FAVORABLE REPORT ON DREDGING APPEAL

An appeal on the unfavorable report of Major Pettis, U. S. Army Engineers, in refercnce to the dredging of Kent Island Narrows, was held before the Rivers and Harbors Commission in Washington on Friday of last week.

The appeal hearing was arranged by Congressman T. Allan Goldsborough and a large delegation of business men from Queen Anne's county were present at the hearing.

The entire history of the channel was given to the commission and facts and figures showing the large tonnage that would go through the Narrows was also placed before them. The territory that would be affected was also shown by means of maps.

Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough stated early Monday morning that the commission had passed favorably on this project. He said that if this work could be done as an old project the channel could be dredged to the depth of seven feet without another act of congress, but if it had to be considered a new matter that a new section would be placed in the Rivers and Harbor Bill authorizing the channel to be dug to a depth of eight feet.

Mr. Goldsborough stated that the matter was not settled and that the recommendation of the Rivers and Harbor Commission in this matter would be carried out by Congress.

HARRY SCOTTY ARRESTED IN TALBOT

"Scotty" Gosnell, better known in Kent County as Harry Scott, was arrested and lodged in the Cambridge jail on Saturday of last week when Federal officers raided "Miles Haven," on the Miles River near Easton.

Harry Scott was found guilty in the Kent County April term of Court for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and sentence suspended provided he would stay outside of the jurisdiction of this Court.

FIRE DESTROYS OLD HOME

Fire destroyed the old home on the Wright Howard farm in Still Pond Neck on Tuesday afternoon of this week.

This home, which was occupied by George Wilson, colored, at the time of the fire, was of brick construction and large letters on the side of the building showed that it was built in 1744. The farm is the property of Mr. Robert R. Hill, of Kennedyville, who bought it about five years ago.

The fire started in the dining room chimney, and although there were two men in the house at the time, they were unable to locate the fire until it had caught to the kitchen. The Chestertown fire company was called and did effective work until the water gave out.

All the house hold furniture was saved and also a large quality of potatoes and meat that was stored in the cellar.

TRANSCRIPT'S MUSINGS

I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live so that his place will be proud of him. Be honest, but hate no one; overturn a man's wrong doing but do not overturn him unless it must be done in overturning the wrong. Stand with anybody that stands aright. Stand with him while he is right and part with him when he is wrong.

The candidate crop at this present time is very large. Each one is trying to please the crowd:
The art of politics is fine;
And when a candidate's in line,
His own opinions he must sink
And try to guess what others think.

What a busy time Congress is having these days trying to make the wheels go round. What investigations they have to hold about the oil scandals, the greed of public Utilities, the breaking of the eighteenth amendment! And yet this being a presidential year and a year of increasing auto production, the crop of artful dodgers promises to be unusually large.

"You kin tell Satan to git behind you," said Uncle Eben, "but what you want to do is to work fast on de righteous path an' keep ahead of him."

The country club will soon be a thing of reality as the spring is nearly here; then:

Mr. Lazyman.

O Mr. Lazyman, what you goin' to do
You used to doze the hours away,
From sunrise to the twilight ray,
And welcome dreams anew.
Now you try for golfing—and maybe tennis, too.
You frankly say it's toilsome play.
There is no real holiday—
What are you going to do?

The fact that a man has not been bothered by any one does not prevent him from announcing that, at the earnest solicitation of his many friends he has decided to run for office.

"Do you believe the story about George Washington and the cherry tree?"

"Certainly," said Senator Rash, "My constituents all believe it and why should I raise a new issue?"

"We economize," said Uncle Eben, "by savin' our pennies foh de sake of havin' several dollars to throw away."

Has your income tax been made out yet?

Preparing a Defense.

He struggled on through figures queer,
Which with remorse were fraught.
With "Schedule F" he'd perserve
And reverence what it taught.
His trouble seemed to have no end.
It wove a dismal spell.
"Go see an expert," said the friend,
With "Schedule F" he'd persevere

His brow with care is furrowed deep.
Uncertain is his gait.
He says, "I do not wish to keep
A penny from the State.
Again I'll search, while sore perplexed
For items I have missed.
I'll see an expert first. And next
I'll see an alienist!"

The following epitaph was found on a tomb in New England.

"Here lies poor
but honest Bryan Tunstal;
He was a most expert angler
Until
Death, envious of his merit,
Threw out his line,
Hooked him,
And landed him here,
The 21st day of April, 1790."

