

The new and magical MOTOR FUEL

IT'S ESSO—better than the very best motor fuel you've ever used.

It's ESSO—developed by the Standard Oil Company (N. J.) from its fifty-six years of refining experience.

ESSO is more than gasoline. It is a custom-built fuel which not only adds new power to the motor, but endows it with new life and longer life.

What does ESSO do?

First of all, ESSO is more powerful than any other motor fuel. It eliminates knocks. It unleashes the latent power of your motor and lets it develop its full rated horse-power.

And ESSO has pick-up—such a pick-up as you've dreamed of! Yet ESSO has something more than pick-up. It has the extra power that will enable you to take the long tough hills on high.

Test ESSO! Start clean with a tankful. Choose your favorite and most difficult hill. Feel ESSO put two extra cylinders in your engine. Judge it by any standard of performance that you know, and then you will realize that we have not in any way over-stated the magical properties of ESSO.

Red in Color. Packed with Power. Costs 5c more—worth it.

What the consistent use of Esso gives

1. All your motor's power—and no knocks.
2. Greater flexibility — less gear shifting.
3. Freedom from use of choke—no crankcase dilution.
4. Quick start—lightning fast.
5. Instant pick-up—quick as a cat.
6. Speed and pull for the long hard hills.
7. New and longer life to the engine.

"Standard" Gasoline

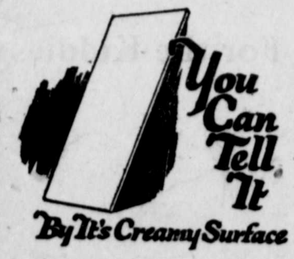

is the ideal fuel for normal requirements

ESSO is manufactured to meet the following special conditions:

1. For motors that knock.
2. For motors with excessive carbon.
3. For high compression motors.
4. For motors which from long use no longer develop full power.
5. For motors operating under excessive loads.
6. For any motor from which the driver demands extra power and performance.

POULTRY NOTES

ITEMS THAT WILL HELP OUR READERS SOLVE THEIR INTRICATE PROBLEMS

Summer is here and with it comes the added problem of the poultry husbandman in keeping his flocks free from pests and parasites. Often times the good growth and excellent start which chicks may get through good care and management, are entirely off-set and this advantage lost through the ravages of parasites during the summer. One of the most common causes of rapid falling off in production during the summer witn laying flocks, is the prevalence in excessive numbers, of red mites and body lice. These parasites thrive and do best during warm summer weather; hence the summer season is the most critical in regard to them.

The same is true of internal parasites, which are round worms and tape worms. Summer time is their natural breeding season. It is the time when they prey upon the birds, especially the growing chicks, and cause serious losses if present in any considerable numbers. The prevention and extermination of the extermination of the more common parasites of poultry is in the constant watchfulness and preventative measures. They must be controlled if the business is to be made profitable.

There are many species of insects and other forms of animal life which are parasitic upon poultry; tht number being around thirty. Some live on the skin, others bore under the skin; some stay on the birds only a short time; and others live upon the bird's body continuously. The presence of these parasites causes birds to grow slowly and never to reach their adult size. Their presence causes a great decrease in egg production, and their presence greatly wears down the vitality of the flock; the blood sucking type of parasites especially disturbing the fowls when they are at rest on the perches, and keeping the flock in a nervous disturbed condition. It is not necessary for the poultryman to know all of the thirty odd varieties of poultry parasites, but there are a few common ones which he should know, and which he must continually guard against. Among the most common types are body lice, red mites, depluming mites and scaley leg mites. Paint the interior of your houses and roosts with carbolinenun and you will rid yourself of there musances.

The Blue Andalusians at the New York Laying contest not only averaged to lay more eggs than any of the other breeds, but they also returned a greater profit above the cost of feed consumed. They averaged 22.4 eggs per bird while the Leghorns were second with 21.1 eggs. The Andalusians return a profit above the feed cost of $.45 per pullet for the month. The Leghorns claim second honors with $421. The Rhode Island Whites were third with $.413.

In the past few years a number of different reasons have been advanced for the apparent lack of interest on the part of the public in our poultry shows. It is needless at this time to go into a lengthy enumeration of what was, or might have been, the cause or causes, for a decrease in gate receipts at a majority of our poultry exhibitions. Suffice it to say that we believe that the majority of the reasons advanced for the falling off in the numbers of the persons who ought to have come to see the birds on display, were not the controlling reasons; or at least we may go so far as to say that one of the true reasons may have been that the shows were not made interesting enough to the general public, and perhaps not educational or explanatory enough for those exhibitors who could not be present in person.

June! What a glorious time to live! What a month to pep up and get all the enoyment possible to a human being in this world in a space of thirty-one days of life and love! Let there be no clouds these days. How they grow! Behold the gleam of their eyes! They are drinking June right in. You do the same and don't get the blues. Seven months at least poles is just ahead of us. What a chance to have fun with your poultry and make money, too!

Don't cull too early. You can't always tel what kind of man a boy is going to make. Even when he is fifteen he may not show up for the best there is in him for the remaining years of his life. Many a genius at twenty-five was unsuspected of coming greatness. Cromwell was a farmer at 48, and Toussant a sheep herder at 46. It's that way with chickens. Unless the defects are altogether too prominent you better wait till the birds are a quarter or half grown before you condemn them as hopeless culls. It takes time for color to come out to full maturity. Even one week makes a mighty difference in the appearance of a young bird. Be patient. They are putting on flesh, building bone and muscle and nerve—growing rapidly into money for you anyway. Let them grow. Of course any cripple or evident weakling better be put out of existence at once. His room is better than his monstrous little body. But go slow in culing the strong youngsters.

The broody hen is in the land. She will multiply in numbers more and more as the days go by toward summer, and in July and August she will swarm over the land like the frogs of Eygpt. May be you better make the most of her hatching instinct. This month especially it might be well to give her a "clutch" of eggs of the right kind, and so make money while you give her a rest. If you break her up at once she will go back to laying in a week or so, but will be likely to lay only a few eggs when she will be back in the broody list again. If you give her a good rest she may get back on the laying job for all summer. Men and women have their limits of endurance which they cannot pass without danger and loss. The hen may know more about what she needs to do than you suspect.
