WASHINGTON SWAMPS ST. JOHN'S —TEMPLE NEXT OPPONENT— OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

Washington College and Temple University will play today in Philadelphia. The teams are evenly rated and a good game should result.

Princeton defeated Yale Saturday 10-7 as was predicted generally.

Natre Dame seems the champion of the football universe.

Maryland has furnished many football stars. From this state has gone recently the remarable slagle. From Maryland has also gone the Poes, the Riggs, the Grays—in pairs, in groups. From Baltimore went the long-kicking Haxall. From Maryland went Tal Pendelton, Eddie Harlan and many others, all rated among the brilliant gridiron heroes of Princeton. The Mason-Dixon Line, up in the Blue Ridge Mountains, almost cuts in two the home of the marvelous forward-passer, Whoops, Snively. But still I repeat Princeton has had no football star of greater magnitude than Jake Slagle.

Others may have their Red Grange their Eddie Tryon, their Friedman, their this and that, but no back in modern football is the star that Jake Slagle is and has been ever since he left Gilman.

A great triple threat—a runner, a passer and a kicker—Jake Slagle has been the main spring of the Princeton eleven.

For tht second time, Mike Thompson, dean of football officials, has travelled all the way to the Pacific Coast to take partin the championship struggle between Leland Stanford and University of California elevens. Thompson, who lives in Emmitsburg, Md, and who was formerly athletic at Washington College and teaches at Mount St. Mary's College, became famous as a referee while at Georgetown University. His work on the gridiron impressed Pop Warner and the lacte Andy Smith years ago when they were young in the coaching game, so when the 1925 battle of Leland and California was to be played these mentors decided they must have Mike Thompson umpire.

Mike and his wife traveled across the continent for the game and returned East with Warner and Smith. alive, for he contracted pneumonia in Philadelphia and died there.

This fall the colleges again requested Thompson to take the umpiring job and he consented. The officials stopped off here last night en route to Syracuse, where he officiate on Saturday. Immediately after the game he left for California. After officiating in the Coast championship on November 20 Thompson will return at once, arriving in Pittsburgh in time to referee the Penn State-Pitt contest on Thanksgiving Day.

A srong effort will be made to stage the Maryland University-Yale football game next year in the Baltimore Stadium.

Washington College struck its real stride Saturday against St. Josephs College, of Philadelphia, and defeated them somewhat easily 28-7. Only during the first few minutes of play did the visitors have a chance. During this time, however, they drove steadily down the field for a touchdown, and seemed a somewhat formable aggregation. So much so that pessimistic local football fans predicted an inglorious defeat for Washington. St. Joseph's gained ground through the line and by forward passes in this first drive, while Washington seemed woefully weak.

But Washington received the ball following the touchdown and things happened in quick order that changed the complexion of the contest almost in the proserbial eye's twinkling Cavanah tore through St. Joseph's, leaving a stricken path of would be tackles in his make, and placed the ball decidedly in St. Joseph's territory Norris, fleet footed and courageous, and Wilson, new at the game but witn a decided future, aided by the Veteran Reiger, at end, ripped and tore the doughty line of the visitors to pieces, and ran the ball for gains that soon caused the score to mount skyward.

To aid in this Washington's whole team became alert and aggessive. They snatched forward passes from the air that belonged to St. Joseph's, and completed many of the forward passes which Washington's men began to rain through the air.

In short order, Washington had scored two touchdowns and cavanaugh had kicked two touchdowns, making the score 14-7.

With the score standing thus, St. Joseph's took a decided brace and began to push Washngton back, but were unable to score again. The half ended 14-7 in favor of Washington During this half, while Washington scored the largest number of points, there was not a great deal to chose between the teams.

But te second half found the local collegians showing marked superiority in every department of the game. All their plays worked magnificently. They were able to work forward passes almost at will as well as advance through the line, while on the defense they were able to throw out an impregnable cordon. They scored quickly in the third quarter and again in the fourth quarter, while, toward the last, they were agin menacing the visitors goal line.

Coming from behind as they did, Washington, nevertheless, played the best game of the year. Had they been able to play as well in other games, they would have made a far better season's record.
