College Opens Next Week.

With the veterans of her football squad assembling for preliminary practice on Labor Day Washington College is speeding up her plans for a successful athletic and academic year. On the heels of the inauguration of the fall gridiron season, when the Navy, Western Maryland, Mt. St. Mary's,University of Maryland, Lafayette, Pennsylvania Military College, Schuylkill College and other worthy foemen will be met, comes the announcement that the historic Eastern Shore of Maryland school will, for the first time in her history, celebrate Founder's Day on October 22. This occasion, for which the Governor of Maryland, Albert C. Ritchie, and other notables will come to Chestertown in Kent County, will mark the 143rd anniversary of the foundation of the eleventh oldest college in the country and the first chartered educational institution in Maryland. At that time the Daughters of the American Revolution will unveil a tablet on the wide campus in memory of the fact not only that George Washington came to Chestertown in 1789 to receive at the hands of the college the degree of doctor of laws but that, as a matter of historic record, the Shore college is the only school to which the "father of his country" gave his direct consent for the use of his name. In the letter confirming this latter fact the nation's first president also donated a sum of money for educational purposes in his chosen college. It is interesting, in this connection, to note that Dr. William Smith, first president of Washington College, was a close friend of both George Washington and Benjamin Franklin and that he later became the first president of the University of Pennsylvania, leaving Chestertown for that purpose. Franklin, as everyone knows, was the real founder of the great Philadelphia institution. There has consequently always been a strong sentimental link between the two schools.

It has just been announced by the Deans' office that the entering freshmen class will number at least 90, bringing the total enrollment to about 200. The incoming students for the fall term represent 10 different States, the largest number coming from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and New Jersey. Registration day will fall on September 17 and the 21st of the month will witness the opening of classes. Worthy of note is the appointment of Dr. Fred G. Livingood of Harvard as professor of education and Dr. John K. Warren of Ohio State University as head of the history department. A new professorship of physical education is in process of foundation and the new appointee will be known as Flying Pentagon professor of physical education, in honor of the exploits of the famous basket ball team of last season which gained nation-wide fame as "the flying pentagon" and which made a record of 20 unbroken victories against some of the strongest quints in the East.

Dr. Albertus Perry, field vice-president of Washington College, has just returned to Chestertown after conducting a party of 25 students on a two month educational tour through 15 foreign countries and over 10,000 miles of travel. In the course of the trip they met many prominent officials and citizens in England, the Continent, the Near East and in Egypt.

President Paul E. Titsworth is back from a tour of West Virginia, Western Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and is in conference with administrative officers of the college, prior to the opening of school.

SPORTING NOTES

Washington And Pittsburg In World's Series—Washington Prepares For Football Season

The next worlds Baseball Series will be between Washington and Pittsburg and would furnish exceptional interest due to the fact that each team will represent a different section of the country. Washington, world's champions last year, has clearly demonstrated its class by winning two pennants in a row. They have a slashing good team; there is no doubt about it. Johnson and Coveleskie, Washington's veteran twirlers, have romped through a commendable season, but they will face the most powerful attack in baseball when they walk out in front of the Pittsburg bats. Any pitcher who is called upon to face a combination of speed and dynamite that includes Cuyler, Carey, Wright and Traynor, to mention only a few, has his work cut out for the afternoon. Pittsburgh can go out and get runs, and only the finest type of pitching will hold them in check. For that matter, Washington can furnish a powerful assault in Goslin, Dice, Harris and a few others but we doubt if Washington twirlers can hold the Pittsburg team in check sufficiently for Washington to win. Pittsburg has a literal sprinkling of youth and experience—a mighty hard outfit to beat.

The Eastern Shore pernant winners, Cambridge, and Hagerstown, winners in the Blue Ridge League, began the series of games for the "Five State Championship" yesterday, Friday, in Hagerstown, where they will play two games on Monday the two teams will begin playing in Cambridge.

Football is now holding the center of the sport light in Kent, with the Washington College football squad in preliminary practice. The hot weather has been hard on the players, but, in a few days, the crisp days will make ideal football weather and interest will continue to wax until late in November.
