SIGNS OF SPRING

WARM DAYS OF OLD SOL TURNING KENT FIELDS AND WOODLANDS INTO A VERITABLE PARADISE OF BEAUTY AND FRAGRANCE

Though the blue bird's shy, sweet minor notes have been announcing for sometime "Spring has come truly" and the robin has been emphasising "the fuller crimson" that has come upon his breast by hopping proudly over the green lawns, it is only this week that the fact has truly dawned upon us that spring, though late, is really here.

The fruit trees are everywhere in full bloom promising an abundance harvest this year. It would be worth while to endure the hardship of going over the county roads to see the orchards on the farms in full bloom. The Magna Flora in the yards of Mr. Wm. Kirby, Judge Wickes, Mr. Turner and Mr. Hubbard are in the height of their bloom and are a thing of beauty. Mrs. Whitter Copper's hyacinths make a lovely picture for the passer by. The forsythia is in full bloom, showing enough gold to satisfy even the eye of the miser. Those of Mrs. Allan Harris and Mrs. Donald Stam and many others are conspicuous in their beauty.

Chestertown has a lovely setting with the green yards bordering the river. The Italian Garden of Mrs. Hubbard, the Sunken Garden of Mrs. Catlin and the green yards of Mrs. Bacchus and Mrs. Judge Wickes terracing to the river with the lovely hyacinth and tulip beds and others too numerous to mention are an inspiring sight. To those who go to Washington to see the plum trees blooming along the Potomac River would see a prettier sight by visiting the grounds of Mr. Hope H. Barroll. There one sees a wealth of bloom everywhere skirting the river banks, plum, magnolia and jonquils all in charming array. No where are the fields of wheat greener, and the flowers and trees more beautiful than in Kent at spring time.

Old Sol may scorch and smite us in summer; but he seems the world's best friend in these days of early spring when he rises earlier each morn bringing a presage of longer daylight, renewed fertility, and outdoor pastimes. The short days of winter have never been popular. Yet his curtain of early dark serves its purpose and shuts out disractions that turn one from one's daily tasks. In winter people find time to read their newspapers more thoughtfully, to ponder over good books, to enjoy friendly intimaces. The cool weather stimulates energy, and working habits are less interrupted by outings and vacations. But the returning sun brings a thrill of anticipation. Folks who fret and grumble under the July sun are yet captivated by the fascinations of the seed catalogue which they study under the February lamp. The women folks are excited by the spring fashions and plan new and fetching costumes. It is not surprising that primitive people worshipped the sun. His departure in autumn seemed the defeat of life. His return in spring was the victory of light and fertility. There is something majestic in this procession of the seasons. It gives one confidence in the universe, makes one feel that seed time and harvest, day and night, summer and winter, shall not fail, but each shall perform its loving service for the welfare of humanity.

HARRISON W. VICKERS NOT TO BE REAPPOINTED.

Harrison W. Vickers, Esq., of this county was advised by Gov. Ritchie Wednesday that he will not reappoint him Conservation Commissioner of this State. Rumors to the above effect have been in circulation for the past six or eight months, but Mr. Vickers was not definitely notified until last Wednesday. His term of office will expire, we understand, May 1. It is generally believed that he will be succeeded by Swepson Earle, who is now Engineer of the bureau of Conservation. Mr. E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, is also understood to be a possibility.

Candidates File Paper.

The following have filed their certificates with the supervisors of Election in this county as delegates to the State Convention which meets in Baltimore May 22. C. S. Hurlock, Massey Dr. Merritt Brice, Millington; W. B. Copper, and Harrison W. Vickers, Chestertown; G. Ellsworth Leary and Charles R. Kerr, Rock Hall.
