High Aim in Teaching Kindness to Animals

Several years ago, writes M. L. H. of the Humane Education Press bureau, Boston, the well-known American journalist and poet, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, wrote:

"Many times I am asked why the suffering of animals seems to call forth more sympathy from me than the suffering of human beings; why I give more time and effort in this direction of charitable work than toward any other.

"My answer is because I believe this work includes all the educational lines of reform which are needed to make a perfect circle of peace and good will about the earth.

"A majority of the people who hear about the societies for prevention of cruelty to animals imagine the work of those societies consists in arresting and punishing cruel drivers and in furnishing homes for vagrant animals. But these are only side issues of the main work. The real work is the education of the growing generation in kindness to all weaker and lesser creatures of earth.

"Thoughts are things. Thought is energy—thought is creative power. That is why it is important to direct the minds of human beings to good, kind, helpful thoughts."

It is, therefore, the aim and object of the humane education organizations in this country to instill in the minds of the boys and girls in the schools today the principles of justice, kindness and mercy to all living creatures.

Finest Chinese Teas Regarded as Dessert

Of course, Chinese do not eat ice cream, for the whole cult of cold foods and cold drinks is contrary to their dietetic principles. Many centuries ago when China was swept by cholera one of the sages recommended that the water be boiled, and in order to make the heated fluid more palatable a herb was steeped in it, now known as tea. Hence the development of tea culture throughout the Flowery kingdom and the ceremonial significance of tea drinking. John W. Harrington writes in the New York Herald Tribune. In the chop suey restaurant ordinary tea is served in pots, just as though it were water, but the superfine teas are in reality dessert drinks, just as a port wine or a champagne was once considered in the days of the three-bottle men. When one is offered after dinner a small cup in which is such tea as "Mist on the Mountain," costing many dollars the pound, one knows that something most complimentary and luxurious is intended.

Amusing Error in Bible

Comical mistakes are not all confined to early Bibles put out by obscure printers. At even so late a date as 1804 no less an institution than the Clarendon press, maintained within the sacred precincts of Oxford university itself, perpetrated what is known as the "ear" Bible. In all well-ordered family Bibles Matthew 13:43 reads, "Who hath ears to hear, let him hear." Hence one can imagine the horror of the meticulous English sages when an edition of the Holy Book came from this press with this particular verse reading as follows: "Who hath ears to ear, let him hear." All of which goes to show that the cockney influence will occasionally make itself felt even within the dignified quadrangle of England's oldest university.—New York Herald.

London Inn Fastidious

Although the old Inverness cloak that flourished as a gentleman's covering in Victorian days has disappeared almost entirely and is seen only rarely on elderly clubmen still clinging to a forgotten past, a modification, in the form of an opera cloak or cape, cut very full is being shown by smart West end tailors as the latest thing for wear with evening dress. The dinner jacket became popular after the war for evening affairs, and for a time it seemed that the tail coat would be relegated to the past. Recently, however, there has been a revulsion of opinion, and a number of smart hotels that formerly permitted the entrance of diners in the more unconventional attire, now insist upon the tail coat and white tie.—New York World.

Heat and Lightning

One of the stereotyped statements of the textbooks is that lightning is made visible by the "heating of the air," just as the filament of an incandescent lamp is made to glow when an electric current passes through it. As no physicist, says Nature Magazine, has ever succeeded in making air luminous by any ordinary heating process, this explanation will hardly pass muster. The real explanation, according to Dr. W. J. Humphreys, must probably be sought in electrical phenomena within the atoms of the atmospheric gases rather than in the molecular movements that constitute heat.

Buy Christmas Seals

A penny's worth of fresh air to bring color to pale little cheeks and brightness to dull eyes—

A penny's worth of yellow milk to be transformed into good red blood in the veins of a little child threatened with tuberculosis—

A penny's worth of hope for some family burdened with the specter of the great white plague—These are things your penny for a Christmas Seal will do.

Your Christmas Shopping

Is your Christmas shopping finished? Did you buy the pretty platinum bar pin for Mother that she so much wanted and the extra fine fountain pen for Father?

Is little Betty to have the finest doll ever and will Bobby waken to find a small motor car so much like Father's that he will look for the real gas tank? Is Santa's pack all ready so that he will have no trouble getting down the chimneys?

If you have finished your gift-getting and have the satisfaction of knowing you have contributed to the happiness of your dear ones, you doubtless feel that you have fulfilled your obligation of social citizenship, but there may be one thing you have forgotten.

Have you purchased Christmas Seals to carry on the splendid work in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis? They are one cent each. Buy enough so that you can brighten each gift package with these messengers of health; paste one on every Christmas card and letter you send to a friend.

Make this your Christmas present to Humanity.

Penny Insurance !

Insurance for a penny!
If this were offered you, surely you would buy.

And it is offered. The Christmas seal is the answer. This little stamp, attractive in design, is not merely ornamental. It is sold for health's sake. The proceeds of the sale are devoted to the fight on tuberculosis.

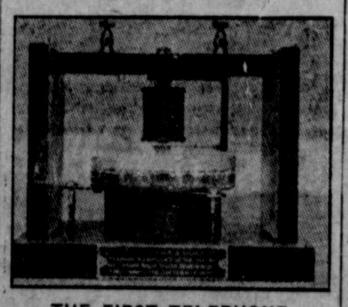

It has been a potent weapon for good health in the past. It started a great work.

And it carries the health message to the far corners of the earth. Every package and letter, adorned with a Christmas seal is a reminder that the call is to all to enlist in this battle against one of mankind's worst foes.

For health's sake buy Christmas seals.

THE TELEPHONE'S 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Alexander Graham Bell's father was a teacher of the dumb and the son followed in his footsteps for a time. It was teaching the dumb to speak and pondering over deafness that got the younger Bell to fiddling with the thing we know today as the telephone. He worked away at his experiments until on June 2, 1875, he succeeded in transmitting sound over his invention.

THE FIRST TELEPHONE

He was no doubt a happy man and believed profoundly in the possibilities of his achievement. Yet it is extremely doubtful if in his wildest flights of fancy, the inventor of the telephone ever dreamed that in fifty years it would represent an industry of world-wide service, with 15,000,000 instruments in use, 40,000,000 miles of wire, with an investment of $3,000,000,000 and more than 350,000 owners.

The story is told of how Theodore N. Vail's friends in Washington deprecated his rashness in quitting a perfectly good government job and putting himself and his entire savings, $1,000, in the wild scheme of the dreamer, Bell. They wanted to lure Joe Cannon into it, too, but he was too foxy and escaped.

Fifty years doesn't even make an old man. The telephone has linked the world together in less than the span of a lifetime. Today it is leading to still greater wonders in its development.—From "Public Service Magazine."

Hymns Form Links

The Old and the New worlds have been linked by hymns. Doctor Reeves tells how American history opened with the singing of a Christian hymn. "On the evening of September 25, 1492, one of the companions of Columbus saw what he thought to be land lying dimly in the west. . . . From all three of the ships, as Columbus himself gives the account in his diary, there rose the sound of the old 'Gloria in Excelsis Deo.'" We learn that later in the history of Christian America "The Bay Psalm Book" was printed in the modest dwelling of the first president of Harvard. President Dwight of Yale, who was a chaplain in the Revolutionary army, edited and partly wrote what was for years the leading hymn and psalm book in the country. In 1737 at Charleston, S. C., John Wesley, an Anglican missionary, published the first hymn book of the Church of England.—W. M. Letts in Yale Review.
