COUNTY AGENTS NOTES, BY HORACE B. DERRICK

Farmers' Day will be held at the University of Maryland next Saturday, May 29th, when all branches of the University will be open for inspection. The new Dairy Building and Gymnasium, the Experimental Plots, Egg Laying Contest, Demonstrations by the Extension Service and addresses of interest will be outstanding features. It is an all day affair. Thousands of Maryland farmers will attend and would make a profitable trip for every Kent farmer.

PASTURE

In this unfavorable season for grass and pastures, along comes at least one Kent farmer and dairyman with more clover and grass than he can keep down. Ask Henry Anderson and take a look at his Sweet Clover.

BANKERS ENTERTAIN

The Maryland Bankers' Association had as their guests at Atlantic City last week, the Maryland Boys' Club Dairy Judging Team which won in the United States and will go to England. The Boys were feted royally by the State Bankers in their annual session. Mr. W. B. Copper conceived the idea of having the boys there and the other members of the Agricultural Committee, including Judge Duncan, the Chairaman, were heartily in accord. While Mr. Copper guaranteed the expenses of the Team, yet when the boys gave short talks and Judge Duncan gave the report of the Agricultural Committee, the Bankers appropriated not only sufficient funds for the expenses of the team, but invited the winning Maryland team to be their guests each year following. This shows what the bankers think of Club Work.

TURKEYS OUT

While visiting Mr. Julian Jones last Wednesday I learned that Mrs. Jones had 145 turkeys hatched and doing nicely. The next day while at the farm of Mr. John Biggers I found they had over one hundred out. Looks like a good start.

SUGGESTIONS TO APPLE GROWERS

Due to the extremely dry spring, apple scrab spores have not discharged to date under orchard conditions, with the exception of Caroline County where showers fell around May 1. Dr. Jehle believes that scab spores will discharge throughout the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland with the next rain, but in Central and Western Maryland the spores will require a light rain to ripen them and will discharge at the subsequent rain. Where scabby apple leaves have been kept wet artifically spores have discharged in all sections of the State with the exception of the extreme Western portion. In view of these facts apple growers should make every possible effort to get on a thorough covering of spray at the Petal Fall stage, because in all probability the Petal Fall stage this year will be as important in scab control as the Pink Spray is in a normal season.

A meeting of the Cumberland-Shenandoah Spray Program Committee was held in Washington on the 8th. In view of the peculiar weather conditions and other factors existing this spring, which indicate the necessity for greater efforts to control the first brood codling moth, the committee on the consolidated spray program for the states of West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland decided upon a modification of their program for this year as follows:

1. The so-called ten days spray will be delayed until the first eggs of the codling moth hatch. The exact date will be given by the Spray Service of the respective stages and will be approximately two to three weeks after petal fall.

2. This spray and the next spray should be put on with unusual thoroughness. Increased amounts of liquid be applied to insure more thorough coating with the view of controlling the first brood of codling moth to the extent that the omission of the customary ten weeks spray may be a possibility. Thoroughness is vital this year as all indications point to the greatest importance of the Peta Fall and subsequent cover sprays.

It will be necessary to change Apple Spray Card No. 4 in conformity with the above recommendations. This can be done in the space for "Remarks."

—Mrs. Annie Chaires has sold the dwelling on High St., extended adjoining the Gas Plant to Mr. Levi Downey.
