The Public School, Our Country's Hope

Educational Department — Kent County Maryland

ALICE FLORER, EDITOR
Supervisor Elementary Schools Kent County, Maryland

AUTHORIZED AND APPROVED BY MR. L. C. ROBINSON, County Sup't Schools, Kent County, Md.

The teachers and the patrons of the schools of Kent County responded nobly to the call of President Coolidge and the American Legion for the observance of one definite week to be known as American Education Week and for the organization of Parent-Teacher Associations in every district. Our slogan for the week was "Open House Every Day and a P. T. A. in every school by the end of the week." We believe the reports will be very nearly one hundred per cent on the entire slogan. In a very few districts there were reasons why the organization could not be perfected during this week but it will be very soon.

The American Legion sensed the psychological needs of the hour when they urged parents to assemble in their respective schools for the purpose of

1. Getting acquainted with the teacher.
2. Looking for the strong and weak points in their schools.
3. Discussing best means of remedying weak points.
4. Organizing P. T. A. to insure uniformity of purposes and activities.
5. Getting the teacher's viewpoint and encouraging her and the pupils by their "good words and good works."
6. Organizing for getting together not only for business reasons but also for social relations.

So far as we know, invitations were extended to parents in every school in the county to visit the school some day during the week to see the regular work as it is carried out from day to day. In some schools, evening sessions were held.

Parent-Teacher Associations were organized in many schools. The Editor of the Kent County Educational Department hopes to report all activities in all schools of the county this week and next. If the report of your school does not appear in these columns, you will know that your school was not reported.

Judging from conversations with a few patrons the results are most gratifying. The parents are observing with profit to themselves and children as they cannot possibly do at long range. They are realizing that the habit forming period in the lives of their children is during the elementary school age. It is certainly necessary that parents note the kind of habits their children are forming. If they are the right kind, it would encourage the teacher to have them tell her they have noted with satisfaction the kind of habits their children are forming. If they are not the right kind, it certainly behooves the parents of children to find out why they are forming the wrong kind of habits. When the P. T. A.'s are perfected the people are going to work with uniformity of purpose and parents will be informed of the kinds of activities that are being promoted in their schools. This will give them a legal opportunity to eliminate the wrong and to support and help to promote all legitimate activities. This will be built up a powerful organization in each school in Kent County thru which the parents of every child in the county will have a voice.

The following schools have reported thus far:

MELITOTA

Mrs. Dorothy Lusby, teacher of Melitota School called a meeting of the patrons of her school for the purpose of organizing a Parent-Teacher Association.

Not all of the patrons were present but those who were there were interested in getting a P. T. A. started. After discussing some phases of the matter we elected the following officers:

President, Mrs. J. G. Leager.
Vice President, Mrs. Elsie Davis,
Secretary, Mrs. W. T. H. Whiteley.
Treasurer, Mrs. J. F. Williams.

After the election of officers they decided to meet December 6. Just at the close of the business meeting, our county superintendent, Mr. L. C. Robinson arrived. We were all glad to see him and he congratulated us for the progress we had made. He talked to the boys and girls about the flag which he had just received from the Jr. O. U. A. M. Then we all marched out and saluted the flag.

We, the children and teacher of Melitota School are very much pleased with the attractive coat of paint being put on the exterior of our school and the new flag which adds much to the appearance of our school.

ROCK HALL HIGH SCHOOL

The week beginning November 18th, was set apart as American Education Week and all schools and churches were requested to emphasize Education during the week.

Rock Hall schools began their (illegible) on Tuesday, November 15 association with a duet.

The chapel exercises on Monday were conducted by the Seniors. They had secured Rev. Atwater of Chestertown as their speaker. Mr. Atwater held the attention of both teachers and pupils by the masterly way he handled his subject. He clearly proved that a high school education would make the boys and girls more capable earners in the economic world, that it would make them more useful, that it would make them happier and that by it they can make the people happier.

On Tuesday, the chapel exercises were lead by the Juniors. They had hoped to have Coach Kibler with them but an injured knee kept him away and his place was filled by the principal, W. A. P. Strang. He spoke of the awakening of an ambition to excel intellectually, that Rock Hall High School might do its part in furnishing the leaders of tomorrow.

The assembly on Wednesday was in charge of the Sophomores and they persuaded Mr. L. C. Robinson to address the school. His manner was very impressive and his demonstrations of the value of High School Education such, that we look forward to being a larger influence in the growth of the community.

