Fall Fashion Frenzy Hosted By Job Corps

Job Corps and WXYV Radio are presenting a "Fall Fashion Frenzy" Saturday, September 3, at Mondawmin Mall. The event will feature teen fashions for fall modeled by young women in the Job Corps Program, as well as displays of various trades that are available to 16-21 year-olds at Job Corps. The show starts at 1:30 p.m. and is free. Job Corps trade displays will be up from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, call 396-7465.

Bon Secours Flea Market

The Community Advisory Board of Bon Secours Hospital is sponsoring a Flea Market Friday, Sept. 9 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. outside the main entrance of the hospital. Items available will include clothing, housewares, bric-a-brac and baked goods. All proceeds from the event will benefit the hospital's Pharmacy Loan Fund.

A VCR, a private plane ride for two to Kent Island followed by a limousine ride and dinner at a restaurant, dinner for two in Little Italy, and brunch for two at a Hyatt Hotel will be awarded in a prize drawing. For more information call 362-3036.

Culinary Hearts Kitchen

St. Agnes Hospital is sponsoring a "Culinary Hearts Kitchen" to acquaint the community with the principles of healthful eating. The program will be held on September 12, 19 and 26, from 7 to 9 p.m., in the hospital's Alagia Auditorium.

During the sessions, the creation of tasteful meals that are low in calories, fat and cholesterol will be demonstrated. The program will be presented by members of the hospital's Cardiac Outpatient Rehabilitation staff.

Cloisters Closes for Fall Housecleaning

The Cloisters Children's Museum will close for a week to clean out the closets, file the filing cabinets, examine the exhibits, and dust the deepest cubbyholes and crevices. From September 3rd through September 9th, the Museum will close its doors to the public for a week of fall housecleaning, evaluation, and future planning.

Come give us the white glove test as the Cloisters reopens on Saturday, September 10th with a new exhibit. "Children, Children, Children" will feature selected artworks from Baltimore City school children in a show curated by Yvonne Hardy, on display through the month of October.

In conjunction with this exhibit, the Museum will sponsor a coloring contest for visitors 12 and under on September 10th and 11th. Children are encouraged to enter their most creative crayon masterpieces based on the theme "Favorite Wish." This national contest features fabulous prizes, including two $50,000 college scholarships.

Parkville Fair Coming

If you have ever wondered how an artist with an air brush paints, here's your chance to watch one in action. Connell Byrne will demonstrate this technique at the Parkville Towne Centre Fair.

The Parkville Towne Centre Fair will be held on Sept. 10, on Harford Rd. between Taylor Ave. and DuBois Ave. The times are from 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Sponsored by the Parkville Business and Professional Association, the Fair will benefit the American Cancer Society and the Little People's Research Fund, Inc.

There will be many demonstrations, Art exhibits, Flea Market and outstanding crafts. Continuous free entertainment with many of Parkville's outstanding talented people performing. Call 665-4421 or 668-3468.

Voter Registration Day

The Baltimore County League of Women Voters will sponsor "National Voter Registration Day" at Security Square Mall on Friday, September 9 from 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. near the mall's Information Center. The organization's goal is to register hundreds of new voters to participate in the upcoming November election.

Foreign Language Associations Hold Fall Conference

The Maryland Foreign Language Association (MFLA) and the Greater Washington Association of Teachers of Foreign Languages (GWATFL) will hold their annual Joint Fall Conference on Saturday, September 24, at the Eleanor Roosevelt High School in Greenbelt, Maryland, from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The theme of the conference will be "Culture: Context for Communication."

There will be several workshops presentations on the teaching of culture and a keynote address by the nationally known authority on cross cultural education, Earl Stevick. All Maryland, D.C. and suburban Virginia elementary, secondary and college foreign language and ESOL educators are invited to attend.

Pre-registration deadline is September 15. Call (301) 256-2693 or (301) 460-4310.

Training Program For Senior Adults

A new job skills program for economically disadvantaged adults, aged 55 and older, offers a unique opportunity for training and work at the Baltimore City Life Museums (BCLM).

