KENT FARM BUREAU THINKS IT WOULD BE BENEFITTED BY IT.

William G. Smyth, secretary of the Kent County Farm Bureau, is a firm believer in the free application of lime to the soil in Kent county, and he has determined to begin a campaign among the farmers during the spring, starting on his own farm, where he will have County Agent Horace B. Derrick test some ground for the purpose or determining just what quanity of lime is needed to produce a good setting of grass.

Mr. Smyth gave it as his opinion that it is useless for the average farmer to pay up to $20 a bushel for good clover seed, only to have the money go practically to waste because of the poor yield on the average farm, whereas if a good coating of lime had been applied to the soil before the seed was sown is is possible there would have been much greater returns in the county's hay crop during the past year.

It is pointed out that the failure in a hay crop is a serious loss, to the dairy farmer especially, because of the fact that in order to make up the deficiency due to a bad hay yield the dairyman is compelled to buy a substitute, which often results in a decrease in the milk yield.

Many of the farmers in Kent county have not been given a real dressing of lime in the past five or ten years, and the best authorities argue that no fertilizer known can supply the needs of certain soils as well as a free use of lime, and this is especially true, in the opinion of Mr. Smyth, if a good stand in alfalfa or sweet clover is desired.
