KENT WANTS AN ARMORY

While no definite information can be obtained as to when an armory will be built in Chestertown, it is believed that if the citizens of Chestertown and Kent county will get back of the proposition General Record will recommnd a $50,000 armory in Chestertown at the next meeting of the Maryland Legislature.

Public spirited citizens are already working on the proposition as the value of such a building to this community can easily be seen.

While armories are built for the use of the Maryland National Guard, it has been proven that wherever armories have been built they have been made community centers, in fact they are just what the community makes of them.

The local Medical Detachment, under the leadership of Major Frank B. Hines and Captain Joseph Franklin is becoming one of the outstanding units in the state. A number of young men have enlisted within the past year and with the backing of the community the success of this National Guard unit deserves an armory.

CHARLES H. ESHMAN DEAD

Mr. Charles H. Eshman, proprietor of the Voshel House. Chestertown died suddenly at 10 a. m., yesterday, Friday morning from neuralgia of the heart. Mr. Eshman had been in poor health for some time but has been gradually improving and has been able to be at his place of business. Mr. Eshman was seventy years of age. He came to Chestertown from Harrisonburg, Va., about eight years ago and purchased the Voshell House here. Mr. Eshman was a man of exceptionally great energy. He has improved the Voshell House in a great many ways and recently made an extensive addition to the building which makes it one of the best hotels in this section.

Mr. Eshman leaves a widow, three sons, Vernon, Charles and Barclay, of Chestertown, and three daugters, Mrs. May Adkinson, of Washington; Mrs. Dorothy Starkey and Miss Madeline Eshman, of Chestertown. Funeral arrangements had not been completed when we went to press.

MORE SHEEP KILLED

At the meeting of the County Commissioners on Tuesday of this week checks for $324 were paid Kent farmers for sheep killed by dogs.

Those who had sheep killed were Messrs. H. Stockton Startt, 22; Robert Vandyke 7; Robert A. Kennedy 13; Julian Jones 4; Thomas Fowler 7. Mr. Thomas Bryan and Mr. Frank Jarrell reported sheep killed this week but the number was not reported.

The money for the payment of these sheep, $6 per head, comes out of dog tax fund.

BOOKS

By Edgar A. Guest

I look at my shelves of books and say
Here are my friends for a rainy day,
Always faithful and always true
No matter what I myself may do.
Here they are ready and neat and trim
Always on hand for my slighest whim
Books won't quarrel and books won't sneer,
Won't borrow money and disappear,
Won't flatter to sell me some worthless thing
Set up a trap which they hope to spring,
Books won't vary with very mood
Or poison my life with ingratitude,
Here are my books, and they don't get drunk,
Don't come to my room to rob my trunk,
Don't disappoint me by going wrong,
Or playing false when my faith was strong.
I can always trust them for comfort, when
I am sick and tired of the ways of men.
Books are constant. The while I live
Courage an dwisdom and strength they give,
Laughter for glad times, faith for sad,
Many an hour with them all I've had,
And whether the world praise me of blame
The books that I've cherished remain the same.

SOCCER TEAM OF LOCAL SCHOOL DEFEATS STEVENSVILLE IN A HARD FOUGHT GAME

Chestertown defeated Stevensville at soccer Friday evening by the narrow margin of a penalty kick. Stevensville is the champion team of Queen Annes, while Chestertown is the champion team of Kent. This was the first of a series of elimination contests.

The contest was staged at the Church Hill high school and Chestertown was returned the victor when Kirby booted a penalty kick through the goal for the only score of the game.

The teams of Easton and Chesapake City met on the Chestertown High pitch yesterday, Friday to determine the winner of the Talbot-Cecil feud. The winner of this contest will be pitted against Chestertown for the championship of the upper Eastern Shore counties, and the winner of this tilt will meet the lower counties champions for the Eastern Shore title. The winner on the peninsula will then meet the Western Shore victors for the State championship. The State title battle is scheduled this year for the Eastern Shore and will probably be staged at Washington College.

Chestertown won the right to represent Kent County in the championship series by winning all seven of her local county contests and thus taking the county title.

100 YEARS OF HOG CHOLERA

Paradoxical as it may appear, while this country has been entertained hog cholera for nearly one hundred years, the swine owners have more erroneous ideas regarding the introduction and spread of the inection than a Bolshevik has of good government. Some of these opinions are: "it just comes;" "it is an Act of Providence;" that bees, mosquitoes, flies, birds and birds and floods bring it, etc., etc. In fact, practically everything except the bobbed hair craze is blamed while the true culprit the human agency, is left out of the picture. The three principal, if not the only factors responsible for starting new outbreaks of the disease are: Feeding nfcted pork in garbage, table scraps, kitchen swill, etc.; the introduction of infected hogs into well herds, and the abuse of the double treatment. Deny, if you can, the prorf that all these are the work of hog cholera,s humanally. If the swine owners will dissolve this costly alliance and become members in godd standing of the S. P. S. S. M., (Society for the Promotion of Sanitary Swine Mangement) that old sad song, 'Aint't It Awful Mabel" will soon be forgotten in te rendition of a quick step funeral march for H. C. Germ.

