CHEVROLET SALES MEETINGS

One of the most significant events in the automotive industry today is the series of nation-wide sales meetings of the Chevrolet Motor Company now in progress. They are destined to reach 15,000 dealers, associate dealers and bankers in 21 of the largest cities before their close in April.

Sales plans of the company for what is expected to be the greatest year in its history are outlined at these meetings by officials of the sales, advertising and service divisions. As the world's largest makers of three speed transmission cars the company is looking forward to 1927 for a measurable increase over 1926, when production records for the previous year were exceeded by more than 40 per cent. Recently announcement was made that the company's facilities had been expanded to make possible production of 1,000,000 units yearly.

R. H. Grant, vice-president and general sales manager, will direct the meetings and outline the most comprehensive sales campaign ever attempted by a manufacturer of automobiles.

The meetings will be held from coast to coast and will place the entire dealer organization in personal touch with company officials and will give first hand information on the workings of the sales plans. A graphic presentation of these plans will feature the afternoon sessions at the meetings. Playlets will demonstrate new policies of sales, advertising, service and used car merchandising under the 1927 program. Dealers will be guests of the company at banquets following the meetings.

Approximately 3,000 bankers will attend the meetings, reflecting their interest in Chevrolet's position and influence in the automotive industry today.

HEALTH NOTES

PROTECTING THE BABIES' EYES

Babies in Maryland in fact babies all over the world have profited from the discovery made over forty years ago by Crede, a doctor in a maternity hospital in Leipsic, that babies eyes could be protected from the dangerous infections that formerly left so many of them sightless for life, by placing one or two drops of a certain solution in each eye of the new born baby.

Twenty-five years ago, one out of every three children admitted to the schools for the blind, in the United States, was blind as the result of infection picked up at the time of birth. By last year, the number had fections picked up at the time of been reduced to about one out of every ten.

In the Maryland School for the Blind, out of a total of 101 pupils attending the school in 1925, 19 had been made blind by such infections; but of the 16 new pupils admitted that year, none was reported to have been blinded by birth infections. The same was true of the four children admitted that year to the Colored School for the Blind.

Speaking of the measures that are taken to protect the babies' sight Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health said; "The condition that destroys the sight is known as ophthalmia neonatorum which in simple English signifies an inflamation of the eye, leading to blindness of the new born. It is one of the diseases that must be reported immediately to the State Department of Health so that every possible effort may be made to save the child's sight. The only hope of saving it, lies in caring for the condition mmediately.

"To prevent this condition from arising, the State Department of Health furnishes, free of charge, to any physician who asks for it, and to all midwives, a supply of the solution first used by Crede, and now used by careful physicians all over the world. The soluton comes in wax tubes, each tube containing just enough for each individual case. The general use of these protective drops at birth was not begun in this country until about sixteen years ago, and even in that short time there has been great improvement as is shown by the experience in the State Schools for the Blind.

"The germs that cause this dangerous condition of the eyes include a number, among them those that cause pneumonia, erysipelis, boils and carbuncles, as well as those that cause other serious diseases."

CITIZENS MEET TOWN COMMISSIONERS

Twenty citizens of Chestertown met with the Commissioners of Chestertown in the Court House Monday evening of this week for the purpose of discussing the abvisability of making much needed improvements in Chestertown, and the proper means for raising funds to meet the expense of making these improvements.

Charles N. Satterfield was elected chairman of the meeting and read a report of the financial standing of the town. The report showed an assesable value of $1,800,000, which with the present tax rate makes yearly taxes of $18,000.

Under the present system it costs $15,000 annually for the running expenses of the town including the payment of a $1000 bond each year, which leaves $3,000 for improvements, such as streets, pavements, etc. The present bonded indebetness of Chestertown is $17,000, to this is added $12,000 which was borrowed from the banks of the town on a note, secured by citizens, making the total debt of $29,000. This does not include the bonds against the Water Board, which is self supporting and is paying $2000 annually on the indebetness.

Bond issues of various sums were suggested ranging from $50,000 to $125,000 while others suggested that the tax rate be raised so as to take care of part of these improvements annually thereby saving the interest money.

No definite action was taken although a motion was carried requesting the chairman to appoint a committee of nine men to meet with the Commissioners next Monday evening, and draft a bill to be presented to the Maryland Legislature. The bill will be voted on by the tax payers of Chestertown after it comes from the Legislature.

Those present at the meeting were Messrs. J. Waters Russell, A. H. Covey, W. B. Copper, P. M. Brooks, P. G. Wilmer, Alan A. Harris, Wm. T. Hicks, L. G. Brown, J. H. Sides, Clinton C. Jones, John C. Davis, Thomas G. Wroth, Thomas Massey, Charles S. Smith, Allie Baker, Thomas Kennard, Wm. Malin, Robert Huey, R. H. Collins, Jr., James Crouch, J. W. Kirby and the Commissioners, Messrs. C. N. Satterfield, John W. Barnes, and George W. French.

