BIGGER POULTRY PROFITS

WITH HIGH GRADE BROODERS

SOL-HOT NEWTOWN BUCKEYE

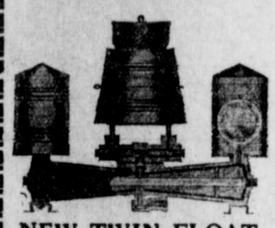

Poultry raisers in ever increasing numbers are being convinced of the folly of trusting the brooding of the chickens they have paid good money for, to anything but the best brooders. The SOL-HOT, NEWTOWN and BUCKEYE are leaders in the field of coal and oil burning brooders. This leadership has been gained by long and satisfactory service. Ask the users. The SOL-HOT is a new line with us this season and has the well earned reputation of being the 100 per cent. efficient oil burning brooder, and is equipped with the new twin float oil level.

We also carry a full line of poultry feeders, fountains, etc. Come in and see the largest and most complete display of brooders we have ever carried, or, if you cannot come in write for booklets.

Yours for larger poultry profits in 1928.

Farmers, List Your Repair Needs

It would be hard to find a farmer who at some time or another had not lost valuable time waiting for necessary repair parts. Take this territory and total up the time lost in this way and it will astonish you. And all because repairs are not ordered as early as they should be.

There is no better time than right now—just before the busiest season on the farm—to go over your machines carefully, make a list of repairs you are likely to need and send it to us. With this list in our hands, we can order our stock so as to be prepared t meet every call promptly.

Repair part service is a necessary part of our business. We realize what it means to you in time and money to get what you need at once. Help us to help you by making up your list now and sending it in to us.

Creations of Dickens Real to the Author

Many of Charles Dickens' creations were worse than nightmares, as all strong characters in fiction must necessarily be. They were daymares. They were with him in his long mechanical walks, governed by milestones and timed by a stop-watch. He was glad of a congenial companion to exorcise these spirits. They came back to him in the evening, and in the dead of night they often moved him to rise and walk that long tramp's tramp of 27 miles from Tavistock square to Gadshill through the mists of early morning.

In writing his strongest characters, Dickens always acted them. He could hardly do otherwise with his dramatic temperament and the dramatic nature of his works. Why more dramas have never been manufactured out of these works is found in the fact that they contained too much dramatic and "objective" material than too little.

From this creation of dramatic fiction the step to dramatic recitation was easy and simple. It was always a mistake to call these efforts "readings." They were the most dramatic of recitations. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lives Sacrificed to Superstition and Fear

In the early days of shipping there grew up on the west coast of Scotland a strange superstition that some grave misfortune would fall upon a man who took a drowning sailor from the sea. This was at a time when shore dwellers helped themselves to the cargoes of wrecked vessels. This superstition was very widely believed and resulted in some horrible brutalities before it was finally stamped out, writes J. D. Whiting in his book, "Storm Fighters." There is a legend of one wreck on the rocky shores of the lonely Zetland islands where six men tried to get ashore by means of a hawser fastened to a rock. The inhabitants who were gathered on the rocks must have been good enough to make the hawser fast (unless the shipwrecked sailors had a quite inconceivable skill in the art of lassoing.) However, superstition shared the minds of the coast dwellers with the fear that their winter stock of grain might not go around if they were saddled with six unexpected guests, so they cut the rope and the sailors were drowned.—Detroit News.

Rome's Legendary Tower

The medieval Torre delle Militae, sometimes called the Tower of Nero, because of the legend which says that Nero stood on the top of it to look at the spectacle of the city in flames, has been opened to the public, writes the Rome correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor. The legend has, of course, no foundation, and the tower is one of the feudal fortresses of the Twelfth century. A magnificent view of the city, however, can be obtained from its top. It was erected by the sons of Peter Alerius, a baron attached to the party of Senator Pandolfo de Suburra, on the site of a building called "Hostium Militie," hence its present name. It leans to the southwest and was originally much higher, but the earthquake of 1348 brought it to its present dimensions.

Georgia "Crackers"

Authorities differ as to the origin of the term "Crackers," as applied to natives of Georgia. According to Olmstead, the nickname was applied to these people on account of their peculiar dialect, almost incomprehensible and difficult to report or describe. Another theory is that the name was given because cracked corn formed their chief article of diet. In a publication dated 1835, it is stated that the "Crackers" received their name because they were accustomed to using a particular form of whip, which had a piece of buckskin at the end known as a "cracker."

The Real Music

One will lose no music by not attending the oratorios and operas. The really inspiring melodies are cheap and universal, and are as audible to the poor man's son as to the rich man's. Listening to the harmonies of the universe is not allied to dissipation. My neighbors have gone to the vestry to hear Ned Kendal, the bugler, tonight, but I am come forth to the hills to hear my bugler in the horizon. I can forego the seeming advantages of cities without misgiving. No heavenly strain is lost to the ear that is fitted to hear it.—Thoreau.

Aquarium Cement

Cement for panes in aquariums is produced from litharge and glycerin. The former must be as finely powdered as possible and the glycerin very condensed, of a sirupy consistency and limpid. Mix the two ingredients into a semi-liquid paste, coat the places, or pour the tough mass into the respective cavity, and press into it the part to be cemented on. The surplus oozing out must be removed at once and the place cleaned, as the putty hardens very rapidly.

Found at Last

The harrassed-looking man was being shown over some works.

"That machine," said his guide, "does the work of 30 men."

The man smiled glumly.

"At last," he said, "I have seen what my wife should have married."

AN ALARM CLOCK FOR YOUR LIVER

Do you feel about ninety when you crawl out of bed in the morning? Does the day's work loom up before you like the things you have to do in a nightmare?

There's no use winding up the alarm clock to set your weary bones going in the morning unless you can give some alarm-clock treatment to your sleepy liver.

A very slight spinal displacement can deprive your liver of the energy it needs to brew the BILE which is Nature's "pick-me-up." No wonder your work looks like a mountain. You've tired, because your liver is.

Instead of driving yourself, have a few Chiropractic adjustments. They will get at the CAUSE of the trouble, and put the pep back into you.

It costs you nothing to run in and talk it over.
