LARGELY THROUGH THE efforts of County Agent, H. B. Derrick and the cooperation of other far sighted men, the farmers of Kent County are figuring on a profit and loss basis. They realize that farming is a business and not merely a gamble on weather conditions, and that there is no profit in a crop that costs more to produce than can be derived from the finished product. It is beginning to be realized that it costs as much to feed scrub as highly bred stock, that good seed will grow more and better grade grain than seed that has not been tested, that milk, poultry and the short crops are the money makers. With this new insight, farming as a whole, is beginning to have a brighter future, and by working together in various organizations, the populace are being made to see that the profits on the farm are not in proportion to other businesses. This view is partly caused by the high cost of labor and materials necessary to produce the crop, but we believe that the farmer will shortly come into his own through his own efforts and that of agricultural specialists who are employed to help him.

DEATHS

WEDDINGS

One of the prettiest weddings of the year, was when Miss Suvilla Genevieve Cornell become the bride of Mr. John Herdman Kernan.

The marriage knot was tied by Rev. L. Colvin Randall, using the ring ceremony, an Saturday, January 30, at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Cornell.

The rooms were very attractively decorated with winters greens, pink candles and flowers; the electric lights, veiled with pink paper tulips, cast a soft glow over each room.

At the hour of seven thirty the bridesmaid, Miss Olive Lee Cornell sister of the bride, and Mr. Walter Kernan, the grooms brother, entered the spacious living room to the strains of Lohrengrin's wedding march, rendered by Miss Laura Rees. The bride entered the room, leaning on the grooms arm.

The bride was most becomeing by attired in the new shade of tan Georgette Crepe, embroidered in a darker shade of silk and rhinestones; she carried a large shower noguet of Bridal roses. The brides maid's dress was of golden brown Georgette, heavily silk embroiddered; her boquet was deep pink sweet peas. The groom and best man wore dark blue suits, white ties and Brides rose buttoniere.

Many valuable presents of cut glass silver, mahogany clock, carving sets, table linens, bedspreads, embroidered luncheon set, towels, a large sum of money, two pairs of down pillows and a quilt, made by the grooms grandmother, the late Mrs. John T. Moffett.

Refreshments were served and amid a shower of rice, confetti and hosts of good wishes the bride and groom left for a short trip, after which they will be at home at 322 Ruscomb St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Mr. Kernan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roland Kernan and has always lived in Kent County.

"LABOR to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire—conscience."

In these worde George Washington expressed the modern conception of the word "Service" as it applies to all things, including business.

The business that does not imbue its every action and transaction with "conscience" does not really serve. And the business that does not really serve does not really thrive.

To be considerate; to deal fairly with all; to render Service in its broadest sense is the policy upon which we make our appeal for your patronage.
