VOL. LXVIII---NO 33. CHESTERTOWN, MARYLAND, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1925 $1.50 PER ANNUM

FARMS IN MARYLAND-DELAWARE

NUMBER HAS INCREASED DURING PART FIVE YEARS

Delaware has 10,257 farms, according to a survey made by the United States Department of Commerce. This is an increase of 117 over the number in this State five years ago or in 1920. When a survey was made in 1920 it was found that Delaware had a total of 10,140 farms. The increase in the past five years is 1-2 per cent.

The State of Maryland has 48,997 farms the Department of Commerce report shows. This is an increase of 1,089 in five years. In 1920 Maryland had 47,908 farms. The increase in this State has ben 2.3 per cent.

A farm for census purposes is all the land which is directly farmed by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household or hired employees. When a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, croppers, or managers, the land operated by each is considered a 'farm."

The net decrease of 75,735, or 1-2 per cent in the United States total is a result of considerable decrease in some sections of the country, partly offset by increase in other sections. Among the reasons given for decrease in the number of farms were the following:

The ravages of the boll weevil in some of the cottonstates ; the migraton of Negro farm workers; a succession of dry seasons in parts of the Northwest; the consolidation of farms; and a general recession from the development of orchards, truck and poultry farms. The establishment of small truck and poultry farms, especially near the cities, accounts for most of the increase in New England and some other parts of the East.

THE HORSE SHOW NEXT WEEK

Initial Event Will Attract Large Crowds From Three Counties

The Kent County Horse Show, which will be held on Wednesday, November 11, should be one of the largest events staged in Kent for years.

The entry list closes today and from the large list of entries now in hand the competition for honors will be strong in all classes. The classes cover such a wide range of performances that each horse and rider will have the opportunity to bring out their merits, such as speed, jumping, general appearance, etc.

The winners at the Queen Anne's Horse Show some weeks ago, most of which were from Kent county, will take part next week, and other Kent equestrians are planning to push them to their utmost to retain their laurels.

The show committee, together with the Public Health Association, have completed arrangements and indications point to a most successful affair. The classes and prizes will be as follows:

1. Pony class for boys or girls, judged on manners and performance. Loving cup and ribbon to winner. Cash prizes and ribbons to 2nd and 3rd places.

2. Jumping class for boys or girls, under 16 years of age—2½ ft. jump. Judged on performance only. Prizes same as above class.

3. Saddle class, to be shown at walk, trot and canter. Judged on conformation, manners and performance. Conformation to count 25 p. c., manners 50 p. c., performance 25 p. c. Prizes same as above class.

4. Suitable to become hunters class, shown over four 3 ft. jumps. Judged on performance and manners. Prizes same as above.

5. Hanby Hunter class. Prizes same as above.

6. Open Hunter, 4 ft. jumps. Judged on manners and performance. Prizes same as above.

7. Open Hunter, 4 ft. 6 inch jumping. To be judged on performance only. Prizes same as above.

Features:

8. Flat race over about a mile course. Prizes same as above.

9. Point to point, over a mile course with 6 jumps ranging in height from 3 to 5 ft. Prizes same as above.

10. Mule Race, flat race over about a mile course, ridden by anybody Prizes same as above.

ARRESTED FOR DAMAGING SIGN

RIDGELY MAN FIRST TO BE FINED FOR MANGLING DANGER SIGnals

The first arrest in the State for smashing or otherwise mangling a State Roads danger signal was made recently by Constable Downes, of Ridgely, when he placed under arrest and had committed to jail one Frank Layton, a white man, charged with the offense. It is claimed that Layton, along with others, cracked and broke a danger signal at Long's School house at the inter-section of the Downes and Ridgely road. Mr. Downes, it is said got a confession from Layton, who admitted that he was the one wanted in connection with smashing the sign.

The brand new danger signal signs were placed at all crossings and curves on the State highways of Maryland a few months ago at a great cost to the State Roads Commission. The signs are of the finest material and are the means of much protection to motorists at night.

As this is the first case of its kind to come before a justice in Maryland it is being watched closely by State authorities. It is understood that Chairman Mackall of the State Roads Commission has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who maliciously destroys or cracks any road danger signs on the public highways of the State.

The penalty according to the provisions of Article 91 of the Code is not more than $100 fine, or to be imprisoned not more than three months, or in the discretion or the court, may be both fined and imprisoned.

