NEW LIBRANIAN AT COLLEGE

Washington College is now to have a full-time, trained librarian on its staff.

Ever since the College has had a library, it has been in charge of a member of the faculty who was carrying full work in his department. With student help Prof. William R. Howell, the present librarian, has just put the college library in excellent shape. Yet the growing number of books and the enlarged student body at the College and the consequent increased use of the library have long made desirable and now make imperative a trained worker who can give entire attention to this, one of the most important phases of college work.

Miss Bahnie Wedekind, of Fowler, Cal., who has been selected as librarian comes, despite her very German name, from long-time and thoroughly American stock, was a student for three years at Davis and Elkins College, Elkins. W. Va.; ttransferred then to the University of West Virginia, from which institution she was graduated. She has since studied at the University of California and has completed her residence work at the University of Illinois for her M. A. degree.

While a student at Davis and Elkins, she organized the college library and acted for two years as librarian. She was assistant librarian at the University of West Virginia. Also, at Davis and Elkins, she started a Y. M. C. A. She has taught in elementary and high school and in college. Interested in English she has written and published several short stories and has had some of her one-act plays presented by amateur groups.

The College believes itself very fortunate in securing as its librarian a young woman of such character, ability, and training as Miss Wedekind. She will begin her duties November 14.

—We wish to call attention to all the sportsmen in Kent county, not to shoot pheasants this fall. The birds are very scarce and one killed here and there will be the means of exterminating the game.

MINSTREL SHOW NEXT WEEK

One of the Greatest Treats for Kent County in Years To Be Given For Worthy Cause

Everything is ready for the Big Show so let the curtain rise, is the sentiment expressed by every member of the troupe of the Big American Legion Minstrels who will ramble the boards of the Lyceum Theatre on Monday Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, November 16, 17 and 18th at 8 p. m.

The show is under the direction of the Parlett Production Co., of Baltimore, Md., and one of the best Home Talent Shows ever seen here is promised by Eddie Parlett, the Director, who has been in town since Monday knocking off the rough edges and releiving Stanely Allen, assistant, who trained the boys the first week. Many towns along the shore have acclaimed this show or rather these productions as the best ever and well worth seeing.

The performance will be brim full of pep and go, a laugh from curtain to curtain, and built entirely on comedy and good singing. It is well balanced, clean cut, attractive, and those who recall the days when Primrose and Docstader held forth, will see many things that will bring back fond memories.

When the curtain arises promptly at 8.15 Monday evening the patrons will behold one of the neatest minstrel first-parts they have ever gazed upon, with special painted scenery to set off the classy costumes of the performers. In this portion of the show there will be Minstrel Mokes with comical Jokes, Funny songs you never heard before, novelties of all kinds and the finale, the Sextette from Lucia sung in ragtime is well worth the price of admission itself.

Those who love the good old honest to goodness Minstrel Show, all appearing in Blackface, an evening of fun and laughter, mingled with good singing, should come dressed in the loose suits, so they will be comfortable to laugh until they cry.

All the features of the Big City Minstrel Shows will go to make up this program. There will the Mammy and the Uncle Ned, Fellows dressed as Girls, Southern Scenes, Monologues, Musical acts, New jokes, old jokes, medleys, of the past, side splitting after piece entitled Turn me Loose Man Turn me Loose, a graveyard act guaranteed to make a mummy laugh, buck dances, soft shoe dancers, Charlestowns and reels, Tamborine drills, special drills on every song, Ida, sweet as apple cider, the song Eddie Parlett sings in his parcular way, will be remembered for many moons to come. The big laugh of the show, Slim Keenan, the 175 pound boy wonder, will sing I got to Langh dats all, and believe us you will Laugh until your sides ache. There will not be one dull moment in the entire performance. Mr. Kibler is well pleased with the way the rehearsals have been going and hopes to see the Lyleum Theatre packed to the doors every night.

There will be a Big Street Parade on Monday morning at 11.45 a. m.

GIVES HIGH PRAISE TO CHESTERTOWN

Philadelphia Bankers Tour Shore and Philadelpia Paper Likens This Town to Charleston, S. C.

Recently a group of men could be seen motoring up and down the Eastern Shore. They were Pennsylvania bankers. With them was a writer for the Philadelphia Inquirer, who in the following article portrays what they saw in this section. They thought the Sho' a wilderness. They found it a paradise.