Located in Museum Row, just northeast of the Inner Harbor in historic Jonestown, are the Carroll Mansion, the 1840 House, the Center for Urban Archaeology, and the Courtyard Exhibition Center. In addition, the BCLM includes the Peale Museum near City Hall, and the H. L. Mencken House on Union Square.

As part of this program, museum staff will teach eligible applicants to guide and schedule tours, help coordinate the BCLM's volunteer activities, and assist in reception/information services.

Applicants who meet economic eligibility standards set by the Maryland Office on Aging may be hired as Senior Aides. This job skills program is funded by the Job Training Partnership Act and the Maryland Department of Aging and administered by the Education Department of the Baltimore City Life Museums.

Call Randi Rothman or Dale Jones at 396-9910 or 396-3523 before September 15.

Thrift shop seeks donations

The Casino Bargain Basement, a thrift shop operated by the Sheppard Pratt Auxiliary, features good, clean quality clothing, household items, furniture, collectibles, and vintage clothing.

Shop hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday beginning Tuesday, September 6. Tax deductible donations may be brought in during these hours. Large donations can be picked up. Proceeds from the shop go to various patient programs.

Directions to the shop are to be found on the hospital grounds located at 6501 N. Charles Street. For further information call 938-3000 Ext. 4856.

Futrell elected to teaching group

NEA President Mary Hatwood Futrell has just been elected vice president of an international teachers' organization that represents 11 million members worldwide.

Earlier this month, at a convention in Melbourne, Australia, members of the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession (WCOTP) voted unanimously for Futrell.

"There is a natural kinship among teachers all around the world," says Futrell. "All of us — regardless of national boundaries or political ideology — believe that every child has the right to a quality education."

Street fight victim accuses Mike Tyson of 'sneakpunch'

By Dave Raffo

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson suffered a hairline fracture of his right hand early Tuesday in a street fight with former opponent Mitch Green outside an all-night clothing boutique.

Tyson spoke at an evening news conference with his arm in a cast extending to the elbow. Manager Bill Cayton said the cast will be removed in three weeks, when it will be determined if the 22-year-old champion can defend his title Oct. 8 against Frank Bruno in London.

Tyson said he was shopping in Harlem with San Antonio Spurs forward Walter Berry and Berry's cousin, Tom Smalls, when he was attacked by Green.

Berry and Smalls appeared with Tyson to corroborate the story. Tyson said he called the news conference after learning Green pressed charges.

"I'm a victim and then he presses charges on me," said Tyson, who beat Green in a 1986 non-title bout that went the distance. "I guess I hit him over the eye. I was nervous, I hadn't had a street fight in seven years. I was paranoid, he just kept coming at me. I had no choice but to defend myself. He hit me in the chest."

Police spokesman Peter O'Donnell said Green filed a complaint but would not elaborate on the report. He said Tyson initiated no police action and the case is under investigation.

Tyson said the incident happened about 4:30 a.m. EDT outside Dapper Dan's, a 24-hour clothing boutique. Tyson said he was there to pick up an $850 white leather jacket that reads "Don't Believe The Hype" on the back.

Berry and Smalls said Green spotted Tyson inside the store, went in and began harassing the champion.

"Mitch Green walked in talking about how 'promoter' Don King owes him money," Berry said. "He said 'You're with Don King, he owes me money.' He was really harassing Mike."

Berry and Smalls said Green followed Tyson's group to the champion's car, ripped Tyson's shirt and broke the side-view mirror off the car. They both said Tyson told Green he did not want to fight, but Green pressed him. Smalls said Tyson shoved Green down twice.

"Green reports that Tyson hit him a 'cheap shot' on the bridge of his nose — hit him, struck him, you know popped him," said Detective Vincent Jones, a police spokesman.

Asked how many blows Green told police he took from the champ, Jones said, "One, that's all it takes. Most men don't get up after one punch from this guy."

Green, whose career record is 16-2-1, told officers he received five stitches above his nose to close the wound, Jones said. Cayton said Tyson was examined by Dr. David Chiu, who determined the injury was a hairline fracture of the third metacarpal bone.