VICTOR MACHINE A WONDER

The new victrola is a wonder. Mr W. P. Newnam, the local music man, has several on exhibitin at hs store on High street, and has an adv. of same in this issue. Speaking of this wonderful machine, the New York Times said:

"The audience broke into applause last night on hearing the first record played at the first pubic hearing of the new perfected orthophonic talking machine at a dinner which the Victor Talking Machine Company gave at the Waldorf to the Western Electric Company. The first record was the soldiers' chorus from 'Faust, sung by forty voices, which rang out from the new instrument full and clear.

This was followed immediately by a chorus of eight voices on one of the best of the old records on the best type of the Victrola. A laugh ran through the aulience at the contrast. The talkng machine company gave the dinner to the Wetsern Electric Company because the new instrument is largely the development of telephone engineers of that company. The principles and patents developed by the Bell Telephone Company in its long experience in improving sound transmission have been made the basis of the new reproducing instrument, which gives forth tones with power and fidelity over nearly twice the range which the existing phonograph can compass. Its performance, beside that of its predecessors, is like a fine oil painting beside a copy in black and white.

TO HOLD MEMORIAL MEETING.

The Junior Order United American Mechanics of Chestertown, will hold a memorial meeting next Wednesday evening at Fraternal Hall. Tributes to the two members of the order, Messrs, William J. Elliott and Jos. H. Lewis, who have died during the year, order who have died during the year, will be paid by Charles N. Wheatley and Polk T. Bramble. Other appropriate exercises will be held. The order requests all its members to be present and take their part in doing full honor to its members who have answered the long roll call.

HALLOWEEN PARTIES HELD

The ladies of the Daughters of America held a masquerade Halloween party on Wednesday evening in Fraternal Hall. The members were masked in many appropriate and unique costumes and held a most enjoyable evening. After the same, refreshments were held. A large crowd was present.

About fifty members and friends of the By-Kota Club, of the M. E. Church held a most enjoyable masked Hallowe'en party, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Walbert, near town, Tuesday night. The large assemblage gathered at about eight thirty o'clock arrayed in various colored and styled costumes, many of which being original and unique.

MANY DOGS BEING STOLEN

Now that the hunting season is about here, rabbit and bird dogs are in big demand and many are being stolen, we would advise our people to keep a close watch on their dogs.

Many thefts of valuable dogs in Southern Deleware are being reported to the authorities nearly every day. In almost every instance the animals are valuable rabbit, coon hounds and bird dogs. Recently the thieves have stolen three such hounds from Postmaster J. Emory Willey, of Seaford, and he has offered a reward for the apprehension of the guilty parties. Dog stealing at this time of the year is a common thing in Sussex county, but the unusually large number of canines, some of them valued as high as $100, has caused a wail among the owners, and they have appealed to the authorities for protection.

—Kent's oystermen report only a fair business. The prices are low are only few oysters are being taken. On Monday last the dredging season opened and the season, from now on, will become brisk. The cool weather had aided somewhat in the demand for oysters.

WILL GIVE MINSTREL SHOW

UNDER AUSPICES OF AMERICAN LEGION, LOCAL TALENT WILL PERFORM ON NOVEMBER 16, 17 & 18

The rehearsals of the American Legion Minstrels, which will take place in the Lyceum Theatre on November 16, 17 and 18, started Monday evening at Fireman's Hall.

The show is under the direction of the Parlett Production Co., and from what can be gathered from Salisbury, Easton, Crisfield, Pocomoke, Centreville, Dover, Denton and other towns that they have produced along the shore s that it is going to be one of the best home talent productons ever witnessed in Chestertown.

The boys were enthused at the splendid rehearsal Monday night and from the minute that Mr. Stanley Allen, the director stepped on the floor and took charge of the first rehearsal it was acclaimed that the folks of Chestertown had a treat in store for them in this minstrel show of the American Legion.

Rehearsals will be held every night this week and next to get the boys in proper shape. Many of the local favorities of the town will appear. The show will be given entirely in blackface with special secenery and fancy costumes thoroughout.

Mr. J. T. Kibler, Commander of the Legion has his Committees formed and at work and hopes to get the full cooperation of the folks of the county and especially the merchants. It is for a good cause and the Legion looks forward to three packed houses.

Reserved tickets on sale at Stam's Drug Store on and after Thursday, November 5th.

