WASHINGON WINS FROM P. M. C. AND TIES WITH LOYOLA COLLEGE

Washington and Loyola battled to a 8-8 tie in ten innings on Washington Field on Saturday last. Carroll was on the mound for Washington and did the work, but was supported raggedly. As far as hitting was concerned the Washington team looked far better than in any previous game this season. All of the home teams eight runs were scored on real base hits, the Loyola nine playing errorless ball. Loyola on the otherhand was presented with four of her eight runs without having to make a hit and the other four came after the side should have been retired.

The Washington College baseball team defeated the Pennsylvanians Military College on Wednesday afternoon at Chester by the score of 5 to 2. The game lasted ten innings. Washington College hit their batting stride in the tenth and drove three runs across the rubber. The Washington College team is showing decided improvement as it advances.

Washington College will play Mt. St. Mary's today, Saturday, on Washington Field. he latter won the first game of the season 8-4.

PLAYING THE HEALTH GAME FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

A message to the boys and girls of Maryland on "Playing the Health Game" from Secretary of Commerce Hoover, has been relayed to the "kids" in the State, through the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health. Here is the message:—

"When I was a youngster, it never occurred to our parents or teachers that the kids themselves must take the most important part in their own growing up in order to be strong and healthy. Moreover, in those times the world knew nothing about why contagous diseases were contagious; nothing about why and what food made for strong brains, legs or lungs.

"Our resolute mothers fought off illness, stuffed our tummies, and hoped for the best from accidents in the swimminghole, from foul balls and climbed trees. May kids were thought to be condemned to be perpetually weak. To grow up normal and strong was mostly luck plus mother's effort and her prayers.

"But since then medical science has discovered a lot of things. To know how to stop much contagious disease at its origin and to stop it from spreading. We know the rules by which to keep healthy from teeth to toes. We know a lot about safety methods to prevent accidents.

"We know that to have and to hold a good job and to be a good citizen we must have good health. We know all this can be helped by play. It does not abolish joy or adventure."

He closes his message by saying that to win good health, the youngster has to learn to follow the health rules, that the doctors, the health authorities, mother and the teachers can not serve as his proxies; that it is up to each kid to play his or her part of the health game fairly and squarely. He also has something to say about this being a good time of the year for the grown-ups to consider their responsibility in regard to the health of the youngsters. But as an equally well known authority has remarked "that's another story."

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE FOR MARYLAND 1926

The Department of Commerce announces that, according to the returns received, there were 25,447 marriages performed in Maryland during the year 1925, as compared with 25,342 in 1924, representing on increase of 105, or 0.4 per cent. This increase, however, is slightly less than the estimated increase in the population.

During the year 1925 there were 1,614 divorces granted in the state, as compared with 1,664 in 1924, representing a decrease of 50, or 3 per cent.

The estimated population of the state of Maryland on July 1, 1925, was 1,560,230, marriages per 1,000 of the population was 16.3 in 1925, as against 16.4 in 1924; and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 1.03 in 1925, as against 1.08 in 1924.

In Kent County there were 210 marriages and 8 divorces in 1925 as compared with 174 marriages and 2 divorces in 1924. In Queen Anne's County there were 104 marriages and 5 divorces in 1925 as compared with 83 marriages and 2 divorces in 1924.

APRIL ARBOR

Sometimes I say I will let beauty pass,
Let beauty pass that urge of song may die,
That moons of toil forever sail me by.
My Moments shall be signed to plodding prose.
On open sill shall drop the yellow rose.
Unseen; a wild bird's call have no reply.
With eyes downcast my sense and I
Shall silent kneel and let earth's beauty pass.

I throw my shutters open unaware
And tangle in a mesh of lilac air.
Dogwood and redbud in the green glimmering,
A scatter of spring sunshine, a blue wing
And on the page trembling my fingers tall
Lost in the fresh, keen startle of it all.

KENT COUNTY'S BIGGEST ASSET

"Bishop McDowell tells of an old farmer who, at the close of the Civil War, bereft of his sons, sat down in a college chapel. As he watched the students file in he had a vision of the long procession of students through the years. He said to himself, "These will go and others will come. The professors will go and others will take their places. My farm will just about endow a chair, so I will go home and deed it to the college. Then by the grace of God, I shall be here while the world stands."

Although Washington College is 143 years old, yet I know of but three persons who have shown such an interest as that of the old man in our college. I have been surprised to find so many of Kent County's honered citizens who have passed on, wholly ignoring in their wills the imperative needs of this local institution for higher education.

Way up in Cinnecticut a former student of Washington College said to me; "All I am I owe to Washington College; so I am ready to will one-half of my estate to the old college."

Kent County is the only county on the Eastern Shore with a college. What does Kent owe to Washington College What is the college worth to the county? How many local residents have enjoyed at Washington the privilege of getting college training at home How many have profitted by its social and intellectual contributions Do you take it as a matter of course or are you fully alive to its advantages and appreciate its being here?

I have before me a brochure of a well known college in Ohio. It is appealing for $8,000,000. It says it will get the money from eight sources:—trustees, alumni and former students, faculty, students, and parents of students, citizens of Delaware County, members of the Methodist Church, and business men whose future business success depends upon trained leadership and friends of the college.

Washington College has the right to expect support from the same sources except the denominational one.

One by one, slowly but eventually, the Board of Visitors and Governors are doing their duty by the college.

