CANAL BRIDGE BREAKS

The Delaware City bridge over the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal broke under the weight of a truck and trailer heavily laden with coal for use in the work on the waterway when they reached its center about 11 a. m., on Tuesday. The entire structure fell carrying with it one of the towers. The truck and trailer landed on top of the bridge resting on the canal's bottom, blocking it until they were remvoed. The truck and trailer are owned by the Government John Kosturis riding on the truck's seat was struck by falling timbers and nearly drowned. Men nearby rescued him and took him to Fort DuPont hospital where he was found to be suffering from severe injuries. With the fall of the bridge access to the fort ceased. Major Kingman, Commandant at the post, stated that soldiers of the engineer companies stationed at the fort would begin building a floating bridge, to take the place of the place of the fallen structure. The floating or pontoon bridge constructed by placing heavy framework twelve large boats ranged at intervals of several yards, and anchored at both ends, permitting one end of the bridge to be swung around at the centre, to enable craft to pass, was n position about 5 c. m. and cars and trucks were passing over the structure.

Quality— and nothing else but!

QUALITY—that's Prince Albert all over. Just about the finest, kindest tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar or corncob. We said "kindest." That means P. A.'s consideration for your tongue and throat. No bite. No parch. Nothing but cool comfort, refreshing as a breeze from the sea.

P. A. can't bite or parch. The Prince Albert process takes care of that. You can go to it from the minute you finish breakfast until you sign off at night. Slow or fast. P. A.'s quality makes you want to smoke pipe-load after pipe-load. You'll never say "quit," and that's a fact.

Yes, sir! You'll have the little old world by the tail when you sign up with this big-league smoke. Sitting pretty and no mistake. Cool and sweet and fragrant, P. A. sifts into your system and knocks pipe-peeves galley west.

Quality, you bet. And quantity too. You get TWO full ounces to the tin when you buy Prince Albert. (Look at the U. S. revenue stamp.) Let's get going. Slip into top-speed and head for the shop that hands out smoke-gladness in tidy red tins, marked "Prince Albert." Today!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Look at the U. S. revenue stamp—th are TWO full ounces in every