Mr. Robinson's talk was followed by a "Pep Meeting" in which the students demonstrated the spirit for which the school has come noted.

On Thursday the Freshmen had indeed prepared a treat. Prof. Hart of Washington College consented to address the school and long and favorably will the school remember that talk. It was instructive, it was appealing, it was highly entertaining.

The entire school is thankful to all who aided us in the week's program. The exercises of the week were closed on Friday morning by the 6th grade pupils of the Junior High School. They had a number of speakers from their own number and they were not outclassed by any of the speakers of the week. They deserve much praise for the manner in which they conducted the assembly without a break. Rock Hall High School is proud of them and feels thoroughly assured that the province of the high school is to "Carry on" and help to provide leaders in Kent County in the next generation.

GALENA

Reported by Miss Lelia Ware, Principal.

Invitations were issued to every parent in the district to visit the school any time during the week. Mrs. Herbert Ford visited the school, On Friday, November 23rd, we shall have the following program:

Recitation—Kitty Hyland.
Song—"Young Crusaders of Peace" Group of girls.
Recitation—Samuel Walters.
Song—Bernice Horsey.
Song—Marie Burns.
Address—State Program of Education, Prof. L. C. Robinson.
Song—"America," school.

CHESTERTOWN HIGH SCHOOL

Monday—Introduction to Education Week. Mr. Creasy addressed the school, taking "The American Constitution," as his subject.

Tuesday—Rev. Atwater was the speaker.

Wednesday—President Paul E. Titsworth, of Washington College.

Thursday—Mrs. Robert Huey.

Friday—Mr. Owen C. Blades.

There were five visitors: Rev. McMeen, Mr. Guetle P. A. L., Mr. Atwater, Dr. Titsworth and Mrs. Huey.

SWAN CREEK

Miss Marvel Ashley, teacher.

The Merry Well Health Club of Swan Creek School entertained the patrons of the school at their health and meeting Thursday, Nov. 22.

Chestertown Elementary

Chestertown Elementary school was highly favored with addresses on Education last week.

Prof. Hart from Washington College gave a short talk packed full of advice and humor.

Rev. Mr. Atwater gave a pleasing address to the little children. Mr. Jno. N. Bennett spoke on the necessity and advantages of an education.

Mr. Geo. McPhail of Sebreig, Ohio, the singer, delighted the classes with gospel songs on Thursday.

In response to an invitation from the sixth grade, who are studying European geography, Miss Eloise Wickes gave, in the Assembly Hall, Friday afternoon, a very interesting talk to the sixth, seventh and fifth A grades about her travels through Germany, France and Italy.

Wednesday was Patron's Visiting day. Those who visited us last week were Mrs. Parks Rasin, Mrs. A. H. Covey, Mrs. D. B. Ford, Mrs. Wm. Bell Mrs. Hollowfield, Mrs. J. H. Sides, Mrs. F. V. Simpers, Mrs. Wm. Speelberger, Mrs. Thos. Willis, Mrs. F. G. Usilton, Mrs. Jas. Kirby, Mrs. R. Zesal Mrs. W. W. Chapman, Mrs. Newcomb, Mrs. Elwood Baker, Mrs. C. L. Atwater, Mrs. Robt. Huey, Mrs. Hugh Hartman, Mrs. S. J. Kreeger, Mrs. George Harrington, Mrs. Herman Blackway, Mrs. R. E. Hopkins, Mrs. Edgar Pyle, Mr. and Mrs. Rumsey Anthony, Mrs. Grace Aldridge, Mrs. A. L. Sterling, Mrs. Louis Hess, Mrs. Wm. Malin, Mrs. Laurence Duyer.

Mr. John N. Bennett gave the address at the Chestertown Elementary School to all grades from 4th to 7th inclusive. Mr. Bennett's talk was one that gave the children food for reflective thinking. He brought out and discussed many points which the children are sure to meet with in life and urged them to prepare now while they have the time and opportunity to make themselves efficient.

Among other things he told them:
1. To be trustworthy.
2. To be alert and pay attention to what is going on around them.
3. That they must be ambitious in order to succeed.
4. They must observe closely.
5. That they must be honest.
6. That they must be obedient to parents and teachers.
7. That every boy and girl owes a debt to their community, country, state, nation. They can pay this debt by being good citizens.

Mr. Bennett was very much pleased when he received personal letters from the Sixth Grade children thanking for his address and ask(illegible)

Phail was at his best, all enjoyed him very much.

