SPORTING NOTES

Washington Loses To Salisbury Professionals In Good Game—Other Sport Notes

Washington College lost a well-played game of baseball to Salisbury Professionals on Saturday last at Salisbury before a large crowd. The score was 6 to 2. Carroll started the game for Washington while Salisbury's two twirlers turned Washington back with a brace of hits.

Jack Carroll hurled from the port side for the first two periods of play and was found for a trio of hits which netted five runs. After two batters reached the stations through Carroll's gratuity, Fitzberger placed one of the boxman's slants across the left field barrier. Bennett starting with the third session kept five hits scattered and held the Indians to a lone tally.

Washington's two hits were collected off Morris in the first five periods. Michigan, a recruit from the Waterbury (Con) club, of the Eastern League, using a wide repertoire of deliveries, held the visitors sitless in the final four innings.

While Salisbury won this game somewhat handily, another game might likely as not result in just the opposite. Washington is capable of putting up good baseball and we doubt very much if Salisbury is a great deal better than Washington College on the diamond.

Washington was schedultd to play University of Maryland on Friday, while Loyola College will be played today, Saturday, in Baltimore. On Monday Easton will be played at Easton. All these should be hard-fought games. The next home game is with Maryland State Normal College on May 29.

Bill Johnston, a Kent boy who went South for spring training with the Wilson club of the Virginia League, has returned ti his old love and has accepted terms for the coming season. Local fans are glad to have Johnston back with the club, his big bat having been a factor in the club's splendid showings of the past. Johnston is expected to occupy one of the outer gardens, although he may again be seen in the in field, since two years ago the youngster was reputed the best hot-corner man in the circuit. Last year, with Ryan on third and Johnston also available, Cambridge was conceded to have the two best third basemen in the loop. Last year Johnston was acknowledged to be the pinch hitter in the circuit.