They marveled at Chestertown the county seat of Kent, with its stately buildings and battery, a miniature of Charleston, S. C., on which the homes face the beautiful Chester river. with lawns skirting the waters and yachts lying in wait. The great old Hubbard House built in 1732 of historic interest, Georgian architecture in outward form and interior decoration, preserved with care to look just as it did almost two centuries ago. By this time the pilgrims had crossed several rivers, had seen navigation in many surprising places, tomatoes being loaded on crafts, ans pleasure yachts parked before front doors. They stop at Centreville, county seat of Queen Anne, to learn of one man in that town owning seventy-three farms as the time of his death, and to verify the statement that turkey buzzards roost on chimney tops in that town.

By this time the trio had become modified doubters and with the Wye Oak loomng in the distance, they asked for terms of captiulation. The mighty oak, 480 years of age, is one of America's giant trees, and it overawes most folks, as they stand beneath its branches, and note its tenacious hold on Queen Anne's county. At this point Cumbler whispered, "Bob, there may be such a place as Tangier Island, after all." They lunched at Easton, county seat of Talbot. With 75 per cent of the party bankers, they were interested in calling upon bankers to compare dividends and interest rates, surpluses and resources, and everywhere they found Maryland bankers more cordial than Pennsylvania borrowers. They believed the people of Salisbury are justified in terming their town the county seat of Wicomico, the "New York of the Eastern Shore" but a matter of fact they were not previleged to look upon Cambridge which is somewhat off the beaten track of travel south. Salisbury boasts of more prominent Republicans than any county on the Eastern Shore, in which respect it resembles Lancaster county, where Democrats are comparatively few in number, but so firm in faith as to be termed prominent as a whole. No Democrat in the Garden Spot believes he is obscure as the 9986 with but seventeen exceptions acknowledge prominence.

Princess Anne, county seat of Somerset, is a soothing place to sleep, with noted hostelry, a most inviting retreat. Suppers in Princess Anne are not to be forgotten in the still watches of the night, unless guests exercise restraint in the face of tempting food. There is much of interest in Hotel Washington besides beds and fare. It was in this hotel George Alfred Townsend lingered to write, "The Entailed Hat" and the Teagle house is within its shadows. It is in Princess Anne that fortunate folks may breathe the atmosphere of royalty for an hour. In modest home of that town there is the greatest collection of Victoriana in America the gift of a remote relatives attacked first to the household of the Duke of Kent and then to that of Victoria. Among the curios is the misfit garter made for Albert Edward when he became a knight of the historic order, the vanity box and gold tooth pick of Ex-Emperor William's mother, precious solid silver, gems and clocks, trinkets of every kind, autograph pictures back of the royal family in England, dating back to 1827, letters of congratulation and condolence from Queen Victoria, in her handwriting, and couched in beautiful language. The value of the collars, suffice to say there's nothing like it in this country. and the visitors were privileged to read personal letters from Charles Dickens to the kinsman of the proprietor of the house, and one from George Washington to his great-grandfatheer begging him to help find a good housekeeper and woman of intelligence to assist Martha in directing the household affairs at Mount Vernon. The latter letter is most notable inasmuch as the immortal Washington, in subscribing his name failed to write the small "o" after the "G." There is but one similar signature extant.

JUDGE SCORES RECKLESSNESS

Judge Thomas J. Keating, in his charge to November Grand Jury. at Centreville unquestionably struck both an important and a popular note, when he emphasized the necessity of clearing the highways of the hazard of drunken automobile drivers. In very emphatic words he voiced the necessity of vigilant and strict enforcement of the laws which provide heavy penalties and sentences for those who attempt to mix gasoline and booze. The highways of the state have been constructed at enormous expense, and the public is entitled to demand that they be kept safe for travel and free from the hazard attending the operation of automobiles by persons under the influence of liquor.

CHILD SWALLOWS A DOLL

The Bronchoscopic Clinic of the University of Pennsylvania Hospital has added a half-inch celluloid doll to its trophies and one life to the already long list which it has saved.

At 5 o'clock in the evening, little Catherine Taylor, who had been playing in front of her home in Goldsboro came running into the house in a terrified manner. Her grandmother, Mrs. Carol Elliott, of that town. questioned the child and found that she had swallowed a small kewpie doll, which had stuck in her throat and was impeding her breath.

DIRECTOR OF MINSTRELS

Eddie Parlett, the, singing, dancing comedian and director of the big American Legion Minstrels, to be held at the Lyceum Theatre, November 16 17 and 18.

THE HANOVER TRAFIC SIGNAL.