Betterton School.
National Educational Week.
Reported by H. H. Rash, Principal.

In spite of the many other activities in the school and community, National Educational Program was fittingly observed at the schools this week. The school authorities intended to make period as impressive and sentimental as possible without causing any great variation from the regular schedule.

Prior to the opening of the week at school the Rev. Mr. Shockley gave an appealing talk on the subject of Education from the standpoint of religion. This was at a social gathering when many of the school children were present. He told in a very striking way, the interwoven relationship between education and religion.

At assembly exercises, the opening of the week was announced and the principal gave short talks on the various subjects according to the daily out-lined program.

Patriotic day was carried out very willingly by all the teachers and pupils Many of the rooms gave a period to the discussion of patriotism and made a study of some American Patriots. Whenever possible the educational significance was dwelt upon.

On Thursday and Friday the School was opened to visitors. Notwithstanding the fact that many of the parents were very busy the school was not without some guests.

In order to have a formal attraction and secure a more directed interest the teachers arranged for a community program Thursday. Mr. Harry Willis one of our capable trustees was invited to give an address on the subject of Education and Illiterary.

Plans were talked of concern(illegible) many problems of the school. Arrangments for a Patrons Club were made and we believe that a better relationship between the home and school can be provided.

The incliment weather on Friday brought our work to an unexpected close. Mr. Arthur Brice was expected to give the boys a little talk but his visit was interrupted by the weather.

The faculty and students want the people of Still Pond and Betterton to feel that they are a part of the school. The school is their institution and without their support it cannot survive. Its life, activity and future depends upon the community support. Also the future of the community must be looked for in the schools.

SPORTS

WASHINGTON COLLEGE TURNS ON ANCIENT RIVAL AND WINS GREAT FOOTBALL VICTORY, 3-0—OTHER SPORTING NOTES

On a dull November afternoon, Saturday, the 24th, with the somber fall twilight creeping steadily toward sunset, after two age-old rivals in all branches of sport had struggled fruitlessly for a verdict for over three quarters, where an eleven that had shown superior prowess on the green sward had been unable to push a supposedly weaker team behind its own goal line, and where a powerful team, with its spirit aroused to its keenest fighting limits, had arisen to its peak in physical perfection, a Northern boy made himself a name on the roster of football fame in a Southern town, whose history and tradition will live as long as the history of the old South lives in the cherished memories of its people. The hero of the gridiron of whom we have referred to above was Bobby Cavanaugh, of Waterbury, Conn., and the place where he wrote his name large in the football history of Washington College is the town of Annapoplis, nestling unpretentiously on the banks of the Severn The feat by Cavanaugh, which gave a victory to Washington College, was a beautiful 55-yard drop kick. The final score was 3-0.

During the many years that Washington College and St. Johns have hurled their football teams at each other, but three times has Washington ever been successful in wearing the victory laurel, and two of these times have been under the athletic superintendency of Coach Kibler. On several other occasions Washington has been able to tie the score with their ancient rival, but victory has been hard to secure. A number of times Washington has neared the end of the game at the long end of the score only to be defeated before the final whistle had sounded. Call it psychology or whatever you will, but for time beyond us St. John's has had some sort of advantage over Washington College which manifested itself as soon as the game started and never ceased to be present until the game was over.

And this "something" was manifested in Saturday's contest, when a few minutes after the game started, St. John's had the ball on Washington's 5-yard line on the first down. But right here Washington's team showed the stuff of which it is made and held their ancient rival for downs in the shadow of their posts.

But even with the psychological advantage, which football experts like Mr. Grantland Rice admit plays an important part in a contest, and which Harvard held for years over Yale, and which was shattered by Yale Saturday in spite of the sea of mud and water like unto the famous Thousand Islands, Washington was able to weather the storm and win one of the cleanest victories ever seen on a state gridiron. They demonstrated beyond a shadow of doubt that, with all the breaks of the game against them, they were able to finish the contest with more points to their credit.

The great kick by Cavanaugh takes rank with Floyd Brown's great drop-kick, which also went for 55 yards, and which has been considered one of the longest kicks ever made in this state.

Not alone to Cavanaugh, however, goes the credit for Washington's wonderful victory, as stellar as his work was in all departments of the game. The whole team played a wonderful game especially when their goal line was menaced. Keenan and Duffy were especially strong on the defensive, and during the first few minutes of play, with the ball on Washington's five-yard line, Keenan, on the very first play, threw the runner for a two-yard loss.