The committee appointed by chairman C. N. Satterfield to meet with the commissioners on Monday and prepare the bill are as follows: A. L. Sparks, L. G. Brown, Phil G. Wilmer, P. M. Brooks, Marion deK. Smith, Jr., T. D. Bowers, Charles F. Wheatley, Jas. S. Kreeger, A. E. Culver.

CHESAPEAKE AND DELAWARE CANAL CLOSED

The C. & D. Canal is closed for two weeks in which time the old locks at Chesapeake City, St. Georges and Delaware City will be torn out and when the canal is again opened on March 15 it will be a sea level canal twelve feet deep and ninety feet wide.

This canal built about one hundred years ago has passed thousands of light draft commercial and pleasure boats between the Delaware and Chesapeake Bays and has acted as one of the connecting links in the inland water-way between the Great Lakes and the south.

The widening and deepening of the canal and the doing away with the time killing locks will no doubt increase the traffic through this waterway and open possibility for greater developement for Chesapeake Bay ports.

RITCHIE APPROVES DEL-MAR-VA CONGRESS

Below is a letter from Governor Ritchie to the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Congress in reply to a letter written him:

I am delighted to join the Governor of the State of Virginia and the Governor of the State of Delaware in sponsoring the Congress of business and agricultural interests which you plan to hold in Salisbury in February. Nothing is more important to the inhabitants of any community than to know the truth concerning themselves and their economic well being.

The resources of the Eastern Shore are enormous. The opportunities for prosperous, comfortable living and for attainment of the cultural things of life are practically unlimited. No section of the country is more fortunately situated and none abounds in a higher type of intelligent American population.

It seems, therefore, that in planning to inventory the liabilities of your section as well as to remind yourselves of the rich heritage of lands climate resorts, industrial opportunities and sound patriotic traditions reaching back into the earliest days of our republic, you are doing what it would be wise for every great community to do.

It is not alone what a community has which makes it great, but also what a community is and purposes to become. No section can ever go far which shuts its eyes to its liabilities, its removable and unnecessary obstacles, drawbacks, short comings and conditions of adversity.

I approve most heartily of the "Del-Mar-Va Takes Inventory Congress" and desire for your Association which is promoting the Congress the support of everyone who considers he has a stake in the common welfare of our Eastern Shore Counties. The entire State and surrounding territory will observe the manner in which you search yourselves for the truth and the means to be used in still further advancing your progress.

Sincerely yours,
ALBERT C. RITCHIE, Governor.

MACKALL TALKS IN CHESTERTOWN

GIVES INTERESTING DATA ON MARYLAND ROADS—CHESAPEAKE BAY BRIDGE AND CHESTER RIVER BRIDGE

The court house, Chestertown, was crowded on Tuesday evening of this week when Hon. John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission of Maryland talked on Maryland Roads.

Previous to the public meeting, the Board of Directors of the Chamber had gathered at headquarters to receive Mr. Mackall and proceeded from there to the Voshell House where dinner was served in honor of their guest.

The meeting was arranged by the Kent County Chamber of Commerce and was opened by R. H. Rogers, Esq., a member of that organization. Mr. Rogers introduced Mr W. B. Copper who in turn introduced Mr. Mackall.

Mr. Mackall talked on the history of Maryland's hard surface roads, showing that the demand for these roads and the automobile traffic over them had for exceeded the for sight of Governor Crothers and those who were instrumental is starting Maryland's road system. He stated that more money was spent in Maryland last year on automobiles than has been spent on the construction of all of Maryland's roads. Other states are building wider and thicker roads than is Maryland but Maryland's system of road building, connecting all county seats with the main boulevards is not exceeded by any state in the union.

The Gas Tax

When Maryland first started to build hard surface roads the theory was advanced that all the tax payers in the State would be mutually benefitted and state taxes should pay for the construction of same, but automobile traffic has so increased that the present theory is that those who use the roads should pay for them. Under the present gas tax bill in the Maryland's lateral roads and part of the cost of eliminating railroad crossings. This will relieve Kent county of the annual payment of $21,000 as her share of the lateral road fund.

