MY NATIVE SHORE

I'm longing for my native shore,
That borders on the Bay.
I'm wishing I were there once more
To live one childhood day.
Ambition made it seem too small;
For me a broader life;
I answered to the city's call,
But wearied now of strife,
Of strife and arguing with men,
I sing this my lament;
Oh, would that I were back again
Along the shores of Kent.
An humble cottage by the bay,
Where tides that rise and fall,
Will soothe and ever wash away
Again some day repeat.
I crave the sight of waving wheat;
The smell of curing hay;
The sound of baby lambs that bleat;
The breeze from off the bay.
The soft warm feeling of the dust
Aroused by childish feet;
The taste of wild fox-grapes, I must
Agan some day repeat.
Now likened to a tulip gleams
The city bright and gay.
But as a modest violet seems,
My home beside the bay.
The sweet exchange of little things
That binds the guest and host,
Cooperative spirit brings,
With home the tracing post.
So thus I find, rural pursuit
A nobler pathway trends,
Than harvesting of city loot
Through fighting so-called friends.

TO PROTECT OUR FISH

NEW LEGISLATION AT COMING TERM TO PRESERVE THEM

New legislation to provide additional protection for the fish supply of the Chesapeake Bay will be sought in the next Legislature by Maryland conservation authorities, E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, announced yesterday.

Citing the establishment of valuable rock fisheries in the Pacific from slightly more than one hundred specimens of this variety from Maryland waters less than thirty years ago, Mr. Lecompte pointed out that the present annual value of the rock fish industry in California is more than that of all the Atlantic States combined.

This ratio, he said, presents an example of the benefits of effective protection, explaning that prior to 1879 the rock fish was unknown in Pacific waters, although there was an abundance of the species in Atlantic waters, the original habitat of the fish having been along the Altantic coast from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Gulf of Mexico.

At present Cape Cod and South Carolina seem to mark these limits, it was said, and although these fish were abundant in the Chesapeake Bay and Delaware Bay regions at the close of the last century they are not so plentiful as formerly. although relatively large schools make their appearance every year.

While Mr. LeCompte regards it virtually impossible to make an accurate estimate of the commercial value of this fish, he quoted a census taken in 1908 which sets this figure at $314,000 for the whole Atlantic Coast, Maryland leading with a value of $65,000. The same census gives California a value of $135,000.

In 1879 the rock fish was introduced into the waters of the Pacific Coast by the shipment of 132 fish from one and one-half to three inches long and thirty brood specimens of medium size, twenty-five of which died in transit. From this shipment the species established itelf in the Pacific Coast waters.

A secnd planting of 300 fish was made in 1882 and a rapid increase was observed from year to year. In 1907 the California Fish and Game Commission began an investigation as to the advisability of establishing hatchery sites for rock fish propagation, and since that time successful hatcheries have been started, Mr. LeCompte said.

"The laws which are found on the statue books of the Atlantic Coast States probably are responsibel for the striped bass being as plentiful as it is today," he continued, "but the supply could be increased vastly by suitable protective measures. Speaking for Maryland, our laws are inadequate. The spawning season being from April to July, it can be seen that the Maryland law, which provides that no striped bass weighing more than twenty pounds may be taken n May and June, does not take care of the situaton.

Urges More Protection

"No rock weighing more than fifteen pounds should be taken at any time of the year, as this size fish is the one producing the spawn. Our law further provides that no person shall take any stripped bass (as rock fish sometime are called) under ten inches. The minimum size certainly should be increased to eighteen inches.

THANKS FOR LOCAL PEOPLE

September 21, 1926
Editors of the Transcript
Chestertown, Maryland
Dear Sirs:—

Washington College wishes to thank the good people of Chestertown and this community for the gratifying and gracious manner in wnich they have offered to help us accommodate our growing student body and faculty. The spirit manifested shows an admirable support of the institution on the part of Chestertown folks.

Although the College this year has the largest registration in its history. it has not been necessary to make use, for student purposes, of many of the rooms off the campus because our present enrollment includes proportionately a much larger percentage then usual of day-students wno room and board at home.

