He solicits the cooperation of the Ministers and friends who so ably helped him to put over his program which enabled him to take to conference one of the best reports that was ever given from this charge.

The success of the past year's work was due to the fact that the members had a mind to work and the help of the Lord.

Washington College $250,000 Endowment Campaign Fund

The Washington College $250,000 Endowment Fund Campaign is gaining momentum each week now that the preliminary stages have been passed and the Kent County Campaign is under way. The quota assigned to Kent County by the executive committee is $25,000 and of this sum, approximately $10,000 was reported at the first meeting of the committee Tuesday evening in Reid Hall on the Campus and on every hand was expressed a spirit of optimism that the county quota would be secured by April 8th. The Faculty and employees of the college, not to be outdone by the students, subscribed 100% and these subscriptions will be included in the Kent County totals.

Other sections of the Eastern Shore are making rapid progress. Cecil County will begin its intensive effort this week and conclude before April 15th when it is expected the county quota of $10,000 will have been secured. Associated with Irving T. Kepler Albert D. Mackey are Hugh W. Caldwell, Mrs. Guy Johnson, Rev. J. F. Rowlenson, D. Ralph Andrews, Edward J. Cambell, Joseph Couden, J. C. Riepe, Frank W. Clapp and James M. Holden as a county committee, representing the various centers in the county.

Salisbury alone has accepted a quota of $10,000 and will also begin work this week and with adjacent territory in the county, expects to add to this amount as Wicomico County's share of the fund. President Paul E. Titsworth of the college expressed himself as well pleased with the splendid spirit being shown by citizens up and down the Eastern Shore, particularly as they are organized to carry through in their various centers, their part in the program. Said Dr. Titsworth, "I am confident that as our people realize fully the value of Washington College to the community, there will be whole hearted response."

Having a College on the Eastern Shore means that more of our young friends will get a college education than otherwise for approximately two-thirds of former Washington students would have missed a college education entirely if it had not been for Washington College. We owe this same opportunity to the children of this and coming generations. One reason for this is that our boys and girls on the Eastern Shore can be educated at Washington College approximately one-half what it would cost parents to send them elsewhere. It is unthinkable that the citizens of the Eastern Shore will fail in this challenge from the state because the college is a great asset, giving us better trained leaders in all activities, the professions, business, farming home and government. Washington College also is a wealth producer. Practically 75 per cent of the wealth of the nation is created through the initiative and resoursefulness of college trained men and women. For instance, surveys made in New York and Indiana showed that college trained farmers earned 2.6 times as much as those having a common school education only. Then again statistics gathered over a long period of years show that in the business world, 90 per cent of the college men make good as against 25 per cent of non-college men and it is known that while the college trained, represent less than 2 per cent of our population these 2 per cent produce 72 per cent of the men and women whose accomplishments qualify them in listing Who's Who, the blue book in Producers of American Life. We, on the Eastern Shore, wish our children to have the same opportunities that children living elsewhere have. The only sure way to do this is to build up what is distinctly our own and our only college, Washington."

The second report meeting of the Kent County workers Thursday evening was just as enthusiatic as the first tho the amount reported was not so great. It was not expected it would be for the big report will be made at the Tuesday evening meeting next week which will close the intensive organized effort. The grand total to date for the county was brought to 13,958.

Rev. Chas. L. Atwater in speaking to the workers spoke of three things in which Washington College was permiment which were excellent reasons why every thoughtful citizen should back the program of expansion; first, its splendid influence of simplicity and democracy. There was no snobbery and in all respects it was an economical college to be educated in; second, the influence growing out of its beautiful environment, so fine that it is not surpassed anywhere on the eastern shore of Maryland and it would be a shame to think of moving it elsewhere. It was non-denominational but decidedly Christian in influence, a safe place to send boys and girls. Thirdly, the influence of the personnel of the college, the self-sacrificing character of the faculty, the spirit of the college athletics which played the game fairly win or lose, and the good influence of a student body made up on the average of better, more earnest boys and girls than will be found in many other colleges a good group for our boys and girls to mingle with.

Senator W. B. Copper spoke of the provisions of the bill appropriating the $100,000 and emphasized the fact that it was available only if the $200,000 were raised by the college, that therefore the very future of Washington College depended upon the success of the campaign; it must not f
