

These Sedans Illustrate the Low Cost of Finer Transportation

Every day the American public becomes better acquainted with the Better Buick.

The capacity of the great Buick factories is taxed to supply the demand.

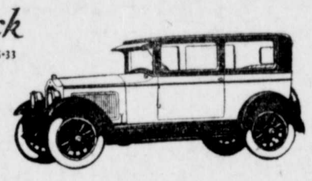

The Better Buick 5-passenger, 4-door and 2-door sedans are good illustrations of the reasons for Buick's accelerated popularity.

These sedans are real sedans with Fisher bodies, and striking Buick closed car body lines. Graceful. No harsh corners anywhere. Objects of admiration on boulevard and highway. Upholstery of finest quality. Interior refinements luxurious and complete.

And these fine bodies ride on the famous Buick chassis, with all the modern improvements and refinements introduced by the Better Buick.

The only similarity to "coaches," and other low-priced closed-car types, is price. Come in and compare these sedans before you spend your money. Here is finer transportation at lower cost.

Jones & Satterfied, of Chestertown, Maryland, were two of the 33 lucky hardware dealers who shared in the distribution of "Captain Kidd's treasure" by Henry Disston & Sons, Inc., at the convention and hardware exhibit of the Pennsylvania and Atlantic Coast Hardware Association in Philadelphia. Fourteen "pirate chests," supposed to have been dug up from the sands where they were buried more than two centuries ago by Captain Kidd and his crew of bucaneers, were distributed in booths of jobbers who handle the Disston saws, tools and files, and visiting hardware men tried their luck opening them with "magic keys" which had been sent to them by Henry Disston & Sons, Inc. Captain Kidd's own chest, in the Disston booth contained a handsome gold watch.

COMMUNICATED

Dear Editor:-

Our county paper this week, gives us an account of a meeting of the Tri-State Canners Association at Snow Hill last week. Secretary Shook told of the strong competition of Italy, in this business. He tells us that tomatoes grown in Italy and canned there, are imported into the United States and the total last year's import was more than 10 per cent. of the number of cases canned here. And that on top of a large crop canned in the United States.

Of course, the Tariff has something to do with the situation, but not all Tariff reduction in 1922, reduced it to fifteen percent ad. valorem, and the imports that year were 300,000 cases; last year 2,000,000 cases. In Italy laborers will work very cheap, and so will the peasant owners. Some how cheap labor is nicely kept out but cheap food is brought in all the way through the alphabet from canned asaragus to yellow tomatoes. It would seem that the gate which stops the cheap labor from coming to the farms of the United States, ought also be made fine enough, to strain out the products of the cheap labor on the other side.

From the thousands of dollars worth of tractors and power farming implements now going abroad for the peasant farmers overseas, will come this year and for the next three or four years, tons and tons of food products grown with slave labor, as it were True, the wheat grown by that cheap labor, will be just as nutrituous as that grown here by American grown men and women, but why not let those folks make for the farmers, the cloth for clothing; the plows and harvesters; the fertilizers and spray materials, and bring them over here cheap, on foreign boats, so as to help us cut our cost of production? Why not use cheap labor on the other side for the production of the rest of the things the American people need and reduce the tariff on the importations of them until they can come in cheap for American farmers.

The Tri-state Packers agreed that the price of the raw stock for the upkeep of the canneries be $12 for a ton, or a little more than half a cent a pound for tomatoes. In looking over my assets, I cannot find one item which will be cheap enough for the production of tomatoes at $12 a ton. Our fertilizer will cost us three times as much as it did ten years ago; labor about three times as much; our taxes are higher, and our interest is higher than ten years ago, yet the Tri-State Packers agreed to pay the same for tomatoes as was paid ten years ago.

We did not read what the Tri-State Packers agreed to pay the American Can Co. for cans, nor the Labor Union for labor on the tomatoes, nor could we find what they had agreed to pay for coal for running the factories, nor or freight. I am wondering how many industries would continue to produce if their selling price were fixed at what it was ten years ago?

If the farmer must suffer such a drastic cut to enable the industry to function, why not divide it among all those interested in the canning of tomatoes, and let all share alike in the loss which must be sustained. Do not force the farmer to take the entire cut.

EVELYN HARRIS.