Incidentally this increase of day-students is gratifying to the authorities of the institution because it proves to them that Washington is growing in favor with men and women of its own immediate territory.

Although only a few of the accommodations offered the college authorities have been finally used, I wish to express my personal appreciation for the interest which this locality has shown in helping us solve what, for many weeks, has been a perplexing housing problem for the college. Those who have offered us rooms which we have not been able to use have given us equal assistance with those whose quarters we have been able to fill.

PAUL E. TITSWORTH.
President of Washington College

"A MILE OF MOTOR TRUCKS" WILL BRING DOWNIE BROS. WILD ANIMAL CIRCUS TO CHESTERTOWN

Advancing with the times the Downie Bros. Wild Animal Circus have discarded their obsolete wooden railroad cars and are this Season using to transport their gigantic amusement enterprise an immense fleet of motor trucks!

The same high class performance is carried as in former years. Two rings, an elevated stage and a steel arena being necessary to display the fifty great acts and features including the Downie Bros. herd of performing elephants tained by N. W. McKay, former trainer of "Tusko" the world's largest elephant. Included in the herd is "Teddy" the New York Hippodrome elephant who for the past three years has been at the World's largest theatre.

Among the many other American and foreign acts is Capt. Terp and his Austrailian horses, ponies, dogs and monkeys. Vernon Ott and his educated monkey "Knckles." Steve Oris, the Montana Cowboy. The DeHoman Family of acrobats, contortionists and hand balancers. The Mansfields, rifle experts and sharpshooters. Fidell Ortega and Vernon West, masters of the silver wire. Franklin Bros. novelty perch artists. Misses Roja and Wilson, the ladies with the iron jaws.

A street parade is given daily at Noon. The most novel circus parade in the world. Forty nine trucks of about every standard make will be seen in line. Each and every animal has their palatial auto Pullman. No horse drawn vehicles will be in line. Of course the trained horses will be there as well as the funny clowns, three bands, two calliopes. Don't miss it!

For this Seaon the Downie Bros. have reduced the admission prices so that the masses can attend. Adults 50c, and children 25c. There will be two performances at 2:15 and 8.15 p M. Remember the day and date one day only, Tuesday, October 5.

RAIN INJURES MD. CROPS

Crops in Maryland sustained injury during August, according to a statement given out today by John S. Dennee, Federal crop statistician for Maryland. Rain fell in copious quantities over all the State between the 11th and the 24th, varying at times from a drip to a deluge. In more or less degree maturing fruits. particularly peaches, were damaged; as also were cantaloupes, hay, grain in shock tomatoes, and in some sections tobacco and early corn.

Farmer especially stress the damage to wheat and oats in shock, and to tomatoes by scalding on the prostrated vines in the hot sunsmine which followed close on the heels of the long wet spell.

Late corn and late potatoes benefitted. Pastures and grasses were revived and are lookng good, says the Statistician. But the heavy rains were very hard on tomatoes, prostrating the vines. and only a light yield is looked for. The tobacco crop is spotty; on many good fields and not a few poor ones. Cutting of early tobacco is progressing in the counties of Charles and St. Marys. And plowing for fall wheat is about half accomplished in some parts of the State.

CARNIVAL SUCCESSFUL

BIG EVENT BRINGS IN A NET PROFIT OF ABOUT $5,000

The annual Firemen's Carnival was unusually successful, and the final events were held Saturday night. Although a final check on the proceeds has not yet been made, the gross taken in exceeds $10,599.82, the last count, which will bring a net profit estimated at around $5,000. The big prizes of the week, the two automobiles went to county residents. Norman Hopkins, of near Kennedyville winning the Chevrolet and George Burk of Chestertown, taking the Ford. The Frigidaire was won by J. N. Cummings, of Oxford, Pa.; the living room set by J. H. Markler, of Seaford, Del.; and the bed spread, by Mrs. Ernest H. Strong, of Chestertown.

Miss Anna Cook Coleman as "Miss Chestertown" was named as "Miss Kent County" for the year 1926-27 at the close of the Chestertown Firemen's Carnival last Saturday night. Miss Coleman in winning the popularity contest gathered 24.306 votes out of a total of 53,052.