WEDDINGS

Miss Elinor Penn Arminger and Mr. Paul M. Warner, both of Philadelphia, were married last Saturday morning at eleven o'clock at St. Andrews M. E. Church, Philadelphia. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Arminger, of Philadelphia, and is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley P. Graves, of near Fairlee, where she has been a frequent visitor. The groom is news editor on the Philadelphia Inquirer.

A pretty wedding took place last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Foster Sudler, of Sudlersville, when her daughter, Lella George Sudler was married to Thomas Avery Story, of Crumpton, Md. The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. Foster Sudler and a granchild of the late John E. George and Mrs. Elvira George. Mr. Story is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Story, of near Crumpton and a graduate of Washington College. They will reside in Baltimore.

A very pretty wedding took place Saturday, Oct. 31, at 2.30 p. m., in Kennedyville at the home of the brides aunt Miss Lula Va.Dyke, when Miss Edith Hayes Crew, daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Crew became the bride of Mr. Russell S. Kendall. Rev. L. Colvn Randall, pastor of the bride performed the ceremony.

While Mendelssohns wedding march was being played by Mrs. T. E. W. Crew, the bride's only attendant her little sister, Helen Virgnia, preceeded her to the altar carrying a basket of pink and white Chrysanthemums.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a Rust colored silk canton crepe with hat and gloves to match and carried beautiful white chrysanthemums. The groom wore the conventional black.

The large parlor was beautifully trimmed wth potted plants, cut flowers, ferns, and autumn leaves. The Altar was set apart from the rest of the room by columns of greens, and white Chrysanthemums, with back ground of autumn leaves and ferns. Wreaths of flowers were hanging gracefully over-head.

During the ceremony strains of sweet music was softly played on the Victrola.

After luncheon was served, they immediately left amid showers of rice old shoes, and best wishes. Only the immediate families were present.

They will reside in Chestertown.

THIS IS KENT SUPPER SEASON

This is the season of the church supper and Kent's women are busy preparing some of the finest spreads ever seen here to tempt the appetites of men. These suppers are usually given in the interest of some Sunday School class or worthy society and are always worth far more than is charged. They are a good thing for the community and for the ones whose benefits they are given for. They are always enjoyable and we will be sorry when the season is over.

—The basket factory, we are glad to announce, will remain with us.

HOG CHOLERA OUTLOOK IN KENT COUNTY

Summary of Dreaded Disease in This State During Month of October

Hog cholera outbreaks are becoming more frequent in Kent County as the season advances toward cold weather. From the authorities we are receiving quite a number of cards which announce these outbreaks. We are not publishing these names, but for the present only the localities in which they occur.

The disease in the state of Maryland was reported to exist on 59 premises during the month, against 75 a year ago, and a 6 year average of 115, for the same period. 49 were classed as primary and 10 as secondary. 40 were of the backyard type, that is, a few hogs kept in small pens, although 8 of these occured on farms where hogs are bred and raised.

Worcester County went into the lead early in the month and never was headed, finished for first place with 19 outbreaks. Kent County got second place with 10, while Wicomico was third with 7. Washington scored 4, while Cecil and Somerset were tied with 3 each. Anne Arundel, Carroll, Prince George, and Queen Anne ran neck and neck with 2 apiece. Baltimore, Charles, Dorchester, Howard and St. Marys scored 1 apiece.

Of the primary outbreaks 38 were pork in garbage, table scraps, kitchen swill, etc.; 1 to the introduction of new stock and in 10 cases the owners could not or would not give any history on which the source of infection might be based. Of the 10 secondary outbreaks 3 were apparently due to a combination of unburried carcasses, and dogs; 1 to loose hogs; 1 to visiting neighbors, and in 5 cases no history could be obtained on which to base the source of infection.

On the premises were hog cholera was reported to exist during the month there were 767 hogs. However, 85 of these were dead and 142 others visibly sick before the outbreaks were reported.

A summary of the hog cholera outbreaks in this county show many peculiar instances connected with them.

Two hogs affected with cholera confined in a small pen surrounded with chicken wire, and no other sick swine within 2 1-2 miles of the place. Owner admits that pork has been bought regularly for table use, and that table scraps are fed to the hogs. In spite however, that they have "been careful," not to feed any pork scraps.

On August 12, a verterinarian from an adjoining State came into Maryland, and, as he has frequently done before, administered the double treatment to swine belonging to a certain farmer, without a permit. He at least gave the farmer to understand that the hogs had received serum and virus and were immune for life. With this assurance the farmer felt that it was unnecessary to take any sanitary precautions in protecting his hogs and the animals were fed pork scraps in the kitchen swill. On or about October 16, hogs on this place "broke" with cholera. The question is, was the double treatment properly administered to these hogs?

