What Co-operation Can Do.

The cooperation by those involved, and all working for Chestertown brought about the retention of the Post Office in its present location. Again this week we find another public spirited transaction which makes it possible for Chestertown to have a new industry, employing about twenty five ladies. Kirby & Chance, Chestertown's new bakers, being forced to seek a new location, due to increased business, had rented from Mr. Vernon Barnett the building on Calvert and Mt. Vernon Place, as a bake-shop. About the same time the Business Men's Association received notice that a shirt factory could be brought to Chestertown if a suitable location could be found.

The Business Men's Association brought about an agreement where-by Kirby & Chance canceled their contract in favor of the factory and the Association is to acquire a suitable location for the bakers.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE

Mr. William Knowles Copper, of Washington, D. C., will lecture in William Smith Hall Tuesday evening, Oct. 28th at eight p. m. His subject will be "How Big Strikes are Settled."

On Friday, Oct. 31st, the Washington College Cotillion Club will hold its annual Masked Halloween dance in the College Gym. Dancing will start at 8.30 p. m. The music will be furnished by an out of town orchestra.

A straw vote was taken at the college last Monday. When the votes were counted it was found that Davis had 62, Coolidge 53, and LaFollette 10. If this had been the electoral college the election would have been thrown in to the senate.

Mr. Wm. R. Tinker Secretary of the Eastern Division of the Student Y. M. C. A. and a member of the National committee of the Y. M. C. A. lectured in William Smith Hall on Thursday evening, Oct 16th.

His subject was "A Youth's Movement" and he spoke of the accomplishment of the young men who gather together to study the Bible and how much they can influence their own lives and the lives of others if studied conscientiously.

There are many youth movements, today but there is one in American that is making such great strides as to be worthy of special notice.

It began 38 years ago in the little villiage of East Northfield, Mass., when 250 college students met to study the bible with Dwight L. Moody. The story its achievements during the last generation reads like a romance, but the movement is still so young and so vigorous that its progress today bids fair to equal if not surpass the records of the youth of 38 years ago.

The source of the movements wishes and power and seal is still traceable to the gospel records.

Fire At Locust Grove

Crisfields Home and Store Burns to the Ground.

Locust Grove was visited by a disastrous fire yesterday morning when the large home and store building of Mrs. E. R. Crisfield was burned to the ground. The fire started from a defective flu, and, in spite of heroic ecorts of the Locust Grove people, the building was soon a mass of smoldering ruins. Nothing out a few household goods were saved from the quickly spreading flames. The building was insured. A brisk breeze was blowing at the time of the fire, but, fortunately, the wind was in such a direction so as to blow the sparks away from the neighboring buildings, otherwise the whole town might have been destroyed.

Shortly after the fire started, the fire departments of Chestertown, Millington and Middletown were appealed to for help and all three were soon at the scene of the fire, Chestertown's Company arriving first. Although the fire trucks arrived too late to save the building they used their chemical tanks to keep down sparks and prevent the fire from spreading.

The Crisfield store has stood there for many years and is well known in all parts of the county. Another building will probably be erected upon the site.

Will of Late J. Biddle Hossinger

The last will and testament of the late J. Biddle Hossinger, of near Chestertown, was field in the Kent County Orphans' Court on Tuesday last by S. Scott Beck, Esq., attorney. After all his debts are paid he leaves all his property, real, personal or mixed to Mrs. Hester J. Strong, wife of J. Edgar Strong absolutely and in fee simple. J. Edgar Strong is named executor. The will was made March 14, 1922, and witnessed by Wm. B. Usilton and Frank V. Simpers.

Miss Blanche E. Lockwood, the Public Health Nurse may be found at the Chestertown Health Center every Thursday 1, to 4 p. m.

Any children wishing to be weighed and measured are invited. The Public is also invited to consult with Miss Lockwood on any subject pertaining to Health.

Watch for notices of special clinics when specialists will be in charge.

There will be a Tuberculosis clinic Nov. 10, at 2 p. m., at the Chestertown Health Center, Dr. Nicholas in charge.

Fire Destroys Residence

While his wife and children were in Baltimore and Mr. Patrick was in Chestertown, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Romie Patrick, near cemetery Hill, Chestertown, was destroyed by a fire, which started about 11 p. m. on Friday evening last, causing a loss of about $1500. A lighted lamp exploded and caused the fire. Everything in the house was destroyed, including furniture, canned goods, etc., when discovered by neighbors, the house was ablaze, and, although local firemen and neighbors did good work with inadequate equipment, they were unable to control the blaze and had hard work to save nearby property. The loss was only partly covered by insurance.

A Sad Accident

Miss Margaret Nickerson, aged 53 years, died Thursday morning, Oct. 23, as a result of a fall which she had at the home of her brother's, James A. Nickerson, Wednesday evening.

Miss Nickerson, while moving about the house Wednesday evening, fell down the cellar stairway, butting her head a blow sufficient to cause her death. Aside from the blow that caused her death she sustained a broken limb.

She is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Samuel Nickerson, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Harry T. Rash, John Nickerson, James A. Nickerson, and Augustus T. Nickerson.

Funeral will be held today Saturday, Oct. 25, at 2 p. m. Rev. Dr. Trout to officiate. Bearers: Robert Hill, Harry Hill, Charles Bedwell, Louis Price, Wm. Jewell and Wm. T. Hague. Interment in Chester Cementery, C. L. Dodd, undertaker.

Lectures at Washington College

President Titsworth, of Washington College, has arranged a fine series of lectures for Washington College students and Chestertown people who care to attend. These lectures will be held on Thursday mornings. The following is the schedule of lecturers:

On Thursday, October 23, the Rev. erend O. E. Jones, District Superintendent of the M. E. Church will speak. October 30. Alan Johnstone, chairman of Criminal Justice will be at William Smith Hall. He is the managing director of that institution. November 6, Swepson Earle, a member of the Conservation commission of this state will be heard. November 13, Harry P. Hopkins, Architect for Baltimore will speak. He is the man who designed the Washington college gymnasium. November 20, Dr. A. S. Cooke, State Superintendent of Education. December 11, Lieutenant Commissioner G. T. Rude of Washington, D. C.
