CRAB INDUSTRY DECLINING

STATE CONSERVATIVE COMMISSIONER GIVES STATISTICS REGARDING THE INDUSTRY.

Considering that many young crabs are being killed annually because of inadequate protective legislation, the crab supply is about normal and the season is on," Swepson Earle, State Conservation Commissioner, said recently from an inspection trip to Crisfield and other points. Commenting on the crab situation in the State, Mr. Earle said:

"At Crisfield there are 75 crab houses in operation. One of these houses reported last Wednesday that it had shipped 1,000 dozen soft crabs that day.

"Soft crabs are just passing the three-inch stage, so I do not anticipate further violations of the law prohibiting the catching of these crabs under three inches long. Inspectors have been stationed at the packing houses, however, and all violators of the law will be prosecuted.

"The crab industry has declined in the last 15 years. In 1910 the United States Bureau of Fisheries published statistics showing that in that year 120,000,000 soft crabs and 25,000,000 hard crabs were shipped from Crisfield While I cannot predict how many crabs will be shipped from this community this year, it is safe to say the figures will be nowhere near the figures for 1910.

"This is owing to inadequate protective legislature for the crab. The female leaves for the Capes, where strong salt water is present in greater abundance to develop the eggs. The female crabs are then in Virginia waters.

"If the crab is to be saved for both States, it will be necessary for Virginia to enactlegislation prohibiting too frequent scraping of the egg-sponge on the female crab. This scraping occurs during the Virginia dredging season, from November 1 to March 1.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving memory of our dear little daughter, Della Gertrude George who was called home three years ago today.

Safely, safely gathered in
Far from sorrow, far from sin,
God has saved from weary strife,
In its dawn her fresh young life.
Now she waits for us above,
Resting in the Saviour's love;
Jesus, grant that soon we may meet
There adoring at Thy feet.

Sadly missed by her lonely
Mother and father.
