RETURN GOLDSBOROUGH TO CONGRESS

At no time in the history of Maryland have residents of the Eastern Shore had a better opportunity to demonstrated their appreciation of real public service, of high-grade, intelligent and effective representation in the Congress of the United States, than the opportunity afforded them in the coming election, in which Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough, Representative in Congress from this, the first Maryland District is a candidate for re-election.

Since Mr. Goldsborough went to Congress four years ago, no Congressional District in the land has enjoyed a higher type of representation than the Eastern Shore. Mr. Goldsborough has made a real impression upon that great Assembly, which number among its members the intellect of the entire nation. He has so impressed his colleagues in both Houses of Congress that any proposition he advocates, receives more than passing notice—it receives thoughtful consideration and is regarded in a favorable light, because the men who make up the two houses of the National Congress, know that the able representative from the Eastern Shore is a clear thinker, is very sincere, and is one of the most industrious members of the lower house.

Many sections of the country have long ago learned something that the Eastern Shore, it seems, is just learning. And that is the fact that a new member must spend practically all of his first term in familiarizing himself with the operations of the National Assembly. The states which enjoy the limelight in the activities of Congress, which have representatives who really amount to something in our affairs of government, which really accomplish something for their Districts and their country, are the States, or rather the Congressional Districts which select a good man to represent them in Congress and then keep him there. A congressman's value to his constituency increases yearly, because he becomes each year better acquainted with the affairs of government and increases his prestige in the National Assembly by continuous membership. In this connection it is well for residents of the Eastern Shore to remember that Mr. Goldsborough is not a new member, but is now closing his second term in Congress, and that during that time he has established for himself and his District a permanent place in the regards of his fellow members.

Mr. Goldsborough has worked in Congress with some purpose of a permanent and definite nature. His bill to stabilize our finance has attracted nation wide attention. He is working out a proposition that is worthy of the life efforts of any representative. In addition to this, he stands right and has stood right on every public question. No man could be more devoted to the interest of his people than Mr. Goldsborough.—Editorial From Crisfield Times.

Interesting Lecture At College

"The great problem of life is living together and prospering together." So William Knowles Cooper, general secretary of the Washington, D. C., Y. M. C., who spoke at Washington College Tuesday evening asserted. His subject was "How Big Strikes are Settled," a national topic of interest to every citizen of this United States.

Mr. Cooper talked upon his personal experiences as an arbitrator in the Bakers' strike of four years ago and the Street Railway strike of last April, both of which occurred in Washington.

One of the most outstanding statements made by Mr. Cooper was to the effect that the thoughtful leaders of labor and the thoughtful leaders of capital were coming to realize and believe that there is a growing acceptance of Christianity as a basis for the settlement of economic disputes. He interpreted his own personal experience as supporting this point of view.

Quite a number of the towns people were in attendance at the lecture and expressed themselves as being quite pleased with Mr. Cooper's address. The people of Chestertown and the people of the surrounding towns are cordially invited to attend these lectures, of which there are to be quite a number during the next few months.
