Teen parenting program celebrates 1st anniversary

Representatives from the Maryland Department of Human Resources and the Baltimore community joined church officials for an anniversary celebration of the Teen Parenting Enrichment Program Center at 11 a.m. on Monday, April 6 at 1300 Druid Hill Ave.

The celebration was conducted by Rev. John R. Bryant, pastor of Bethel AME Church and Rev. Joan L. Wharton, the program director.

The speaker for this occasion was Dr. Patricia L. Schmoke. She brought words of encouragement and insight as she spoke from the theme "Going Forward With Your Life inspite of Being a Teen Parent."

The Teen Parenting Enrichment Program is a practical approch to breaking the cycle of dependency often started by teenage pregnancy. It was implemented by the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Teen Parenting Enrichment Program is a family support drop-in center for pregnant teens, teen parents, their children and grandparents on both sides.

If offers informational and instructional services to assist teen parents with child rearing, health, educational and vocational opportunities, counseling, and age-appropriate social and recreational activities.

"We provide a support center where teen age parents can get the help they need to continue their life plans, to finish school, get a decent job, and learn how to build a life for themselves and their children," said Rev. Joan Wharton, Director of the TPEP Center.

"We are convinced that the only way to break the cycle of children having children without any hope of moving up and out of poverty is to start with teenparents. Instead of turning our backs and pretending the problem doesn't exist among Christians, we have to open our hearts, minds, and arms to all the children, and provide practical solutions to this community problem," Rev. Wharton added.

1987 is the "Year of Prayer for the family" at Bethel AME Church, and its 7,000-plus members is proud to celebrate one year of comprehensive programming to reduce the incidence of teenage pregnancy through education, counseling, and life skill training at the Center, which are serving teens from the inner-city community where Bethel has beenlocated for 200 years.

The program funded by a State of Maryland Department of Human Resources grant is free to everyone and offers programs on a day and evening schedule. Church affiliation or membership is not required for participation in the program.

TPEP has serviced approximately 128 girls and over 100 boys, according to Pamela Smith, community outreach person. Ms. Smith said, "Teen parents go through a lot of frustration. They get a chance to come here and talk and are not judged." She concluded, "TPEP is a gap bridger."

—Bethel A.M.E. Church renovated—

By Maxine L. Wallace

Bethel AME Church, known to many as "the church with a heart in the heart of the city," was recently renovated at the cost of over $130,000.

This historic church, located at 1300 Druid Hill Ave., where the pastor is the Rev. John R. Bryant celebrates its 202nd birthday during this the bicentennial year of the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Since February of this year, contractors had been working diligently in repairing and upgrading the foundation of Bethel which is one of the oldest churches in the city.

Under the leadership of Bethel's trustee board, and the administrative head, Rev. Charlotte Clemons, this historic landmark has been beautifully renovated.

Included in repairs and refurbishment are new oak floors in the sanctuary, painting throughout the entire church, new curtains and blinds, new tile floors in the chapel as well as the stairways, new carpeting in the sanctuary, new windows, landscaping on the outside and a new fence.

One of the greatest highlights is the women's bathroom which now has a shower in it. Prior to renovation, the door was labeled, Ladies. It now bears the distinct title, "Kingdom Women."

The men's bathroom has also been renovated.

On March 29 at 6 p.m., there was an appreciation service at Bethel for the contractors.

At that special service, the members of the trustee board received certificates as well as the contractors involved.

The contractors were from Afek Construction Co., Dab Plumbing and Heating, Corporate Floors, Reynolds Smith Painting co., Keith Horton Plumbers, Chase Doors and Windows Service, Baltimore Aluminum Co., Henry and Sons, Wahco and Co., DSE Labs, and Wilson's Janitorial Co.

The money to pay the cost of renovation was obtained through the support of individual members of Bethel as well as presentations made by various organizations and ministries of the church.

Pastor Bryant expressed thanks and appreciation to the Bethel family for their financial support as well as their love and prayers and dedication toward the upbuilding of God's kingdom here on earth.
