Farmers, List Your Repair Needs

It would be hard to find a farmer who at some time or another had not lost valuable time waiting for necessary repair parts. Take this territory and total up the time lost in this way and it will astonish you. And all because repairs are not odered as early as they should be.

There is no better time than right now—just before the busiest season on the farm—to go over your machines carefully, make a list of repairs you are likely to need and send it to us. With this list in our hands, we can order our stock so as to be prepared to meet every call promptly.

Repair part service is a necessary part of our business. We realize what it means to you in time and money to get what you need at once. Help us to help you by making up your list now and sending it in to us.

THE TELEPHONE IN AMERICA

Nowhere else in the world is telephone service as cheap as in the United States. Nowhere else does a telephone subscriber find his phone will reach as many people, and positively nowhere else—and this includes New York City—can he get such prompt, intelligent and painstaking service.

In other countries, in many instances, the telephone service is either owned by the government—in which case those who have had occasion to use such telephone service say it is atrocious—or it is so controlled and supervised by government that the restrictions and regulations regarding telephone use make telephoning a pain instead of a convenience. Here the telephone is at its best and the price for using it is lower than prevails in other countries where governments have deadened and paralyzed its uses.—"New York Commercial."

TELEPHONE USED IN WHITE HOUSE OVER 44 YEARS

Executive Mansion Today Boasts Elaborate Wire Connection With Outside World.

It was in the early part of 1880 that the telephone was first introduced into the White House.

This was shortly after the opening of the first central office in Washington, when an individual grounded-circuit line was installed at the White House. This telephone was located in the executive office, and later there was an extension connecting the office of the Secretary to the President.

Not until 1898 was a telephone system installed, connecting the White House with all other governmental departments. This system was partially superseded in 1901, when a small switchboard was installed.

In 1904 a larger switchboard was installed and more stations connected, and in 1918 a standard No. 4, 80-line switchboard was installed. At the present time there are in the White House four central office trunks, one long distance recording circuit and 37 instruments.

"Main 6" is the White House telephone number, but everyone who calls in the hope of talking to the President or his Secretary, is not allowed to do so. In fact, the operators are given discretionary powers and rank as assistant secretaries. Most of these operators are familiar with the voices of cabinet members, senators and other important officials, so that they readily identify them when they call up the White House on the telephone.

SAVE TELEPHONE USERS MILLIONS IN ANNUAL COST

Eight Improvements Resulting From Research Cut Expense $70,000,000 a Year.

Research and development studies in the telephone industry are constantly bringing forth new methods and inventions which, in addition to improving the service, save telephone subscribers many million dollars per year. A conservative estimate of the savings resulting from only eight of the many new developments adopted within the last few years indicates that an economy in initial investment of $465,000,000, and an annual saving of $70,000,000 have been made possible by these eight devices alone. This represents a saving of more than $4.65 every year for every telephone served by the Bell System.

For example, among the many improvements which have been worked out to develop long distance telephony there is one that has made possible especially great economies in the construction of long distance lines. This is the telephone repeater, which picks up the speech currents at intervals along the line, when they have become weakened by distance, restores their volume and sends them along with renewed strength. By the aid of this apparatus it is possible to use a smaller wire on long distance lines than otherwise would be necessary, and during the first six years of its use the device effected an initial saving in line construction of nearly $100,000,000. In 1921 alone, nearly $13,000,000 was saved to the telephone users of the United States in interest, depreciation and similar costs, as a result of the economies in telephone line construction made possible by these repeaters.

An aerial cable has just been completed between South Bend, Ind., and Niles, Mich., replacing an open wire line and extending the cable system of the Long Lines Department of the Bell System.

Employees to the number of 5,000 serve the telephone in the city of Detroit. Nearly 3,000 of these are operators in the 16 central offices. The telephone company employs 10,000 people in the state of Michigan.

SPORTS

Washington Primed To Give Mt. St. Mary's Big Battle Today—Good Game Lost Saturday.