Green was among four opponents to go the distance with Tyson in 35 fights, losing a unanimous 10-round decision. Before and after their bout, Green balked at the discrepancy in purses and was upset Tyson received much more money. Tyson said Green previously had approached him, apparently looking to fight.

Skins' Morris eagerly awaits meeting with sibling in NFL

REDSKINS PARK — After more than two decades, Jamie Morris is finally comfortable following the footsteps of big brother Joe.

The trek took the pair through scholastic football in Massachusetts, big time collegiate football (Joe at Syracuse and Jamie at Michigan) and into the National Football League (Joe with the New York Giants and Jamie a rookie with the Washington Redskins).

"Joe's always paved the way for me — from Pop Warner (little league football) to junior high to high school to college and into the NFL. He's always showed me how to get to where I have to get," said Jamie Morris who at 23 is 4½ years younger than his brother.

* * *

The Super Bowl champion Redskins picked Jamie Morris in the fourth round of April's NFL draft, hoping he continues down Joe Morris' path to NFL stardom. Joe Morris, who turns 28 in September, is a two-time Pro Bowl running back with the Giants, helping New York to a victory in Super Bowl XXI, while setting a Giants club record with 1,516 yards during the 1986 season.

In four years at Michigan, Jamie Morris became the first Wolverine player to rush for 1,000 yards in three seasons and ended his college career as the school's all-time leading rusher (4,393 yards). Joe had earlier become the all-time leading rusher at Syracuse, eclipsing stars such as Jim Brown and Larry Czonka.

* * *

Should Jamie hold onto his job this weekend, the first team he will face is the brother Joe's Giants, the Redskins' opponent in the Sept. 5 season-opener.

"Going against my brother, it would be an exciting thing. It would be a thrill for me because I've never played on the same field with Joe. This would be a great opportunity for me," Morris said.

* * *

Both brothers have had to deal with the same obstacle throughout their respective athletic careers—their size. Both are 5-foot-7, hardly the size of a prototype NFL running back.

"Everywhere I've gone, size has had no baring on anything," said Morris.

"There are some positions you have to be big. And there are some positions where if you just have the heart you can play," Morris said.

Duckpin loop sets opening

The Baltimore Professional Duckpin Association is prepared for the 1988-89 season.

Opening night is Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. at Fair Lanes Westview, located one block east of Baltimore Beltway exit 15. The ceremonies include a cold buffet and introduction of league officials, team captains and prominent members of the bowling community.

The league was formed in 1961 and is based on a draft selection method similar to ones used in other professional sports, the only league of its kind in the country.

The men's division will enter its 28th season and the women's division will start for the 17th time.

The league bowls 40 weekly matches, plus post-season matches, at Fair Lanes Westview, Brooklyn Bowling Lanes and Greenway Bowl East.

Thanks! — A jubilant Don Buford was thankful Monday when informed that the Orioles had tapped him to direct minor league operations and the instructional clinic for young Bird prospects. "It offers great opportunity to me," he declared, "and fits perfectly my longtime dream of working with youth."

ELDER WINNER — Jim Thorpe's 140 captured the 36-hole Lee Elder Celebrity Pro-Am golf tournament Sunday at Hilton Head. Henry Seymour of Fairfax, Va., was second.

SPORTS weekend

New O's 'teasers'

The Orioles are undergoing (if they haven't already done so) a magnificent transition in the eyes of their patient fans.

They have gone from April "tearjerkers" to August "teasers."

The pathetic (0-21) team that earlier was deemed lucky to win a game, now not only wins one game with consummate regularity, but two in one evening — as it did Wednesday night.

And that's where the image of teaser takes over.

Like the cliff-hanging suspense of an old movie serial, the Birds put together a pair of dramatic 4-3 victories over the Seattle Mariners.

Their appetites whetted, Baltimore fans must now wait until Sept. 6 to taste the excitement again.

That is when the Manager Frank Robinson and his hero cast of Larry Sheets, Eddie Murray, Joe Orsulak, Pete Stanicek — all of whom participated in the thrilling Wednesday performance — return to greet the Red Sox.

