THE POLITICAL SITUATION

AFTER ALL that has been said and done, the political fight in this county on Monday next May 5, for the delegates to the State Conention, narrowed down to the question of the political control of this county between Senator W. B. Copper and his followers and Harrison W. Vickers, Esq., and his followers. The injecting of the road question in this campaign is done simply to distract the attention of the voters from the main issue at stake, and to array one section of the county against other sections, which we do not think should be done. Voters do not be deceived by publications and statements about Senator Copper's position on roads in this or that section, as these statements are only made to prejudice the voters and to try to make them believe that the Senator is responsible for the state road going to Tolchester instead of being placed in Piney Neck or in any other section. This was clearly explained by State Road Commissioner Mackall to a delegation from the Fifth District and Senator Copper on Tuesday last at the Commissioners office in Baltimore. We understand there is effort on the part of one or two of that committee to misrepresent the facts as stated by Mr. Mackall. We also understand that there is to be another statement published about a state road to Worton and other sections of the county for the purpose of trying to make political capital. Voters do not be deceived by such statements—the question in this campaign is whether Senator Copper and his followers or Harrison W. Vickers, Esq., and his followers are to control the political destinies of this county and it is for you to decide that question on Monday next. Your vote next Monday will determine that question and it is for you, and you only, to decide.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30th.

Case of State vs. James N. Lane ...der was set for trial on Wed... by the Court. An error was ...have ben made in tht indict... ...esday night, whereupon the ...was reconversed on Wed... ...he Court adjourned for ...

...DAY, MAY 1st.

...tate vs John Webb, for ...ken up on Thursday ...case was removed ...because Webb asked ...enue. The case was ...urt, Judges Wickes ...n the Bench. The court room was packed for the trial, many from Cecil county being present, with a big sprinkling of woman and girls. The State was represented by States Attorney Clayton, of Cecil County, and States Attorney Beck, of Kent County, while Webb was represented by Messrs. Omar Crothers, of Cecil, and H. W. Vickers, of Kent. It seems, that according to the Smillett children, John Webb and Charles Kassing, came to the Smillett home, where the murder was committed, armed with a gun and a club, on the night Joe Doraine a hired man who had charge of the Smillett children, while their father was working in a nearby city, was killed. Doraine refused to fight or come out of the house into the darkness. He was shot through the window and killed immediately. Kassing will be tried in Cecil County later. The State's chief witnesses were the Smillett children, eight and eleven years old respectively a girl and a boy. While the lawyers for the defense tried to confuse the children with questions in the cross-examination, the children told straight tales of how the murder was committed and how they stayed in the house for 48 hours with little to eat and afraid to go out over the body of the murdered man.

Webb went on the stand in his own defense and told how he went to the Smillett home in quest of a hog box for his sister; how Kassing accompanied him; how he brought back the box, but left behind the lid of the same how he returned for it and how he rapped upon the door on one side of the house and heard the report of a gun from another part; how he hurriedly left the Smillett home in the darkness; how Kassing, a much younger man, hailed him and told him that while attempting to attract Doraine's attention, his gun had been accidentally discharged; how he and Kassing had left Cecil for Delaware not knowing that a man had been killed; how he had secured paint brushes, etc., with which to decorate his sister's home near the scene of the crime; and finally how he returned almost to the spot of the murder in a few days' time and was taken into custody without knowning a man had been killed. His story was a most thrilling one and in direct contradiction to that of the children in the morning. The case was continued on Thursday evening. Each side brought in a big array of witnesses. Throughout the same Messrs. Crothers and Clayton engaged in a legal battle of more than ordinary interest, with Messrs. Vickers and Beck acting in an advisory capacity. On Thursday night the evidence for both State and defense was concluded.

FRIDAY, MAY 2nd

On Friday morning the Court heard the argument in the case of State vs. John W. Webb was heard by the Court.

The court, at 3 p. m., yesterday, found Webb guilty of murder in the second degree, and Judge Wickes sentenced him to fourteen years in the Maryand Penitentiary.

The case of State vs. J. N. Lane, for the death of James Jones, will come up in June. It will be remembered that Jones, a negro, as killed in a pitchfork fight in Quaker Neck in December.

The case of State vs. John Robinson, for the murder of Lewin Graves, near Kennedyville, on trail yesterday afternoon, beginning at 2 p. m. State's Attorney Beck will prosecute the case and John D. Urie, Esq., will appear for the defence.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE ENDOWMENT FUND CAMPAIGN

The $250,000 Endowment Fund Campaign of Washington College makes progress with the quarter way mark in sight. With the intensive effort completed in Kent County the campaign is settling down to the steady, hard pull that will characterize the work throughout the state and elsewhere among the friends of this historic institution.

Asked as to the prospects of success, Dr. Paul E. Titsworth of the college said it must succeed, there was no other alternative unless it would be closing the doors of the institution, and such a contingency was not to be thought of.

In Cecil County, Chairman Irwin T. Kepler advises that about one-half of their $10,000 quota is pledged with prospects for the balance very good as no reports have yet been made from Port Deposit, North East and Rising Sun centers.

Chairman, Mrs. George A. Bounds of Wicomico Couny reports slightly under $5,000 or one half of their quota secured so far along and the remaining counties on the Eastern Shore are just beginning their organization and work.

The Alumni in New York City have reached about $10,000, in Baltimore approximately $5,000 is secured, and in both cities the organization expects effective results will be forthcoming during the next two months. Philadelphia workers are organizing and will likewise make a good showing.

BASE BALL

Washington College lost a close game to St. Johns College on Friday afternoon by the score of 2 to 1. Bock of St. John's held the visitors to six singles, scattered except in the sixth, while Hickman was hit safely 10 times a triple being included.

Washington College played Blue Ridge at New Windsow on Friday and will play Mt. St. Mary's today, Saturday at Emmitsburg.

Washington College defeated Loyola in a baseball game here Thursday, winning by the overwhelming score of 26 to 8. Loyola used five pitchers in a vain attempt to stem the tide of passes and base hits. All the Baltimore hurlers were wild, and when they succeeded in finding the plate the Chestertown batsmen almost invariably sent the ball rattling against the boards. McGran pitched for the home team and held the visitors in check throughout. He allowed eight hits, but kept the blows widely scattered, except in th first and third innings.

Smooth and McGran led the hitting for Washington, the former getting three safeties out of three times at bat and tht latter getting three out of four Smooth had a single, double and triple. Loyola fielded badly.

A CONTRADICTION BY DR. DILL THE CHIROPRACTIC

The wonderful success of Chiropractic in acute and chronic diseases has been so great that it is causing hundreds of sick people from Kent and adjoining counties to flock to the Health offices of Dr. Dill for genuine and permanent relief.

Some few unscrupulous persons (enemies of the sick) have tried to disparge the efforts of this Drugless Method of restoring Health by making the untruthful statement that Chiropractic is only a "temporary cure," and that the practitioners of Chiropractic though generally very successful, are in practise only to commercialize the ailments of humanity for profit alone.

Such statements bear no relation to truth. Every practitioner of Chiropractic to be successful must produce results on cases given up by other doctors as incurable.

The results of Chiropractic, unlike other methods are permanent there being no re-urrence of the trouble after the nerves ar freed from pressure and the sick or diseased part of the bod allowed to function normally.

95% of the people who come to this office with ailments leave their ailments behind, if they give this method of Drugless Healing a fair chance to restore health.

Do not let prejudice interfere with your Health. Call on Dr. Dill the Chiropractor now, Phone 326.