The Washington College football team will journey to Emmittsburg on Saturday and play one of the most important games on the schedule with Mt. St. Mary's now that St. Johns is relegated to the "second-string" colleges in athletics, the contest seems to be between Washington and Mt. St. Mary's for state honors along all lines of sport. Today's game should furnish many thrills.

The Washington College football team journeyed to Myerstown on Saturday and lost a poorly officiated game by the score of 7-0. Washington got all the worst of the decisions which had any effect on the outcome of the game. Cavanaugh starred for W. C.

University of Pennsylvania is the only unbeaten or ontied team of the East.

The hunting season will open in Kent next Monday, Nov. 10. By all means, be careful and be humane, and don't go into the woods firing at every kind of bird that flutters by. Read the poetry below and be benefitted by it:

A Hunter fired a gun with telling skill,
His mark a bird, which fluttered to a mound,
Rolled o'er and died without complaint or sound,—
A fluff of feathers and an open bill
The relic of this speck of life, a thrill
The less on earth where cruel lusts abound,
A tiny bit of energy aground,
A gem to Beauty lost, a voice now still
Yet Truth and Beauty will reflect their light
Until the heedless are a vanquished throng,
And blood lust shall no more the world benight,
When men who kill for sport shall sense the wrong,
And know the shot that stops the finch's flight
Kills not alone a bird, but more,—A SONG.

While many do not consider soccer a real, honest-to-goodness major sport ourselves included, occer is the major fall and winter sport in Maryland, all arguments to the contrary notwithstandingstanding. Statistics compiled by the Playground Athletic reveal the fact that more than 6000 players engaged in torunament competition alone during the 1923 season. Hundreds of others played in the independent ranks. It is certain that no other fall or winter sport in Maryland boasts so great a number of participants. Proof that soccer is growing in popularity in this district is furnished by the fact that each year sees new clubs springing up in every section of the city and State.

Washington College will probably open its basket ball season about December 12. with Grace M. E. Church of Wilmington. The New Haven Training School, with Henry Carrington, in the lineup are after a game on the 16th of December and Davis and Elkins want December 19th. All the games on the home floor. Graduate Manager Howell and Manager Cooper have arranged one of the best schedules in years for its local collegians. Coach Kibler will probably get his men to work right after Thanksgiving.

MARRIED AFTER AIRPLANE FLIGH

Young Couple Come To Elkton From North Via Air Route And Wed

King Wallace and Madaline H. Wells, both of Mineola, N. Y., started out Saturday afternoon, for a flight in an airplane. Their first stop was at Newark, Del., where they called on Mr. Wright, a friend of Mr. Wallace's.

The couple made known the object of the visit, that they wanted to get married and had heard so much about Elkton that they desired to get married there.

When told they were six miles from the Maryland Gretna Green, and as their machine had landed in a field on the edge of the town. it was suggested that they motor over to Elkton, but before doing so they telephoned to ascertain if they could procure a marriage license if the motor trip was necessary.

Deputy Clerk of Court Frank G. Pratt was in his office at the time, and invited them to come across the Delaware line and he would grant them the necessary permit.

In a short time the couple were in Elkton and soon had the required documents to lead them to the home of a minister. Rev. William H. Moon was picked out among the marrying parsons of the town to twist the nuptial knot.

After the ceremony they returned to Newark in Mr. Wrynt's car, where they hopped into the flying machine and started upon their honeymoon trip through the air.

—The month of October furnished the most ideal weather conditions of any month on record in Kent. The first twenty-six days were clear and sunshiny. Not even a drop of rain fell during this period, nor was there a cloudy day. On the 27th and 28th clouds hid the sun and on the 30th it was cloudy part of the day. Outside of these days the entire month was clear.

—Court open in Centreville on Monday. Mr. W. Irving Walker, of Queen Annes, near town, is on the Grand Jury.

