

No Ear Could Tell What You See in the Mirror—That He Plays Without Touching the Keys

The Biggest Thrill in Music is Playing it Yourself

And now even untrained persons can do it

IN MUSIC as in every human activity, it's your own participation that rouses your emotions most.
It's the ball you drive down the fairway yourself that stirs your blood.
It's the song that you sing yourself that touches your heart.
It's the number that you dance yourself that entrances you.
And this human trait is even more pronounced in the music that you play.
There is rapture in listening to the playing of others; but in playing yourself there's the thrill of personal creation, the hush of ineffable sweetness, and the flight of joy to heights no other music can attain. It is here you find your supreme inspiration.

Only Piano of Its Kind

We admit that it seems incredible that untrained persons can play like this—can play by roll, equal to playing by hand. Indeed it would be impossible were it not for the Gulbransen Registering Piano, the only instrument of its kind in the world.

For neither ordinary player-pianos, nor reproducing pianos can give you complete control of the keys, the same as in hand playing. The Gulbransen alone does this.

Hence you can play not "mechanical" music, but human music, with the human expression—the Time, the Touch and the Tone Volume that you yourself impart to it.