"Miss Kent County" will be given a free trip to the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia, where she will be received by the city officials. She will be accompanied by Miss Maude Hadaway, as "Miss Rock Hall," Miss Rowena Woods as "Miss Worton" and Miss Anna Crew as "Miss Betterton." These young ladies finished second third and fourth in the voting in the order named. "Miss Rock Hall" received 11,656 votes, "Miss Worton" 9,690 and "Miss Betterton" 7,400.

WITH OUR FARMERS

In spite of not threshing until after the rainy spell, Mr. Jonothan Jones, of near Millington, averaged 37 bushels of wheat to the acre, off 60 acres.

With a fifty per cent. acreage in Kent County and a very poor crop, tomatoes have reached a new high price on the open market. In some instances farmers who did not contract are receiving fifty five cents a basket at their patch, while a large number are delivering tomatoes under acontract of twenty and twenty five cents a basket. Two years ago conditions were about the same although there was a much larger crop. Last year tose who contracted received twenty and twenty-five cents a basket, while the open market was paying twelve and fifteen cents. Kent farmers, who contracted this year, will lose money on their crop.

According to estimates the corn crop in Kent county will run about eighty five percent of normal. Cutting has started in many sections.

The resent year has not proved a money maker for Kent farmers. The asparagus crop was poor; wheat very good; fruit a bumper crop but very low price; tomatoes very poor; corn about 85 per. cent crop.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

ORGANIZATION TO .BE .PERMANENTLY FORMED MONDAY EVENING

At a meeting of the members of the temporary organization held Monday evening in Chestertown, it was decided to hold a public meeting in the Court House Chestertown on Monday, September 27, at 8 p. m., for the purpose of making the temporary organization pernament, and elect permanent officers.

Kent county is one of the few counties of the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula that does not have a Chamber of Commerce working for that county, and unless the citizens of Kent get behind those public spirited citizens who are making an effort to form a Kent County Chamber of Commerce this county is going to lose the opportunity of reaping the benefits derived from the nation wide publicity being sent out by the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association.

At the present time there is no county-wide organization in Kent County that is looking to the interests of the county. and a great deal can be accomplished if all sections unite in a common effort to improve social, business. transportation and many other conditions that will come under the eye of an organization such as a Chamber of Commerce.

It is the object of those furthering this move to have a Board of Directors composed of representations from all parts of the county, and this in itself will tend to bring about a closer relationship of the various sections in a business and social way.

Attend the meeting on Monday evening and learn more about this progressive move.

NEWBURGH TO CHESTERTOWN

Messrs. R. Hynson Rogers and Webster Hadaway left Chestertown last Thursday by train for Newburgh, New York. to bring a yacht, of the cabin cruiser tye, which Mr. Rogers recently bought, to Chestertown. They left Newburgh early Friday morning and arrived in Chestertown at 7 a. m., Monday morning, using the following waterways: Hudson River into New York Bay into te Kiels into Raritan River into the Raritan Canal into the Delaware River into the Delaware Bay into the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal into Back Creek into Elk River into Chesapeake Bay into Chester River to Chestertown.

The trip was made without accident although they found the boat traffic in te lower Hudson and upper New York Bay to be equal to the automobile traffic in Chestertown on Saturday night and they report many narrow escapes from being run down. Another mar to the trip was the running out of gasoline in the Hudson River, which necessitated a long row, a long walk an automobile ride and a tow before they got underway again. The trip was made by chart.

HOG CHOLERA IN KENT

The disease was reported to exist on 14 premises during the month against 53 a year ago, and a 7 year average of 77 for the same period. 12 were classed as primary. or new outbreaks, and 2 as secondary or spread of the infection. 9 were of the backyard type, while 5 occurred on farms where hogs are bred and raised, but 1 of these in reality was a garbage feeding plant.

Of the 14 outbreaks in Maryland. Kent County, with a burst of speed in the home stretch led the bunch with 5 outbreaks. Queen Anne and Worcester Counties were tied with 2 each. Prince George, St. Marys. and Talbot scored apiece.

Subject to the Democratic Primaries of Kent County.
