FARM BUREAU NEWS

STATE OF MARYLAND AND DAIRY COMPANY IN COURT MANGLE

The recent decision of Judge Uliman, of Baltimore City, in the case of the Western Maryland Dairy Company vs., the State of Maryland in which he granted the request of the dairy company for an injunction restraining the state of Maryland from collecting a franchise tax from the company and from arresting its drivers. has aroused the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation to the necessity of securing. if possible, a reversal of this court decision, if our dairy farmers are to retain a free and open market for their milk products.

Up to this time, the various private milk-hauling trucks, the co-operative milk trucks and even trucks of the dairy company itself, have been required, under the law, to secure a permit from the Public Service Commission in order to operate over a definite route and on a definite schedule and to charge a definite fixed rate for carrying the milk. These rates, routes and schedules all have to be approved by the Public Service Commission, and, in addition, they were required to pay a franchise tax to the state of Maryland, through the Automobile Commissioner's office, on a ton mile basis for the privilage of having a protected route and for the privilege of operating as a common carrier over the roads of the state of Maryland.

The Maryland Farm Bureau Federation has employed counsel and will represent the farmers in the Maryland Court of Appeals when this case comes up for trial this month. This is a time when it is necessary for every dairy farmer in the state to rally to the support of the Farm Bureau organization because this case effects every milk producer.

We are going to need the active, moral support of every milk producer in the state and we are going to need his financial contribution to help with this important matter especially if it resolves itself into a legislative problem before the next legislature. Recently, nine of our dairymen were arrested in Talbot County which is in Inter-state Milk Producers' Association territory. Our farmers in the Maryland-Virginia territory are likewise vitally interested because this same transportation problem is involved in transporting their milk to Washington Of course this particular case has it's direct bearing on the Baltimore territory.

It was natural that those who were the guests of Miss Betsy Trotwood at High Gate Saturday evening,the eve of Dicken's birthday should feel themselves transported to Merry Old England, as they entered the door of their hostess. The first thing that caught their eye was the bust of Dickens, surrounded by candles with the map of England as a back ground. The little maid, Janet was there to usher them in where they were welcomed in stately hospitality by Miss Betsy assisted by Dolly Varden. Such a familiar group of personages were gathered together! There was Mrs. Snagby, becoming hysterical at her suspicions of her long suffering husband; Mrs. Skewton handsome still, trying to deceive the world as to the happiness of her daughter Edith; Miss Flite in her flighty way, hoping that the case in Chancery would soon be settled; Mrs. Varden lauding her husband's thoughtfulness of her. Dolly Varden, the same sweet personalty as ever; busy Mrs. Jelliby too busy with distributing tracts concerning the children of Africa and working for them, to attend to her own disordered household; lovely sympathetic Agnes, shedding sunshine; active Mrs. La Creevy in her vain search for good noses and expressive eyes for her minatures; while Miss Betsy Trotwood was as resourceful and gracious as she always was. There were many anonymous messages sent them from their admirers, Joey B., Mr. Jarndyce, Mr. Weller and others too numerous to mention.

A most enjoyable feast was served ending up with a toast to the spirit of Dickens.

Two prizes, one a beautiful collection of red geraniums, Dicken's favorite flowers and also a Dickens Calendar were given, the first to Mrs. Varden for the keenest knowledge of her friends' sentiments and the other to Mrs. Jelleby for the best interpretation of the character.

All were grateful to Miss Betsy for bringing them together again, and when they wended their way home ward they felt like Cinderella of old that the spell of the magic wand was broken and that they were ordinary human beings, treading the streets of Modern America again.
