The Public School, Our Country's Hope

Educational Department — Kent County Maryland

ALICE FLORER, EDITOR
Supervisor Elementary Schools Kent County, Maryland

NEW YEAR GREETINGS

1923 is dead. He came to us a year ago, singing a song of joy and gladness of the confidence and trust he had in us for the new year. He came to gladden the hearts of men and they not only took on new courage, but they caught the vision of a better day and entered into their work with new determination.

He and all of us have made mistakes. We must bury these mistakes with him and not allow them to influence the future, but the good deeds he has done will live on forever.

Just as 1923 passes peacefully out, 1924 enters joyously dancing, his face wreathed in smiles, his heart full of love and with words of encouragement, hope and faith on his lips. He speaks to all but especially do we hear what he is saying to those who have anything to do with the training of the youth of our land. He is saying, Arise! Put on new armor and go forth!

The time has come when the Public School must stand in line for bigger and better things for in it, absolutely lies the hope of our country.

The children you are training today will be making our laws and occupying all positions of responsibility and trust and power tomorrow. The kind of officials these men make depend upon YOU. Go forth! Build for yourselves a tower of strength using the strong, substantial constructive things done by 1923 as the foundation. Let this tower be one that will destroy ignorance and prejudice, strengthen faith in humanity, renew within you all that is Noble, Good and True; strengthen the schools; make more efficient boys and girls; give to all who have any part in the training of young people a new lease on life, energy, enthusiasm, inspiration and sympathy, a new and broader vision of their responsibility so that every boy and girl in our land, so that everybody, may receive new inspiration now, today, this year, to do the best work of their lives.

Aim high, plan definitely, establish the spirit of hearty goodwill and cooperation and see to it that your efforts bring results, for after all, it is results that count in the minds and lives of men.

May we all greet 1924 with the same hearty good cheer in which he enters, and with firm determination, tenacious persistency and with a bigger, broader vision, trusting in the spirit of Him who rules the universe, to aid us each day along the way; go forth and reach the goal.

Group Meetings

Kent County is in the midst of a series of a group teachers meetings for the purpose of planning the work for the remainder of the year.

Reading is the most important subject in any elementary school and Kent County is starting a vigorous campaign on reading at the beginning of this new year.

The meetings have been scheduled as follows:

Millington, January 7th; Galena, January 8th; Kennedyville, January 9th; Worton, January 10. Rock Hall, January 11; Fairlee, January 14; Chestertown, January 15. Every elementary teacher in the county will attend one of these meetings and will have an opportunity to present her problems and it will be a season of "helping each other." But the "Reading Problem" will take first place in these group meetings.

On Wednesday and Thursday, Miss I. Jewell Simpson of the State Department of Education will be with us. She will also talk on Reading. We wish we might have her for the week, but all those who are not privileged to hear Miss Simpson this time, will probably have an opportunity some other time during the year.

The Daily Schedule

Time

TIME is a most valuable factor in the work of any school. It is so extremely valuable that that teacher who plans carefully how to use her time to the best advantage, will best succeed in developing and maintaining real efficiency in herself and her pupils.

HOW to distribute the time during the five or six hours of the day for five school days each week so as to save and make the most of every period is the paramount issue in the making of a daily schedule.

Opening Exercises

From ten to fifteen minutes should be devoted to some kind of Opening Exercises. The children love to sing and this is universally a splendid, invigorating exercise. Sometimes it may be a treat to have children who sing or play or tell stories especially well to entertain the others. If there are those in the district outside of school who sing or play or speak in public let the children invite them to assist in the opening exercises from time to time.

Devotional exercises should form a part of the morning periods of the week. One morning should be devoted to Current Events when all may make contributions. Insist upon the right kind of events being emphasized. Here is one ... where the children can be taught ... "weigh and measure values," to ... good common sense, good judgme... as to what constitutes important cur... rent issues. Every school should have copies of Current Events or the Pathfinder on the reading table.

Study Periods

The daily schedule should contain the study periods as well as class recitation periods. This is essential. One of the best things school can do for a child is to develop within him the power to concentrate, to apply himself to a task until he has mastered it and this within a certa... length of time. The definite st... period during which time he is ... pected to accomplish results will gi... him this power.

Lessons should be prepared following the assignments while the directions are fresh in mind. If the teacher understands the art of correctly assigning a lesson, then conducting the next recitation with that assignment absolutely in mind, the children will leave the class with a real desire to study the next assignment for they will know that the teacher will not accept an unprepared lesson. They will know too, that she had certain, definite points she expected them to master and that she is going to find out in some way whether or not they have mastered these points.

Mental Fatigue

The two brightest periods of the day mentally are from nine to ten thirty and from one to two thirty. Try to plan lessons for intensive study during these periods.

Closing Exercises

Suggestions for the closing exercises will be found in the November 14th issue of this department. It has been a source of much satisfaction to be present in several schools where these suggestions have been adopted and were in operation both for the noon and the closing hours. The teacher and children in each case were enjoying it immensely. Read this article of November 14th 1923 and see if you approve of it and if your school can launch this plan to the advantage of the school. I am hoping this plan may be in evidence in every school in Kent county for it is a long step toward the building of CHARACTER, when children know how to control themselves.

Daily Preparation

The live, sincere, progressive, tea-
