A prosperous New Year to our friends and patrons is the wish of the editors of the Transcript.

THE NEW YEAR 1926 was born yesterday with its many problems confronting humanity. Let us meet those problems with the confidence of overcoming them as we have done in the past. We should be optimistic and not pestimistic. The optimist gets at least enthusiasm out of the future, while the pessimist gets visions of disaster. Have faith in a just God that if we do right we will succeed. The new year has dawned bright with beautiful sunshine upon earth which we should interpret as the token of the present year. Remember our many blessings and forget troubles Blessings are happy thought—troubles are disagreeable rememberances.

This year 1925 is ended and lying before us as a closed book, never to be reopened. But it has left to its successor, 1926, many problems yet unsolved. The pros and cons of the World Court are being waged still in Congress. The great coal strike is by no means over, the miners, led by the union leaders demanding that the union dues be paid by the operators and not out of their wages, while the operators refuse because it will bind them to union labor entirely. Meanwhile the shivering consumers are waiting knowing that whichever way it is settled that they will have to pay. Another problem is the bread trust which is assuming enormous proportions and the independent bakeries, one by one, are falling before it, while the price of bread is going higher and higher.

The farmer, the producer, is knocking at the door of Congress demanding relief, for while the raising of produce is much higher, yet the prices received for it by the farmers are so low that they are not able to carry on their farms unless better markets be provided.

That our law makers may have wisdom to make such laws, that truth and justice, religion and tolerance may be establish in the land, with peace and plenty, is our New Year,s wish to our readers.

MORE WHEAT ACREAGE

Wheat acreage this year is estimated at 694,000 acres, compared with 643,000 last year, in the December crop report for Virginia issued by the Department of Agriculture. The higher price of wheat is given by the Virginia Crop Reporting Service as the reason for the eight per cent, increase over 1924. Original plans of the farmers throughout the State called for a fifteen per cent, increase in wheat acreage, according to the report, but dry weather prevented plowing. The greater part of the acreage of the wheat crop this fall was sown on corn, tobacco and cowpea stubble, a much smaller percentage than usual being seedded on plowed land, according to the report.