A party who owned 4 hogs, killed and dressed for food 1 of them that had "slipped and hurt itself." He kindly divided the meat with a relative who found that it had a peculiar odor when cooked, and fed it to his hogs. It wasn't long after this until his hogs began to "slip and hurt themselves," and when the specialist was called, he found all the animals suffering with hog cholera. An investigation at the place where the first animal had "slipped and fallen" showed that all the hogs on the place had suffered the "same injury" and died.

A specialist arrived at a farm where a garbage feeding plant is conducted within 2 1-2 hours after a call had been received to investigate a report of sickness among swine. The farmer's wife greeted him with the statement that all the animals had recovered. Little Johnny, who was standing there, apparently wished to clarify the situation and volunteered the informaton that "one piggy had died." When the farmer came in from the field he admitted that one animal had died, but that it would not be available for postmortem purposes because he had buried it so very deep. The interest that a flock of buzzards appeared to have in the place did not coincide with the farmer's statement and after much urging he agreed to "dig up the carcass." However, it was found unburried in the woods, exposed to dogs and buzzards. It might be added that practically all hogs kept on the place were sick. Annanias was certainly a picker.

From what we can gather hog cholera will never be permanently controlled until swine are not fed pork scraps and garbage and until they are kept under more sanitary conditions.

PREMATURE WINTER HITS KENT

Snow Covers Fields and Hills From Blinding Flury, But Lasts a Short Time.

A premature touch of winter established an epoch in Kent County for early seasons last Friday. When we went to press last Friday afternoon a snow storm was covering the Kent fields with its mantel of white. By night fall it had twind to almost a blizzard, in the intensity of which it was falling to earth.

After night set in the blinding flurry of snow made driving by auto so difficult that it became dangerous, and cars from the Rock Hall and Tolchester ferries had extreme difficulty in reaching their destinations in safety.

On the bay the steamers had difficulty in getting about, while the ferries were considerably late.

The storm, according to Weather Bureau reports, left its trail of snow in an area extending north to Southern New England and South to Virginia and West Virginia. Advices from Cumberland were that in the mountains of Western Maryland the fall was so heavy as to almost tie up road communication. Hagerstown Frederick and other points reported snow from one to three inches deep.

At Elkins, W. Va., the temperature was down to 18 degrees. From all sections of the East reports came that it was the worst, or nearly the worst, October meteorological disturbance of the nature on record.

A snowstorm of any consequence in Kent county until late in November is unusual.

Northeast storm warnings were hoisted on the coast at 2 p. m., from Jacksonville, Fla., to Boston, including the Chesapeake Bay. The storm was reported developing over the Gulf of Mexico and moving northeastward with increasing intensity. At 10.00 o'clock Friday night it was reported off Cape Hatteras.

The Weather Bureau forest called for clearing and not quite so cold Saturday afternoon, with Sunday fair and warmer. Strong northeast winds, possibly reaching gale force, also were predicted. Came about as scheduled and Kent County was literally frozen for a day or two.

At last October has past. Usually an ideal month in past years, we bid it farewell with a sigh of relief. It has been more of a catastraphe than anything—rains and wind and chilly disagreeable weather.

Spring usually misses out in Kent. Summer jumps in on the heels of winter so fast that we hardly know what spring is here. But October always gives us the ideal weather, which has been the ambition of people the world over and concerning which the old philosophers spent their lives in searching for, alas, it has failed us Now we can expect almost anything.

ADVICE TO FLORIDA GOERS

Giving advise to those intending to go to Florida, a writer from Massey, Kent County, in a letter in "The Sun," says:

"Your correspondent, Mr. Kile, writes very fairly about Florida conditions. I have been there. He has not yet stated that St. John's river catfish, which when skinned have a pinkish as flesh, are sold n Northern markets as salmon.

"One of the boom spots is Sanford, up the St. John's. It is so hot there in August that I actually would run from shade to shade for fear of sunstroke. I invested nothing, you may be sure.

"It is possible to grow tomatoes for the North. But go down in October and return in May. Try it with rented acreage at first; there's plenty of it. Never buy land outright before doing above. Anyhow, the next periodical freeze will kill this Florida boom agriculturally.
