SPORTING EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Washington Wins Great Basket Ball Contest in Baltimore From Loyola---Season Ends Tonight---Other News of Sports Realm.

The Washington College quintet won one of the most brilliant sporting events of the year in Baltimore on Saturday night when they defeated Loyola, 33-31. Loyola had previously defeated them by a two-point margin on the local floor after Washington had apparently clinched the game. A large crowd from Chestertown attended the game.

Washington went into the lead at the start, which they held for nearly the entire first half by desperate playing. Toward the close of the half Loyola made a brilliant effort to tie the score in which they were successful and the half ended 17-17.

Washington began the second half by immediately taking the lead, which they held for nearly the entire half. As it drew to a close Loyola, realizing that defeat was imminent, put forward their best efforts to tie the count. In this they were successful, and two minutes before the end of the game they went into the lead. However, Washington was out there to win, and, after making a desperate rally, they surged ahead and were able to hold the lead until the end.

Taken in its entirety, the game was a splendid exhibition of basketball and was a titanic struggle from start to finish.

The result of Washington—Loyola basketball game leaves the state title in doubt. Washington has won and lost to Mt. St. Mary's Loyola and Western Maryland and has lost to University of Maryland. Washington has defeated Blue Ridge twice, who has defeated Western Maryland twice; this eliminates Western Maryland. University of Maryland has played but one state team and should not be considered. Mt. St. Marys has played but two state teams, Washington and Loyola; they have won but a single game of the three played; this puts them out of the running. This reckoning leaves the championship between Loyola and Washington, and to give a clean title to the honors a game should be played between the two to decide the son.

leader of the game in Maryland. Washington has played more state games than Loyola and has won more and, if such a game should not be played, a fair reasoning should give Washington the honors.

Framed in the background of France's sensational, though losing fight to topple America from the international tennis pinnacle, Rene Lacoste stands forth as a potential world champion. If not already within the realm of consideration for the honor held so long by William T. Tilden 2d critics are of the opinion that Lacoste's straight-set victories over Tilden and Vincent Richards may be accepted as indicating that the 22-year old Wimbledon champion has earned a place as outstanding contender for international No. 1 ranking.

Grieb was dethroned as the world's middleweight champion the other night by the colored boxer, Tiger Flowers, who is the first colored man to hold the championship.

Helen Willis, the American tennis champion, has won two victories in the Monte Carlo tournament. In the finals of the women's singles she defeated Senorita De Alvarez, the Spanish champion, 6-2, 6-3, thereby acquiring the Duke of Connaught's gold cup which on first seeing it, she had said she would very much like to win. Later, paired with Mlle. Contoslavos, he won from Senorita De Alfarez and Didi Viasto in the finals of the women's open doubles, 6-3, 8-6. The Duke of Connaught stepped on to the courts and presented Helen with the gold cup, which she immediately turned over to the tennis club for safe keeping.

The basketball season at Washington College will end to-night, Saturday, when St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia will oppose the local Collegians on the home court. A big crowd will see the wind-up of the season.

THERE IS BEAUTY IN THIS DOOR

It faithfully follows the best traditions of Colonial architecture

THE increasing interest in the Colonial style of house calls for woodwork of appropriate design. The six-panel door is coming into its own.

But not every six-panel door is true in design to Colonial traditions. Here is one that is.

In this Curtis door (C-220), the different parts all bear the correct relation to each other. The stiles and rails are narrow, as they were in genuine Colonial doors.

And Curtis makes this design with thick, beveled panels, tastefully outlined by fine moldings. These details make an interesting play of lights and shadows on the face of the door. So many doors of this type are flat, dull, without character.

This beautiful door is typical of all Curtis Woodwork.

Come in and see examples of this well known line of woodwork, which includes not only doors but complete entrances, porch material, exterior moldings, windows, frames, interior trim, cabinetwork, stairwork.

Select the designs and sizes suitable to the style and plan of your house—old or new—from our Curtis catalog.

Give me a pipe and Prince Albert

GIVE me a pipe and Prince Albert. I want to be happy, you bet. I know what I want when I want it . . . a smoke without grief or regret. Funny how a fellow wants to break into poetry when he's happy as a lark.

Well, that's ME all over. I've discovered the one tobacco that makes a jimmy-pipe a pal for life. Good old P. A., the chummiest tobacco that ever nestled in the bowl of a briar. Cool and sweet and fragrant, just never was a tobacco like P. A.

I start in right after breakfast and hit it up till I sign off for the night. It never bites my tongue or parches my throat. They tell me the Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch. Whatever it is, I can testify they're out!

Here's a hot tip on a cool smoke—get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert now. Tuck a neat wad of it into your old jimmy-pipe and make fire with a match. That's the formula . . . simple as falling out of bed. That's why I'm pipe-happy, Brother.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.
