PARTY SEARCHES FOR MAIL CARRIER

Mr. Dave B. Kendall, rural carrier for Route No. 1 left the Chestertown post office last Saturday in a heavy snow storm to deliver the mail over his route which is in Queen Anne's county. When he did not return that afternoon, his family and friends become worried and efforts to locate him by telephone were futile due to the scarcety of telephones on his route. The only information that could be secured was that he left the home of Mr. H. H. Klinefelter at about 11 a. m.

A searching party composed of Messrs. Lee Robinson, John Bennett, Jr., R. L. Wright, W. H. Thawley, Herbert Usilton, Andrew Perry and Kennard Burke, left Chestertown with two automobiles and a tractor.

After forcing their way through snow drifts to Brown's Corner, they left the automobiles and tramped through the blinding snow storm about three miles and found Mr. Kendall asleep in bed at the home of Mr. William Hazel, near Brown's Corner.

Mr. Kendall's car had become stuck in a snow drift and in an effort to get it out broke the radius rod. Mr. Kendall then looked for the nearest shelter.

The searching party suffered intensely from fatigue and the intense cold.

DUCKING SEASON ENDED TUESDAY

The ducking season for the State of Maryland ended at sunset on Tuesday of this week and aside from a few clubs the season has been the poorest for many years.

The Ringgold Point ducking club had one of the best seasons for many years making a total bag of 906 ducks. The first part of the season was very poor but toward the latter part thousands of Red Heard and Canvas back ducks came in the river and bedded near Ringgold Point.

The members of this club attribute their success to the fact that they gunned only two days a week, although the gunning of ducks was allowed any day in he week after January 1st.

With two exceptons this club averaged approximately 100 ducks each gunning day during January.

The Hail Point Club killed approximately 550 ducks the majority of which were Black Head ducks.

The Grey's Inn Creek Club killed approximately 350 ducks during the season.

No check-up on Cedar Point or points on the Sassafras River could be made to-date.

Some of the ducking shores further up Chester River, which have afforded excellent sport during past years were practically abandoned as there were no ducks up the river.

However those who duck are prepared for disappointments and no doubt the usual preparations will be made next year.

DEATHS

Mrs. Lulu Shreeve Stevens, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Jesse Shreeve and wife of Lawrence Stevens, formerly of Swan Creek, died at her home in East Woodland Avenue, Baltimore, Friday, January 27th. She leaves two sons and three daughters, Shreeve, Donald and Miss Edna Stevens, Mrs. Thomas Willson and Mrs. Emily Keating, all of Baltimore, besides her husband and three grandchildren. Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon and the remains were carried by train Tuesday morning to Chestertown where C. L. FEED THE WILD LIFE

A communication from the Game Division of the Conservation Department states that human help is necessary at this time to protect the wildlife.

The communication is as follows:

"Game of all species, especially the birds, are in danger of starvation unless they are fed and protected by the human hand. It required no stretch of imgination to impress upon the thinking mind just what happens to the birds and smaller game animals when weather conditions exist as they are at present. Wild turkey, Quail, Grouse, Squirrel, Rabbit, and the song birds all will suffer for the want of food. Many thousands have been known to die of starvation during prolonged winter seasons.

It is the desire of the Game Department to prevent a calamity of this character. Therefore, the game birds and game animals must be cared for through the winter months. The Song Birds that visit the back yards need our help during the winter months. Scatter the crumbs from your table and help feed the birds.

The Game Department will re-imburse those persons desiring to purchase grain for he birds and other foods for game animals whereever it is in demand. We are desirous of obtaining the assistance and co-operation of all the sportsmen and conservationists during these trying times and we are asking if you will help us. When locating a covey of birds, it would be wise to clear the snow to the ground and scatter the feed thereon. The birds will find it. This appeal in reality is an S. O. S. call to all the sportsmen throughout the State as well as the public in general and we earnestly and urgently request everybody to feed the game birds and animals as well as the Song Birds until the snow has disappeared.

We have requested our Western Brokers holding contracts for the delivery of 14,000 Cotton-tail Rabbits to Maryland for propagation purposes, to discontinue shipments until further notice or until weather conditions permit. This also applies to the broker on the Mexican Border who holds a contract for the delivery of 5700 Bob-white Quail.

Just as soon as conditions permit, orders will be issued to the brokers to begin shipping in order that the Maryland sportsmen will have the benefit of the new stock in Rabbits and Quail for the season of 1928."

TAX ADVISORS HERE IN MARCH

Arrangements have been made to assign Deputy Collectors of Internal Revenue to various sections and communities throughout the District of Maryland for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in filing income tax returns for the calendar year 1927.

A collector will be in Chestertown on March the 2nd and 3rd, and at Centreville March 14 and 15th.

The collector will be stationed in the Court House and will give advice to all who are in question as to the proper way to make the tax return.

ROCK HALL

The heavy snow on Saturday and the high winds that night which drifted it completely blocked Rock Hall from any possible outlet. Saturday's mail did not arrive until Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Purnell Elburn motored to Baltimore on Friday and the heavy snow prevented their return on Monday.

The Rock Hall Volunteer Fire Co. held a very successful dance on Thursday evening of last week.

Mr. Pierson Bigelow, who has been suffering with double pneumonia, is very much improved.

Mrs. Franklin Akers is visiting relatives in Baltimore.

Mr. J. . Urie is building an addition to his ice cream parlor.
