GOVERNOR RITCHIE EXPLAINS CONOWINCO PROJECT

EASTERN SHORE TO GET POWER IF MARKET IS DEVELOPED

Governor Ritchie, in an address before the Maryland Editoral Association, explained in detail the Conwingo project and why the power is to be sent to Philadelphia under the present contract.

This development which will involve an investment of $50,000,000 could never be anything but a dream until the investors were assured of a suitable market for the power developed. At the present time and looking well into the future this immense amount of power cannot be used in Maryland unless it is used in Baltimore by the United Railways or some other competing company that might be started in the city.

According to estimates of engineers this power could be sold to the United for 7 miles per K. W. H., of the United would being it but the United is buying power from a Pennsylvania hydraulic power plant for 6 mills per K. W. H. This eliminate this market. The possibility of selling power to a competing company would prove too great a risk as competing railways in Baltimore has always been a failure, and ends in consoldation.

With these facts the only way that this immense project can become a reality is through the present contract with the Philadelphia Railways although in approving this contract the Maryland Public Service Commission added the clause that the Maryland company, that is building this immense plant, shall furnish power in Maryland as the public shall demand. This clause makes it possible for Eastern Shore to take advantage of the power generated at Conowingo if a suitable market can be developed. The Governor stated that arrangements were being made to pipe the power to Wilmington for distribution to Eastern Shore towns.

The Conowingo project will mean a great financial asset to Harford County, Cecil County and the State of Maryland in the form of taxes and will also give employment to thousands of men for the next two years.

CHURCH NOTES

Dr. W. T. Corkran, who succeeded Rev. T. J. Sard as pastor of Chestertown M. E. Church, filled the pulpit Sunday morning and evening, and made a most favorable impression. Rev. Sard filled his new pulpit at Crisfield.

The yearly business meeting of the officials of Christ Methodist Protestant Church was held Monday night, when all financial obligations for the year were met in full and plans arranged for the new conference year. The congregation had one of the most successful and profitable years during the six years' pastorate of the present minister, the Rev. N. O. Gibson. For the annual and general conference budgets, as well as for the current expenses of the local church, more than $7,000 was raised during the year. New members have been added and improvements made to the Sunday-school room at a cost of $1,000. Rev. Gibson, who is away at conference, is expected to return for another year we are glad to state.
