The of all the items embr of living index num by the U. S. Depart 70% above pre-war similar figure as National Industria is 62% higher th war. In additio of railroad emp higher than t wa high call railro dollars a day in taxes good deal more than they in dividends.

Our country has produced too much wheat this year. Our farmers are having trouble to sell the excess abroad. Will the farmers be benefitted by reducing the freight rates on wheat intended for export? Perhaps we shall have to try the experiment to get a decisive answer. At the present time, however, there is one significant fact, namely, that on several occasions recently the price of wheat in seaboard elevators ready to pour into the hold of a vessel has been actually less than the price at Chicago and other interior markets.

Normally, of course, the price at seaboard should have been the price at Chicago, plus the export freight rate. The fact that the seaboard price was lower simply points to the absence of an effective market abroad. In such a situation it is difficult to see how the lowering of the freight rate, or even carrying the wheat to seaboard for nothing, would help to sell it to people on the other side who are either unable or unwilling to buy.

The history of all experiments of this kind shows that the producer of wheat, or any other product or commodity concerned, seldom if ever receives the benefit of a rate reduction. The consumer sometimes does, though not always. In the case of export wheat, the consumer would be the foreign buyer who would receive the benefit instead of the American farmer for whom the benefit was intended. The loss would fall on the railroads.

These are merely a few facts which may be interesting to consider in the light of the impending session of Congress during which the whole question of rate reduction will be debated.

If you want to know the how and why of a good kitchen range, attend the special exhibit of the Majestic Range held at the store of Wm. A. Hyland, Galena, Md., all this week. A fine set of cooking utensils is being given away absolutely free as an inducement to banish your old cook stove now rather than later. It is love at first sight, in most cases, when a housewife sees the bright, permanent finish of the range, and it is love for life, when she sees the rugged construction, the heat-tight joints of the Majestic, which besides eliminating waste of perfect heat control factory expe
