WAR PREMIERS HAVE VANISHED

Great Men. Who. Were. Dominating Figures In Great World Conflict Have Passed

One by one the figures that dominated the late World War are disappearing. The Czar of Russia has came to a bloody end, although his place has been taken by a tyranny no less bloody It seems that the mass of the Russian people are doomed for some time yet to tyranny by a small minority.

The German Emperor, one of the most picturesque figures before the war, has become a common Dutch burgher, an exile in a foreign land.

The Emperor of Austria died some time ago of a broken heart and his empire has been dismembered.

Lloyd George, President Wilson, Georges Clemenceau and M. Poincare have disappeared from public life, although M. Poincare is still Senator from the Meuse and heads the party of the opposition in France.

As it was pointed out in a recent article, scarcely fifty men knew of the Great War before it broke forth and the fate of multitudes of human beings depended upon the decision of the few. Such a thing as a whole nation voting for war was unknown. The people were puppets controlled by a few.

Ebert, the saddler, bils the seat of the greatest of the Kaisers. An unknown Russian, lesser man Lenin, occupies the throne of the Czars. A Socialist is Prime Minister and an engine wiper Colonial Secretary of Great Britain. A newspaper editor dictates the policies of Italy.

Except for a few harmless kings who are retained as souvenirs from the happier past, the rulers and their cabinets have been cleaned out.

The war and its subsequent period have witnessed the dissolution of four empires—the Russian, Austrian, German and Ottoman—and the British commonwealth gives indication that theEmpire of Great Britian is more a consideration than an empire. The British King, the King of Belgium and the ruler of Serba are about the only remains and relics of former times that are left.

Washington College to Renew Drive

The second stage of the Washington College drive to complete its $250,000 Endowment Fund was begun last Saturday when the Board of Visitors and Governors of the College elected Dr. Albertus Perry, of the Methodist Board of Education of Chicago, as Field Vice-President of Washington College.

Dr. Perry is a graduate of Middlebury College, an M. A. of the University of Chicago, and a Ph. D. of Temple University. For six years he has acted financial expert in the Department of Finance of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with the official title of Conference Director of College Advance Movements.

His work has included direction of an assistance in campaign for Evansville college, Central Weslyan, Simpson and Dickinson. During the war he operated for the Red Cross in Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska.

Dr. Perry will take immediate charge of the college campaign to raise its full quota for the Endowment Fund. He will devote his entire time to this end. His employment represents a big step ahead in the advancement of the fortunes of Washington College. He is a man who has given his best efforts in the promotion of campaigns for the benefit of colleges throughout the entire country. There is little doubt but what he will prove the needed force to put the Endowment Fund campaign over and place Washington College where it belongs in the fields of education.

Success in the completion of the Endowment Fund campaign, which is practically assured through the election of Dr. Perry as Field Vice-president, should mean a great deal to the people of the Eastern Shore. Washington College, the only college on the shore, is one of the oldest institutions of learning in the country. It offers an opportunity for every high school pupil of this section to attend college and obtain a Grade A course of study for Washington College was recently made a class A college. With the completion of the campaign many improvements will be started which will establish further opportunities for students who attend the institution.

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, president of the college, who has been a hard and consistent worker in the interests of the Endowment Fund campaign and the college as well, feels that the concentrated efforts of the officials connected with the college directed by Dr. Perry will finally put the campaign over and establish Washington College as the institution of learning in the minds of the people on the Eastern Shore.

Professor William R. Howell, M. A., B. D., has been appointed graduate manager of athletics of Washington College by the board of Visitors and Governors. This action marks a new era in Washington College athletics,for it is the first time in the history of the college that athletics are placed under the supervision of one head.

The student athletic association, at a meeting, voted unanimously in favor of Professor Howell for the position. Professor Howell has been associated with the college athletics since coming to Washington, and always has been an ardent supporter of the teams. He is well liked by the entire student body and officials of the college. His work will be watched with much interest.

The change in the supervision of sports will not affect the undergraduate manager system now in vogue at Washington, in the least. The usual elections will be held as prescribed in the student council rules, under which the college is run.

A BIG TEAM

Twelve Oxen Used In Biblical Times With Which To Till Soil.

There was a time in Kent County when oxen were used to help till the soil, but that time has passed.

In the nineteenth chapter of I King we are informed that Elijah "found Elisha, the son of Shaphat, who was plowing with 12 yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth."

I had always supposed that this meant that Elisha and the hired hands were out plowing with 12 yoke; I did not suppose he was driving 12 yoke of oxen in front of him, though the Bible seemed to say so. The Rev. F. Kurtz, missionary in India, writes me a letter that ought to interest all lovers of the Bible, all dirt farmers and many others.

"I am living in an Oriental land where oxen still do all the plowing. I had seen frequently seven yoke of oxen plowing the same field, but a few days later I was traveling through the country on my tours and as I came over a little rise of ground what did I see but 18 yoke of oxen plowing a field, one following the other, just as in Elisha's time!

"We missionaries who are accustomed to use the Bible in these Oriental lands are continually getting new light on old truths. The West has gotten so far away from the Orient that many things in the Bible seem to be out of place until one can see the Bible incidents in real life. No Indian Christian would have doubted the 12 yoke of oxen story.

Crop Decrease This Year.

While growing crops in Maryland shows 2 per cent. improvement in condition over last month production generally will be less than it was last year according to a bulletin issued this week by John S. Dennee, United States Department of Agriculture statistician in this district.

Of 15 major crops, 10 show decreased production from last year, the bulletin showed.

Crops with greater production this year than in 1923 are barley, oats, Irish potatoes, hay and peaches.

The increases are slight in all except hay, which shows a yield of 710,000 tons, against 420,000 tons in 1923.

Crops with smaller yield this year than in 1923 are corn, wheat, buckwheat, canning corn, canning tomatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, apples, pears and grapes.

The estimated corn yield is 15,000,000 bushels against 25,231,000 bushels last year, and the wheat yield 7.505,000 bushels as against 10,426,000 bushel in 1923, the bulletin stated. Sixty-seven per cent. of the wheat yield was marketed by October 1, it was reported.