The Commissioners of Chestertown at a special meeting on Thursday evening decided to erect an electric traffic signal at the corner of Cross and High streets. Red light showing means for traffic moving in that direction to stop and wait until the signal shows a green light, when the traffic in that direction may move and continue moving until the signal again changes red. When the signals are about to change a yellow light at the bottom of the signal comes on showing the word "Slo" indicating to moving traffic that it must begin to stop moving. This signal, the Commissioners feel, is to be a great protection to both vehicular and foot traffi cand if both classes will observe these signals, greater safety is assured.

As these signals are now being used in many cities and towns it makes traffic through the town easier for the tourist. The Commissioners want our town to be among the first with all the modern improvements.

SPECIALIST HERE NEXT WEEK

A Specialist from Baltimore will be at the Kent County Health Center, 114 E. High street, Chestertown on November 16th at 10:15 a. m. As these specialists come such a distance it is requested that each mother with a child under school age will make in effort to bring her child to the Clinic for an examination.

We don't want to wait until a child is sick and then have a doctor and a lot of pain and suffering for the child, saying nothing about the mother.

By coming to these Clinics having your child looked over by a specialist in children's disease. you can remedy a lot of trouble before it goes so far.

From 10:15 to 12:30 the Clinic will be held for the white children and from 1.30 to 3.30 the Clinic will be for the colored children.

Public Health Nurse.

—Mr. D. B. Ford is at the Atlanta Convention of fertilizer men. The Atlanta Journal broadcasted the convention proceedings on Wednesday night and stated that Mr. Ford was well and happy. A number of Chestertown radio fans caught this message.

A GREAT GROWD SEES HORSE SHOW.

Big Event One of Most Successful Sporting Events Ever Held in Kent County.

A great crowd, an ideal, balmy Indian summer day,—when blue skies and hazy atmosphere conditions gave joy to life and made a day in the open one of real pleasure,—these, together with good horses, splendid horsemanship and fearless riding, all made the first Kent County Horse Show one of the most successful sporting events ever held in Kent county.

The crowd, estimated at about fourteen hundred, came from all over the shore, and appreciated the efforts of local horsemen to entertain them in a good cause. There was a liberal sprinkling of women among the contestants and they, as well as the men, did their work in a manner which reflected great credit on their ability in the saddle.

The women drew particular notice from the crowd.

In this respect Mrs. Richard Carville, Misses Alberta Brice and Cynthia Clendaniel, of Kent, and Miss Mariah Mckenny, of Centreville, deserve particular mention, while the riding of Howard Strong, Wilbur Hubbard, Edward Hudson, of Kent and John McKenny, of Centreville won the plaudits of the spectators.

Sheen's Cavalry gave numerous exhibitions of maneuvers and drills throughout the afternoon.

Silver cups, ribbons and cash prizes were awarded to the following:

Pony Class—William Dukes, first; Victor Hendrickson, second; Edgar Massey third.

Boys' and Girls' Saddle Class— Julian Loller, first; Franklin Sappington, second; Miss Mary Ingersol, third.

Open Saddle Class—Clarence Newcomb, rider, Wilbur Hubbard, owner, first; Mrs. Richard Carvel, rider. Mrs. E. W. Corwin, owner, second; Miss Cynthia Clendaniel, rider, Miss Alberta Brice, owner, third.

Suitable to Become Hunters—Miss Rachel Willis, first; William Loller second; Albert Nicholson, third.

Handy Hunters—Miss Alberta Brice first; John McKenney. second; William Loller, third.

Four-foot Jump—Clarence Newcomb, Wilbur Hubbard, owner, first; Miss Alberta Brice, second; Howard Strong, third.

Four-Foot-Six-Inch Jump—Howard Strong, first; Clarence Newcomb, second; Miss Alberta Brice, third.

The errors were marked by the judges in this event as follows: Against Martingale—1 point for refusal, 1 point for refusal, 1 point for tip with fore feet. Against Lollypop—One half point for tip with hind feet, one half point for tip with hind feet.

Flat Race—William Willis, rider, Charles Quinby, owner, first; C. R. Price, second; Walter Walbert, third. third.

Mule Race—William Toulson, first; William French, second; William Toul-

Point-to-Point—Sunny Fox, ridden by Wilbur R. Hubbard, first; Fox Croft, owned by Harry Nichols, and ridden by William French, second; Bobby. owned by Wilbur R. Hubbard, and ridden by Thomas J. Keating, Jr., Centreville, third.