REVIVALS IN PROGRESS

UNION MEETINGS OF TWO CHURCHES DRAWING IMMENSE CROWDS AT LOCAL CHURCHES

The union revival meetings, which have been in progress here for about two weeks, are causing considerable interest, while the religious life of the whole community is being quickened. Large, enthusiastic crowds are attending the meetings and the interest has become intensely keen. The meetings, for the first ten days, were held in the Chestertown Methodist Episcopal Church. Beginning on Thursday evening, the meetings were held in Christ M. P. Church, where they will continue until Sunday night week. The preacher is delivering sermons that are interesting and awakening to the ones who attend, while the singing is inspiring and beautiful to the listeners. A good many concerts have been added to the roll of the church and the prospects are that this number will be greatly increased before the meetings ar concluded.

TIDE BURIES WATER FRONT

HIGHEST TIDE IN YEARS BLOCKS ROADS AND CAUSES INCONVENIENCES

The heavy south wind of Monday night drove the Chester River beyond its usual bounds and buried the beautiful Chestertown waterfront beneath several feet of water, covering the yards, filling the cellars and causing numerous inconveniences to the residents. Over in Queen Annes the main pike down the peninsula was covered with several feet of water, making the road almost impassable while down on the Quaker neck road the river had covered the pike for several hundred yards. On Tuesday about noon the river began to recede gradually, leaving in its wake debris and rubbish brought up by the waters. Many boats were sunk along the river while the shipping on both river and bay was dangerous and few boats ventured out. It was the highest tide in years.

TOWNS MAY PROGRESS

That inestimable progress in cementing more firmly the relationship of Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore towns for the purpose of development of the entire Peninsula will follow the conference of Chambers of Commerce executives from the Peninsula towns, held in Salisbury last Friday, is the consensus of opinion of those attending. The outcome of Friday's meeting is emphasized in the fact that definite action was taken to arrange for a second meeting during the coming February. A specific program covering the numerous points which are of vital interest to each community and a direct part of individual Chamber of Commerce work, will be prepared for the gathering. Expressions by the various executives who attended Friday's meeting indicate that they keenly realize the value which may be accrued by having conferences of this nature at regular periods.

PREPARING FOR BASKETBALL

SEASON OPENS ON SATURDAY, DECEMBER 11

The prospects are good for a successful basketball season at Washington College and Coach Kibler has good material with which to build a fast team. The season opens with the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy. This team has a fast, aggressive five. which will probably make the new Washngton team hustle to defeat them.

While the season which closes today Saturday, has been rather a disastrous one measured in losses, it must be said in favor of the college athletic department that the prospects are much brighter for a winning team next year, provided all the present squad return to college. Coaches Kibler and Brown are developing at the college a system of what may be termed pure athletics.

There was a great deal of green material at the college this year, but few members of the team possessed sufficient experience from which to organize a strong aggregation. The college authorities are very much gratified that the coaches laid the foundation during the season just closed for what seems certain to become a formidable aggregation another year, and it also seems certain that so far as athletics are concerned at Washington College that the authorities will depend upon its bona fide students for making teams in every department of athletic sport at the college.

J. S. HURLOCK WOUNDED

While gunning near Betterton on Saturday of last week Mr. J. S. Hurlock, of Wilmington, Del., was peppered with a volley of shot from the gun of one of the hunting party.

Mr. Hurlock was brought to Chestertown, where local physicians advised his removal to a hospital. He was then rushed to Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, Wilmington, where he is in a serious condition, a number of shot having penetrated his abdoman. Mr. Hurlock was a former deputy sheriff in Kent county.

ESTATE OF JAMES E. WOODALL

Letters of administration of the estate of the late Mr. James E. Woodall were filed in the Orphans Court this week. Mr. Woodall left no will. His estate is estimated to be $150,000 in personalty and $100,000 in real estate.

Mr. James E. Woodall, Jr., was named administrator and Messrs. Thomas G. Wroth, Lambert W. Davis, and William T. Jones were suggested as appraisers of the estate,

LOCAL MAN KILLED

Benjamin Everett, of Wilmington, Del., formerly of Chestertown, was killed in that city Sunday when he was run over by an auto. It seems that he was crossing the street, and failed to see the auto until it was upon him. Mr. Everett was the brother of Mr. James Everett, of Chestertown, and was well known here. He was about 30 year of age.

POWER OF ELECTRICITY

HOW IT EFFECTS THE LIFE AND ACTIVITY OF THIS AGE

What would happen if a giant switch could shut off electric current from world use today? E. B. Criddle, of the Southern Sierras Power Company, California, shows the dependence of humanity on electricity. He says: "We are today living in what may well be termed the 'electric age'; the age of all others most replete with opportunity, action, romance. It has been called by some, and I think miscalled, the 'jazz age,' but, is not this very jazz a feeble, if perchance a misdirected effort, to get into step, shall we say, into synchronism, with the spirit of the times; to keep up with the inevitably swift pace of this age of electricity which has linked together in intimate and immediate contact the uttermost ends of the earth?

"E—Embodiment of mystery.
"L—Lightener of burdens.
"E—Energy; light, heat, power.
"C—Carrier of winged messages.
"T—Towering about all other forces.
"R—Revolutionizing modern industry.
"I—Irresistible, incomprehensible.
"C—Chained lightning.
"I—Incomparable, untiring servant.
"T—The unknown and unknowable.
"Y—Yielding prosperity and happiness.

"Without electricity today, the wheels of progress, and almost of existence, would be stilled until men could readjust themselves to the changed conditions, and revert to the candle, oil lamp and gas for lights; to fuel of some kind for all heat; to horses and steam for power and for transportation, and to the bicycle and the small boy for carrying messages. Many conveniences now deemed necessities, would be gone forever.
