SPORTS OF WEEK

LOYOLA BEATS WASHINGTON—NAVY DOWNS PRINCETON—OTHER SPORTS OF INTEREST

Washington College was badly beaten in the Baltimore stadium Saturday afternoon, the score being 28-0.

From a Washington standpoint the story of the game was a struggle against insuperable odds. It was a game struggle, especially in the second half when a team superior in every respect except kicking was held to one touchdown. The Shoremen never had a chance, There never was a ray of hope for them from the moment Loyola started its first 70-yard drive down the field to Washington's one-foot line until the final whistle sounded.

Loyola's story is the tale of the accomplishments of an eleven which at times looked good in every department, but which at other times was entirely too ragged to have permitted it to have made much of a showing against other than the type of rival it was encountering.

French boxing experts, after seeing the Tunney-Dempsey fight films, are unanimous in saying that the fight should have been declared a draw. The aggressor is always given consideration in summing up a fight decision there.

Washington College and Blue Ridge College will meet on the local gridiron today, Saturday. These teams should be evenly matched and a good game should result.

Navy defeated Princeton on Saturday. This victory will greatly hearten Navy for their game against Michigan October 30.

Notwithstanding Washington's defeat Saturday, a full squad was out Monday for practice. And this is one of foot-ball's lessons—to accept defeat and determine not to be discouraged by it.

THE WORLD'S FAVORITE SMOKE-WORDS "HAVE A CAMEL"

Did you ever notice that experienced smokers will offer or ask for a Camel—not just a cigarette? A little observation will reveal the overwhelming preference for Camels—a popularity that has never been equaled in all the history of smoking.

More smokers demand Camels, because Camel is unlike any other cigarette made.

Camel is as different as the rare quality of goodness. This difference costs millions to maintain. The choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown . . . the most skilful blending—that is Camels. More cannot be had at any price. When you light a Camel, you may be sure you are smoking the best.

When invited to have the world's favorite cigarette, accept with pleasure. It will be your personal introduction to the mildest, mellowest blend of choice tobaccos ever produced. "Have a Camel!"

WM. W. GOODMAN,

saturated with excrement from the fowls is the cause of much disease, which could be avoided by the use of pelnty of litter.

Fall Fairs are again with us and the pleasure of visiting them and contributing to their success should certainly be indulged in when possible. If possible, show at least a few birds. You will enjoy it and gain valuable experience by mingling with the other exhibitors and breeders, also by talking with the judges. You can in no other way secure true information or investigate behind the scenes among the chickenmen. Do not for an instance imagine that the truly informed are going to dispense the knowledge they have gained and have paid highly for, to you simply because you have an interest in poultry culture, unless you become one of them.

Poultry conditions average good in New England. Prices on eggs are climbing. Prices on broilers and demand went flat last month, but soon reacted and the call for large, three-pound broilers is brisk, with prices up again. Cold, dry weather made the summer season very late and consequently demand is holding well. Roasting chickens find ready sale at a good figure, but are very scarce. Many sold their cockerels early and available locally grown chickens weighing 4½ pounds and up are very short. Demand for fowl is fair. Apparently hens are holding up well on egg production as liberal offerings are not numerous.

Thousands of poultry raisers give particular attention to the destruction of lice and mites, but think nothing of the serious inroads made by worms, probably in the belief that the run down condition or occasional death is due to other causes. Of the two, worms are most destructive because not seen or suspected until treatment is given.