This first annual venture of the association, in staging a horse show in Kent, was so successful that it is almost certan to become an annual event here. There is. of course, considerable interest in horses in Kent, mainly because this is an agrcultural section, and it will be well to encourage this event each year, because, by doing so, the social life of the community will be quickened and better horses will be the aim of the people.

The officials of the show were: Wm. Dixon, president; Howard Strong, secretary; Stephen Collins. treasurer; Mrs. Wm. Dixon, publicity secretary; Edmond Hurtt, marshal of the course. The judges were Miss Elizabeth Ober, of Green Spring Valley, Baltimore; Dudley Riggs, president of the Green Spring Valley Hunt Club; and Roland Dawson, of Washington.

This First Annual Horse Show was given for the benefit of the Health Association of Kent county and a good sum was realized.

In this event Kennard Burk, rider. Howard Strong, owner, was leading at the second hurdle but horse and rider both took a terriable spill in attempting to make this jump. The rider was unconscious for a short time but upon recovering was taken to his home and later to a Baltimore hospital.

THE HUNTING SEASON IS ON HERE

Game Plentiful In Kent, As Usual, When The Season Starts---Timely Suggestions From Game Warden.

The hunting season is on again in Kent and the woods are resounding to the crash of fire arms. Game is plentiful, like it always is at the beginning of the season.

The State Game Warden has complied the following suggestions, which should be read by all hunters.

Unlawful to kill Chinese Ringnecked Pheasants: Closed season on same indefintely.

Our attention has been called to the fact that numbers of persons throughout the State are under the impression that it will be lawful to kill the Chinese Ringnecked Pheasant during the hunting season of 1925. The Acts of 1922, Chap. 301, Sec. 20, paragraph 4, provides: "It shall be unlawful to shoot, trap or kill or take in any manner at any time any Chinese Ringnecked Pheasants," and there cannot be an open season on same until an Act of the General Assembly of Md., is placed on the statue books opening the season on same. Therefore, it is unlawful to kill this species of game bird in any manner under a penalty of not less than $25, or more than $100, for each offense.

The 1925 hunting season will open in Maryland for Upland Game on November 10th and close on January 1st This includes bob-white, partridge (quail), ruffed grouse, woodcock, rabbits, squirrels and wild turkeys. (There is a closed season on wild turkey in Garrett County until 1930.) Also a closed season on deer except in Allegany County and on the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club in Washington Co. One buck deer may be killed per season with an antler six inches or more in length, between December 1st and December 15th.

BAG LIMITS

Partridge 12; Ruffed grouse 2; Woodcock 6; Rabbits 10; Squirrels 25 per day; Wild turkey 4 in any one season.

NON-EXPORT

It is unlawful to export any game (wildfowl excepted) out of Maryland, except licensed hunters may carry out 1 day's bag limit.

It is unlawful to sell, offer for sale, purchase or offer to purchase, bob-white quail, chinese ringnecked pheasants, ruffed grouse or wild turkeys.

LICENSES

License for hunters who are residents of any County is $1.10 which permits hunting in the County of his residence. State-wide license permits hunting in all Counties, $5.10 for residents of State. Non-residents $10.50. Non-residents who are assessed with property in Maryland at $500.00 or more may procure their license at the same rate as a Resident, except the Clerk's Fee is 50 cents for all non-residents.

It is unlawful to trespass or hunt on any property which is posted against trespassing, therefore, it is advisable when hunting to request permission of the owner or tenant of the property on which you desire to hunt before trespassing thereon.

Reports are to the effect that small game is more plentiful in Maryland this season than for some years past and the Clerks of the Circuit Courts and the Clerk of Court of Common Pleas of Baltimore City, who are the only officers authorized to issue hunting licenses have been over run with applications for hunting licenses for the past ten days.

The Law requires the license to be in possession while hunting, and, at the same time a tag must be displayed on outer garment, center of back, between shoulders, which is furnished when license is purchased. The penalty for violation of same is $15.00.

KILLED WILD DUCK AND DIED

William T. Humphreys and Alfred Gipe, of Baltimore, were arrested by Deputy Game Warden J. H. Stemple, of Harford county, one evening last week, for ducking, in advance of the season's opening, on the Gunpowder River marsh. The warden secured one duck as evidence and while hunting for another heard a cry from the boat and turning about saw Humphrey's falling overboard. Gipe managed to grab him and keeping his head above water pulled him into the boat and was startled at finding him dead. Dr. Roth was called and decided that death was due to heart disease.