And thus it was all through the game. Wherever the emergency arose Washington was right there to meet it. And that's why sometimes a great football team, or in fact, the great in anything. When the "water" is good, and the skies are bright, and the sea is smooth, then the tiller works easily, the boat answers to the slight movement of the youthful hand. But when storm clouds gather, the sea becomes a seething mass of churned and wind-beaten foam, then to handle the boat requires the hand of a true mariner.

And thus it was with Washington on Saturday, between the 20-yard line (illegible) goal, when the (illegible) and (illegible) on, they did (illegible) of sufficient ability (illegible) their battered craft to the (illegible) haven.

Washington had. There was the difference.

After Washintgon had secured its three-point margin, St. John's made a herculean effort to score a touchdown, but they were met with such a defense that they reeled back, broken and shattered, and realized that they were listed for defeat.

The game was one of the cleanest and hardest fought in the contests between the colleges. Washington had rather win this game than any other on the schedule.

On Monday, the enthusiasm of the Washington College students, held in check on Saturday night and Sunday, was unrestrained, and the celebration went to limits almost unheard of before. Parades, bonfires, cheering and so forth were parts of the celebration, in which young ladies of the college joined with as much enthusiasm as the other sex.

Football is a great game. Hazardous almost to the dangerous point, yet it brings out the best in men, banishes fear, creates enthusiasm and adds to the real joys of life.

Washington won a great victory. To the victor belongs the spoils. All hail Washington!

The Marine Corps football team and the Third Army Corps eleven will meet today in Washington. A number from Kent county will be present. The Marines have won the two games played previously. We pick the Army to win this year. Washington College played both teams, losing to Army by four touchdown and to the Marines by two.

Hunters have begun to report a scarcity of game already. Big bags during the first two or three days will bring this about inevitably. The cover for game is not sufficient in this section to save it from extinction unless the hunters themselves help to preserve it. The bag limit is fa(illegible) Three or four rabbits sho(illegible) bag

The birds are our friends. Let us help them this winter by giving them grain upon which to survive. Birds make the world a better place in which to live. We love their bright plumage and their happy songs. We marvel at their yearly migration. We wonder where they have been, what they have seen from the time they leave us in the fall until they come back in the spring, and what enemies they encounter on the way. We are interested in their family affairs. We love to watch them build their nests and rear their young. We like to study their qualities. Birds are like folks. They are not all good, and some of them have bad habits. But, at any rate, let us yet acquainted with these friends of ours. If we help them by feeding them, they may stay with us always. A landscape without (illegible) like a home without pictures.

A man is a good hunter exactly in proportion that he voluntarily observes the game laws. The hunter who will willfully or deliberately violate the game laws is a poor sportsman indeed. It is only by hearty co-operation that game can be propagated.

A total of 19,120 hunting licenses were issued in Maryland during September and October, an increase of 8,284 over last year, according to State Game Warden LeCompte.

The Eastern Shore Ball League will continue for another year and will become a six-club circuit. Salisbury, Dover, Cambridge, Crisfield, Parksley and Laurel will be the clubs represented.

Washington College will probably have the greatest basketball team in the country this year. Sounds strange, some may think, to make a statement like this regarding a small college. Watch the games for the results and see how far we are out of the way. Washington goes to Annapolis and plays Navy December 12. This is the opening game.

The Girls' Fieldball Team, representing Rock Hall High School, has played remarkable ball all season and marched to the Kent county championship with ease. The titleholders have not been scored on in the four games played. The teamwork of the Rock Hall combination always proves bewildering for the opposition. The winning combination is composed of Rilla Vanzant, Nannie Jones, Beatrice Coleman, Daisy Hadaway, Elsie Downey, Helen Shirley, Alverda Brice (captain), Minnie Jones, Clara Coleman, Elizabeth Leary and Alice Thompson.

Grantland Rice says that if Firpo follows the same course of training for his next bout with Dempsey that he did for his last bout, he will be knocked out in less than two minutes. With proper training he could be made into a most dangerous challenger.

Yale defeated Harvard 13 to 0 last Saturday. The condition under which the contest were held was the most miserable in years. Yale thus secures the championship of the big three. Cornell is undoubtedly the champion of the East and probably of the whole country.

Syracuse beat Nebraska, conqueror of Notre Dame, Saturday, 7 to 0. Had not Syracuse lost to Colgate, they would probably have been ranked with the champion elevens of the country for 1923.
