IN THE GREAT catastrophy which has befallen Southern Florida, the sorrow and distress is nationwide, not only that there are few communities that are not financially interested in the rapid, almost phenominal growth of that fair region, but in sympathy for the suffering and horrors attendant on the great storm. No doubt the cities will be restored, and the people will work with renewed energy for that end. But the remembrance of the ready response of the whole country to assist the unfortunate will linger long in their memories. We have been peculiarly blessed on this peninsula, situated between the ocean and the bay, too far north for tropical storms and yet in the fair south "Where the sun doth shine, And fruits hang heavy on tree and vine." Our shores are washed by the bay and ocean and yield their wealth of fish and oysters. Now in the days of quick travel, the parcel post, the telephone and radio, it is no longer remote from the center of things. Let us do all we can to boost our peninsula and establish industries here which will keep our young people with us, instead of losing them and deminishing our population every year.

DEATHS

Mrs. Laura H. Lambert, daughter of the late Charles H. Davis and widow of the late William H. Lambert, Jr., of Chestertown, died at her late home in Philadelphia, Wednesday morning following several months illness of heart trouble, aged 65 years. She is survived by four daughters, Miss Laura, Eunice and Isabelle Lambert and Mrs. Ruth Faulkner all of Philadelphia, and one son, Henry Lambert of China. The remains will be brought via train to Chestertown on Saturday morning where funeral services will be held at the home of Dr. H. L. Dodd at 2 p. m. today and interment made in Chester cemetery. Dr. W. F. Corkran will have charge of the funeral service and Charles L. Dodd, undertaker. The pall bearers will be Dr. H. L. Dodd, Walter U. Lusby, Merrick Clements, Leon Brown, Arthur M. Brown, Gus Nickerson and M. A. Toulson.

Aristides Smith Goldsborough, a prominent alumnus of Washington College, and executive secretary of the Baltimore Association of Commerce died at his home, Baltimore, last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Goldsborough who was 56 years old, died of heart disease from which he has suffered for more than a year. It is believed that he had been overworking recently in connection with preparing the Maryland Exhibit at the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial. Besides Mrs. Goldsborough, Mr. Goldsborough is survived by three daughters, the Misses Margaret, Eleanor and Katherine Goldsborough. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goldsborough, and a native of Queen Anne's County. Funeral services were held at his home Sunday afternoon. On Monday his body, escorted by two members of the State Police, passed through Chestertown on the way to Centreville where burial was held at the Chesterfield Cemetery.

Mr. Frances V. Scott, wife of Winfield Scott, formerly of Rock Hall, died at her late home, Forest Park, Baltimore, Md., on Saturday last after a lingering illness, aged 50 years. She leaves besides a husband, two children, a daughter, Mis Mary E. Scott, also a mother, two sisters and a brother. Funeral services were held from her late residence on Tuesday, September 21st, at 1.30 p. m. Interment in Loudon Park Cemetery. Mrs. Scott was the sister-in-law of Mrs. J. Webster McIntyre, of Chestertown.

CARE OF HOGS

EVERY EFFORT SHOULD BE EXERTED TO FEED THEM CORRECTLY

Feet like noses are of many sizes and shapes and it would doubtless be hard to classify them in any definite order. However, we might mention a few varieties. Some feet seem to go off on a tangent and look like they might take their owner on an East and West course instead of due North and South. However, as with the cross-eyed butcher, they don't strike where they point. In bygone days feet which pointed in were quite fashionable and resulted from bashful maidens turning their toes inward to denote shyness. However, with the advent of the flapper, this variety has practically become extinct. If the size of feet was any indication of brain power, there would be a good many more volumes of "Who's Who in America." However, as the reader has doubtless observed, the upper story is not always equally balanced with the underpinnings. Some feet are so afflicted with corns that they look like a relief map of the Rocky Mountains, while others are so beautiful that the tired business man of the realm willingly gives up $5.50 for a front row seat in order to view them. Probably to the epicare, feet of the porcine variety are the most attractive especially when combined with a large order of the succulent sauerkraut. Doubtless to some persons a dish of pigs feet would look more beautiful than those the farous stage star who had her twinkling tootsy-wootsies insured for a cool hundred thousand.

All of this reminds us of the fact that we ought at this time to issue a warning, for in reality, though we hate to say it, the supply of pigs feet is going to run short this fall in some Maryland counties. At least allindications point to such a shortage for as this is being written, hog cholera is carrying off many a pair of beautiful feet in ome districts of thestate. For it is a common practice at this period of the year for farmers to purchase much pork, the scraps of which reach the farm hogs via the swill barrel and produce many outbreaks of hog cholera. In behalf of the many persons in Maryland who take their sauekrant and pigs feet seriously and who, if deprived thereof, would suffer a great hardship, we have been requested to ask all swine raisers in the state to kindly refrain from feeding anything to their hogs which might contain bones, rinds or scraps of pork. If the request is complied with, the epicures feel that they will be able to look forward to a winter of contentment.