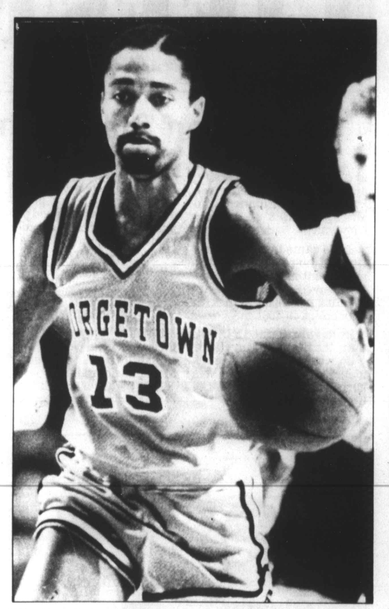
'Maryland million'

The third Maryland Million Day at Laurel Race Course, Sept. 18, will be preceded by a series of events during the first-ever "Thoroughbred Week in Maryland." The purpose of the week, according to Maryland Millin president Jim McKay, is to celebrate the heritage and economic impact of the state's thoroughbred industry.

The elaborate pre-race schedule will begin at 5:30 p.m. Sept. 10, with the statewide showing of "Northern Dancer: Forever a Champion," a tribute to the world-famous Windfields Farm Thoroughbred stalion, over the six channels of Maryland Public Television (MPT).



FILLING THE GAP- When U.S. Coach John Thompson left the bench in Oklahoma City with food poisoning his Georgetown prodigy, Charles Smith felt he should take over on the court. His 17 points led the Olympians to a 91-79 rout of a group of NBA stars Monday night.

It's Hoya-USA time again

DENVER (UPI) — Charles Smith of Georgetown hit a 3-point play with 23 seconds left in overtime Wednesday night, helping the U.S. Olympic basketball team blunt a rally by an NBA select squad for a 105-103 victory.

Smith, a point guard, scored 7 of his 20 points in overtime to lift the Olympians to their sixth victory in seven games against NBA players.

Jeff Hornacek of the Phoenix Suns scored 25 points, including 11 in the final 62 seconds to erase an 8-point deficit and force overtime. With the NBA trailing 91-83, Hornacek hit five straight free throws to cut the margin to 91-88 with 51 seconds to go.

When Danny Manning muffed the inbounds pass, Hornacek picked up the loose ball and sank a 3-pointer to tie the score with 46 seconds to go. Dan Majerle nailed a 25-footer with 14 seconds left to put the Olympians ahead 94-91, but Smith knocked Hornacek to the floor on his 3-point attempt at the buzzer.

Under international rules, Hornacek was awarded three free throws, and he sank them all with four seconds to force the five-minute overtime.

The Olympians took a 102-99 lead with 1:10 to go in the extra period before Hornacek sank two more free throws and a 15-footer to put the NBA team up 103-102 with 40 seconds to go.

Smith answered with a driving layup and converted a free throw to give the Olympians their 2-point lead. The NBA blew a final opportunity when Utah Jazz guard Bobby Hansen lost the ball at midcourt and Mitch Richmond gained possession with 10 seconds to play.

Terp Bullett

COLLEGE PARK — University of Maryland star Vicky Bullet reached the highest level of play in her sport Thursday when she was named to the United States Olympic women's basketball team.

Bullett, who will be a senior at Maryland this fall, survived the final cut for the team. Coaches trimmed the team to its final 12 players, including Bullett.

The team will compete at the Summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea, next month.

Bullett, 21, a Martinsburg native, made the team when head basketball coach Kay Yow decided to keep the 6-foot-3 forward and drop another player, Chana Perry of San Diego State.

"Vicky played real well, played hard and and has a great attitude," said Lynn Norenberg, assistant executive director of the national Amateur Basketball Association, in a telephone interview from Myrtle Beach.

WISTFUL REFRIGERATOR -A slimmed-down William "The Refrigerator" Perry watches the scoreboard minutes tick away on the 17-9 loss by his Chicago Bears teammates to the Cowboys Monday night in Texas. Perry will rejoin the Bears for their next game after 28 days in an eating-disorder treatment program.
