ALL OF KENT COUNTY is talking about the proposed Chesapeake Bay bridge involving arguments pro and con. Costs of construction and operation are being figured, road maps are being consulted, etc. We are neither engineers nor financers and will leave this difficult part of the project to those who are perfectly capable of handling it while we devote our energies to boosting and encourageing the construction of this connecting link of the Eastern and Western Shores. We believe that any organization capable of financing a $10,000,000 project is capable of looking to the soundness of that investment, and those in authority to protect the interests of the people of the State of Maryland will see that the rights of these people are protected. Even before the bridge is assured and added spirit of friendliness has been created between the Eastern and Western shores in their efforts to assure a bridge across the ten miles of water which has separated this state. Let us boost this project and profit accordingly.

PEOPLES COLUMN

At the End of the Road,
The Long Muddy Road.

Dear Elsie Dee:

Not until yesterday was I able to take a day off from darning all the socks that had accumulated in my absence, to peruse the papers and magazines that had done likewise. Your letters were a joy and I hope you will pardon my delay in answering.

Somehow, Elsie Dee, I am not worrying about the "farsighted newcomers" as yet, nor do I fear Kent Countians are going to sell their birthright for a bowl of applesauce.

In the first place, until some improvement is made on these dirt roads there will not be many newcomers. Its a long lane that has no turning, says the old adage, but you know it is a much longer one that has not bottom. According to the papers a project is on foot to devote a gas tax to the dirt roads of the county. As from one mud hole to another and between you and me and the R. F. D. box, it will take a considerable amount of gas, both vocal and otherwise, to do much good.

I was sorry to have to miss the meeting. I hear certain points which would help the farm women were strongly emphasized. I suppose no dissenting voice was raised but did anyone give a recipe as to how to raise the cold cash needed to install these aids? Most farmers claim to be dead broke (Kent has no monopoly on this condition) though the Kent County farmer can put one over other farmers. Broke he may be but he never reaches rock bottom. Not if he lives on a dirt road.

But let us cheer up. The Kent County Chamber of Commerce is at hand with plans that are bound to help the farmer as well as the merchant, and I don't mean maybe. As for the bridge; it will be a bridge of size in more ways than one. We want it and in time we will get it but don't hold your breath until it comes. In the meantime, Elsie Dee, we must live in hopes if we die in mud.

Yours with galoshes
NELL

INTEREST BEING SHOWN

Since the article, announcing the possibility of Chestertown having an armory, oppeared in the Transcript some weeks ago, much interest has been shown by citizens of the county. The need of such a building is being felt more each day. At the present time there is no place to hold local entertainments and there is no end to the advantages that could be derived from such a building.

So great was the interest shown by one of the county subscribers of the Transcript that she brought a liberal donation to this office suggesting that we start a drive to raise the necssary money. According to a statement made by one in authority, if Kent County will show the permanency of the local Medical detachment of the Maryland National Guard by bringing the enlistment up to full strength and assure the state authority that we are back of his organization, then Chestertown will get a $50,000 armory.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear mother, Ruth M. Cornelius, who departed her life two years ago December 28, 19924.

I love you dear mother,
But Got loved you best,
He saw you suffering here so great
So he opened wide the golden gate.

Peaceful be they silent slumber,
Irol yPe nw eecg usl af a ht
Peaceful in they grave so low
Where no farewell tears are shed.

Dear is the grave where our dear mother is laid
Sweet is the memory that never will fade
Hearts of ours are buried deep
Under the sod where our dear mother sleeps.

By her loving daughter and son,
Thelma Cornelius and Gorden Cornelius.

The Tragedy of Broken Toys

When the last greeting of "Merry Christmas" has faded away the toys on the floor are already being forgotten. Battered and broken they have outlived their usefulness. By all means give the children toys—it's part of their lives—but also give them something substantial. Such as a Savings Account.

The worthwhile lesson of thrift is thus instilled into youthful minds. And who can deny its value? So this Christmas, along with the trains and dolls, hang one of our bank books on the tree. A dollar opens an account and we'll put forth special efforts to help the children save.