The tax of 1½ cents per gallon for lateral roads and 1 cent per gallon for the elimination of grade crossings making a total of 2½ cents tax per gallon will mean an average tax of $10 per year for each car owner. Some owners will pay a great deal more than this while others will pay considerably less. This additional $10 tax will be paid as one buys gasoline and will average less than three cents per day. Under the present plan the 1 cent to eliminate grade crossings will eliminate all grade crossings in 10 years.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge

In speaking of the Chesapeake Bay bridge Mr. Mackall said, "I know of no project that has come to my attention in the past 20 years that will do more for the development of the Eastern Shore, Baltimore and the state of Maryland than a bridge across Chespeake Bay." He further stated that he had been assured by the heads of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge that the bonds had been sold and all that was necessary to start construction was a franchise. The only objection to the bill now before the Maryland Legislature granting the franchise with free taxation is that raised by Baltimore county in which they state that the bridge should not be exempt from taxation due to the wear and tear on the roads of that county caused by the increased traffic which the bridge would bring about. Mr. Mackell stated that the roads in Baltimore county over which this trafffic would pass are state roads, and maintained by the state which should remove this only objection.

Chester River Bridge

In reply to a question asked about the possibility of building a new bridge across Chester River, Mr. Mackall stated that at the present time there was no bill before the Legislature providing for this bridge, as only the small bridges could be taken care of under the present bridge bill but that the Chester River Bridge was the most badly needed long bridge on the Eastenr Shore, although there is a greater need for long bridges on the Western Shore.

Kent County Roads

Mr. Mackall stated that at the present time there is not direct solution for Kent's dirt roads. Semi-improved roads are expensive and will not hold up under heavy traffic. Slag roads have been tried in Caroline County but have not proved a success. He approves the nine foot road plan.

A dweller on the mud roads questioned being taxed when his car was useless three months during the winter to which Mr. Mackall replied that there was one of the greatest advantages of the proposed tax on gas for at least if one was mud bound there was no tax to pay for each one would pax tax in exact proportion to the use he received from the road through his car.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Rogers and Mr. Copper thanked Mr. Mackall in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and the County for his kindness in coming and speaking to so interested an audience after which the Executive Secretary came forward and received the signatures of a number of new members for the Chamber of Commerce.

SPORTS OF WEEK

WASHINGTON FALLS BEFORE LOYOLA, BUT CONQUERS ALBRIGHT—LOYOLA LOSES TO WESTERN MARYLAND—OTHER SPORTS NOTES

Loyola stopped Washington completely last Saturday night on the local floor before an overwhelming crowd and won a most thrilling basketball contest, 31-28. Toward the close of the game, while holding the upper hand, they were kept in a predominating position by the referee, who saw more fouls made by Washington with one pair of eyes than about six hundred spectators did with twice that many optics. These fouls kept knocking the edge off Washington as fast as they accumulated sufficient energy to make serious bids for the lead.

Washington went into the lead somewhat handily, and it looked like they were preparing to pile up a big lead, after Dumschott had made a point from the foul line and brought the crowd to its feet a few seconds later by a pair of goals that were as difficult as they were opportune. Washington maintained a slight lead until about first of the first half was over. Then Loyola took the upper hand and held it for the balance of the half, although Washington held a 12-10 lead when it was concluded.

The second half found Loyola complete masters of the situation, and Washington unable to get past the center of the floor. The team seemed to have lapsed into a semi-comatose situation, with Loyola having all the energy and making all the points. As a result, with the second half about two-thirds over, Washington was trailing 19-12, the home team being unable to score a point during the half. At this point Seib replaced Jacobs at center. Seib is just the antithisis of Jacobs, being more of a natural athlete, although not being near as rugged. Whether or not this substitution helped Washington, they soon became a menacing power once more and were right behind Loyola continually during the last few minutes. However, try as they would, they could not catch Loyola, for Dudley's individual work had given them a lead that was hard to overcome.

In an exhibition swimming meet at Cleveland recently, Miss Adelaide Lambert, formerly of Chestertown, broke the 200-yard backstroke record, held by Miss Bauer, of Chicago.

Western Maryland sprang one of the biggest surprises of the year Wednesday night, defeating Loyola easily, 35-24. Dudley was almost completely stopped by Western Maryland and made but five points, three of which were fouls.

Washington College won from Albright on Wednesday night somewhat easily, although they were not exceptionally impressive even in victory. However, they were playing against a fast team, one that knew basketball and also could play it. The vsitors were tall and rugged, and were willing to take chances to win out. However, Washington's team, somewhat sluggish at times, aroused itself when it was necessary and kept a safe lead all through the game.

Washington took the lead at the start and it began to appear as if a one-sided game was in prospect. However, Albright speeded up and Washington took it easy most of the game, the result being that the visitors at times became a menacing power, but Washington became masters of the situation when it was necessary for them to do so. Washington had a big lead at the end of the first half.

Easing up in the second, Washington allowed Albright to shorten the gap between them before the game was over, but they were never really dangerous.