I might make a like statement about the Alumni.

While the faculty and student body are always responsive, I am inclined to think that Kent County does not sense the full significance of the college in its midst. Let's look at the situation. The white population of Kent County is 9,579. Of the 183 students enrolled, 31 board at home because they live in Kent County. Since 6,000 Kent Countians have saving accounts amounting to over $3,000,000, Kent can afford to be loyal financially as she is loyal in stuednt support. I congratulate her on her student privileges.

Kent County can get under the load that is almost breaking the back of the college. How heavy is that load?

Let's be candid. The load is getting almost too heavy. Do you know the amount of the deficit last year?

If Washington grows at its present rate, by the Fall of 1927 it will have 300 students. Every indication points that way. Do you want that number of college students in Kent County?

You are hearing a great deal from our college president about a Chair of Country Life. It is sorely needed. There are one hundred and one reasons why there should be such a Chair.

The college is equally anxious for a department of Biblical Literature and Religious Education. But the college has no money for these needed attentions yet. It is getting a little money but not enough to meet its increasing indebtedness.

What is Kent County doing to help? In 1782 when Dr. William Smith began his campaign for Washington College he secured in Kent County 111 pledges amounting to 1560. In 1922 the Alumni put on a campaign for $50,000 and secured from Kent County 89 pledges amounting to $5,787.50

In 1924 the college put on a campaign for $200,000 and in Kent County four-hundred and forty subscribed $26,288.50. This is due July 1, 1925. A goodly percentage of the installment payments already due has been paid, the college having collected $20,000 this far, or one-third of the $60,000 subscribed.

These givings are most commendable but the time has come to make larger investments. to think in bigger figures.

The giving frame of mind is still only embryonic. To my personal knowledge I know of but one citizen of Kent County who has made provision in his will for the college. His gift will be worth approximately $40,000. I congratulate his widow on having such a far-seeing husband. He has a goodly company among benefactors for other colleges. I fear he stands alone in Kent County.

I have watched local newspaper reports of other wills for any bequest to Washington, but I have looked in vain. Doesn't the present administration guarantee the future of the college?

A few thousand dollars less for your nearest heirs will not disturb them. On the other hand, think what a gift of 10,000 to Washington College will mean! The interest on this sum will keep one more student always in in college. Your gift will be educating a student every four years, or $5000 will feed one student throughout all the days of the present age. $2,000 will provide forever the tuition of the student.

Washington is just beginning to talk about annuities. Are you reading in the local papers our college ads about the annuities? I challenge you to show a safer, saner, more profitable investment.

If you knew all the facts, you would see that Washington College is facing a financial crisis. It is the embarrassment attending success. Washington is making men and women but it is losing money.

Three groups of people can save it:—trustees, alumni, and the people of Kent County. Who is more vitally interested? Give while you live. Invest your dollars in college deeds.

"Ye think that a'm asking a great big thing when I plead for a few notes to give a puir laddie a college education. I tell ye, man, a'm honoring ye and giving ye the fairest chance ye'll ever hae o' winnng wealth." (Ian Mac Laren)

POLO DRAWS DROWD.

EASTERN SHORE CLUB MAKES BALTIMORE AGGREGATION HUSTLE TO DEFEAT THEM

One of the most talked of and at the same time, one of the most interesting athletic events of the year took place in one of Mr. Ramie Zeisal's fields, in Queen Annes, near town. on Saturday afternoon last when the Eastern Shore Woman's Polo Association team and the Maryland Women's Polo Association team of Baltimore battled most intensively. The latter won, 5 to 2. A crowd estimated at 1500 entered the grounds and on around the field.

Six shukkers, or periods, of five minutes each were played. Three minutes were allowed for rest between each chukker and five minutes at half time. During the first period the Shore team played brilliantly, the ball being constantly in the Baltimore territory. The first score was made during the initial period by Miss Rowena Woods, of the local team. When time was called Miss Fusselbaugh. of Baltimore. was close to scoring. At the opening of the second period substitutes were made.

Baltimore scored at the beginning of the second period when Miss Fusselbaugh, star of the yellow team, ran up a marker after a brilliant series of runs down the field. During the first half the visitors failed to play up to their usual standard while local horse-women gave them stroke for stroke. Misses Woods, Brice and Mrs. Carvel starred duirng this part of the setto. With the score standing 1 to 1. Miss Clendaniel scored for the local team. In a moment Miss Fusselbaugh again tied the score.

In the fifth chukker Miss Bosley ran up another marker for Baltimore players. Miss Brice, Shore captain, sustained a hard blow in the left eye from a Baltimore whip and her game was considerably slowed up during the remainder of the match. This occurred midway of the game.

In the sixth and final chukker Miss Fusselbaugh scored two goals. The game ended shortly afterward.

A silver cup, donated by the Business Men's Association of Kent county, Md., was then presented the winners by President Paul Emerson Titsworth of Washington College.

Lieutenant Hamby, who is detailed by the Third Army Corps headquarters to develop polo in Maryland, refereed the game. The scorer was Charles Schmidt, of Baltimore, and the timekeeper, Thomas W. Perkins, of Chestertown.

"Melodies Of Real Lifef" is a big rural number, featuring country songs and dances by the country kids. The comedy end of the show will be taken care of by the "Melody Band Minstrels" and all new minstrel frolic, with new songs, dances, and novelties by a large chorus of Chestertown's best men singers dancers and comedian.