THE MAN WHO IS DOING HIS BEST

(By James Edward Hungerford)

No matter how little he's getting,
No matter how little he's got;
If he wears a grin, and is Trying to win
He is doing a mighty LOT!
No matter how humble his job is,
If he's STRIVING to reach the crest,
The world has a prize, for the fellow who TRIES—
The man who is doing his BEST!
Today he may be at the bottom
Of the ladder to wealth and fame;
On the lowest rung, where he's bravely clung,
In spite of the knocks—DEAD GAME!
And slowly he's gaining a foothold,
His eyes on the uppermost roun';
It's a hard old climb, but he knows in time
He will LAND—and be LOOKING DOWN!
The fellow who never surrenders,
And is taking things as they come;
Who never says: "quit," and exhibits GRIT,
When the whole world's looking glum,
The fellow who stays to the FINISH,
That nothing can hinder or stop,
And who works like sin, is the chap who'll WIN—
And SOME DAY he'll land on TOP!

FOOTBALL GAMES HOME

Washington College Will Meet Western Maryland Nov. 15 and Schuylkill College Nov. 22.

Those who have followed the records of the small college football teams of the state this year, have witnessed a decided advance in the calibre of game played.

Western Maryland and Washington College stand out as two of the best. Both have good records, and when they meet on Washington field, Chestertown November 15th one of the best games of the season is expected. Victories over Haverford and P. M. C. show that Washington is dangerous, while the record of Western Maryland is the best any small college in the state has made in recent years.

These two have met twice in the past three years, and the result has been a scoreless tie each time. Followers of each team are confident that this will not be so this year. Washington will have the advantage of playing on her own field.

An extra large crowd is being prepared for and supporters of each team will be present in large numbers. Washington College is planning a reunion of all the old alumni from Pennsylvania and Delaware, as well as the Eastern Shore.

The game will be played at 2.30 p. m. Saturday, November 15th, thus giving sufficient time for fans to come from any part of the Shore, and to return after the game.

On November 22nd a second game will be played at Chestertown when Washington College meets Schuylkill College of Reading, Pa. Though not a state game, this contest is creating much interest also. Schuylkill is a small college and the two teams should be evenly matched, Washington having a slight advantage.

This will be the last game of the season on the Shore, and every one who can possibly arrange to see it should do so.

IMPORTAN HEALTH CONFERENCE

News Notes From The State Department of Health Conference on Child Hygiene

Maryland was among the thirty-seven states that here represented at the recent conference of Directors of State Bureaus of Child Hygiene at the U. S. Children's Bureau, in Washington. Special attention was given in the discussions to prenatal and infant care; care of the pre-school child and the organization of child health conferences. In connection with the later, it is interesting to note that conferences at which mothers are advised in regard to the health of their babies and children of preschool age, are now held regularly in twenty-nine places in twelve of the counties in the state.

Fewer infant deaths have been reported from the counties of Maryland during the current year, than for the corresponding period, last year. The total number reported for the first nine months of 1923 was 1328; the total for the nine months ending September 30, 1924, was 1161. Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health, attributes the decrease to attendance at the child helath conferences and to the fact that there have been no serious epidemics during the year.

The Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the State Department of Health has prepared a suggested plan for a sewage disposal plant for a private residence. A reproduction of the plan with details of construction and specifications as to materials, is to be found in a pamphlet on typhoid that has just been published by the Department. The plan is adaptable to the majority of the sections of the state. Information as to modifications which may be required according to the slope of the land and character of the soil, will be furnished by the Bureau.

Carroll Williams, a farmer residing in Rich Neck. Queen Annes county, died Tuesday night in the Easton hospital, of tetanus, as the result of sticking a nail in his foot.

The Useful Horse

I am the horse that brings the groceries to your door throughout the year.

In the hottest days of summer I bring you cooling ice.

In the coldest days of winter I bring you welcome coal and wood.

I am doing all I can to make your home life comfortable.

Often I have to pull through roads that are deep with slime or rough with the frozen clods.

Again and again I am left to stand on the street after my day's work is done and I am hungry, until my driver is ready to take me to the stable.

Do you wonder that I long for the cool fields with the meadow-larks singing up in the sky?