NORMA SHEARER'S NEW FILM COMING

The place of love in business and of business in love is charmingly and entertainingly told in "The Latest from Paris," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring the beautiful Norma Shearer, which will show at the Lyceum on Monday, Feb. 27.

It is a comedy drama, supplying Miss Shearer with one of those roles in which she excels, that of a scintillating, efficient, modern girl who bests man in his own profession and than succumbs to the lure of romance proving her old-fashioned femininity after all.

The story tells of a traveling saleswoman, the best on the road. None of her masculine rivals can match her success. Her personality is a mystery. All that is known about her is her name. She is especially hated by a handsome young man, who meets her on the Pullman, and mistaking her identity, falls in love. He tells her all about this dreaded rival of his, and then gets the shock of his life when he discoveds who she really is. Love, however, eventually triumphs after a series of entertaining mishaps.

PENINSULA NEWS

The first rivit in the keel of the new Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry steamer, now building at Norfolk, was driven home Saturday by Ex-Governor Harrington, president of the Company. Beside a number of Baltimoreans there were present B. Frank Sherman, Superintendent, Henry P. Turner, Capt. E. Ney Dodson and the editor of the Star-Democrat.

Fire early Sunday morning completely destroyed the plant of the Milton Canning Company causing a loss estimated at between $140,000 and $150,000 fully covered by insurance. While the buildings destroyed were of frame construction with corrugated iron sides and roof and cost comparatively little, the loss is made heavy by the destruction of the machinery in the cannery and also the burning of a great quantity of canned goods which were stored there.

Charles M. Walker, a well-known Maryland artist, whose home, "Lilleshall," is one of the show places of Federalsburg, is in the Cambridge Hospital in a serious condition, having been run over by his own automobile. The car is a roadster with light truck body, and was loaded with wood at the time of the accident, which resulted when Mr. Walker was cranking it and the machine jumped into gear, knocking him down and dragging him forty feet. It is thought that the car passed over his body, injuring a leg already crippled for years and perhaps causing internal injuries.

Centreville's only hotel is closed and at the present time there are no hotel accomodations in that town. The proprietor, Mrs. Benjamin Shank, has vacated.

Announcement was made in New York this week that T. Elliott Tolson, a native of Kent Island, and now head of the Tolson group of hotels, had acquired the interests of David H. Knott and W. W. Wyckoff in the Hotel Briston property at 129 West 48th St. Assuming the ownership of the Briston the former Queen Anne's countain adds another important link to his growing chain of popular New York hotels.

At an enthusiastic meeting of the Sudlersville Chamber of Commerce—Queen Anne's County's only business organization of this character—held Monday evening, of last week, Senator Dudley G. Roe was re-elected president and other officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows:

Vice President, Spencer Walls; Recording Secretary, Joseph M. George; Treasurer, C. W. Anderson; Chairman Publicity, Charles B. Chance; Industrial, William T. Roe; Entertainment, J. Edward Stevens; Fire Department, J. N. Hardesty; Agricultural, Alan S. Walls and J. H. Peters.

Arrangements were discussed for a Chamber of Commerce banquet to be held in Cox Memorial Hall, Sudlersville, on Tuesday evening March 13th.

A long felt need for up-to-the-minute information concerning improved marketing practices will shortly be supplied farmers of Queen Anne's county in the staging at Centreville on March 13 and 14 of a Marketing Institute arranged and sponsored by the combined support of the Maryland Extension Service, the Philadelphia Interstate Milk Producers' Association and the Queen Anne's County Farm Bureau. Plans recently completed by these three organizations include comprehensive discussions of the four major lines of marketable production existing in Northern Peninsular Counties: Livestock Marketing, Marketing of Dairy Products, Marketing of Canning Crops and Marketing of Poultry and Eggs.

During the past week the County Commissioners, of Queen Anne's county, granted to the Love Point Power and Light Company permission to erect poles on the county roads to carry electric power from Love Point to the western boundary of Queentown.

ROTARY ENTERTAINS FARM BUREAU OFFICIALS

Mr. Thomas Massey, President of Kent County Farm Bureau and Vice President of Maryland Farm Bureau; Mr. L. A. Sutton, Vice President of Kent County Farm Bureau and Mr. Wm. G. Smyth, secretary, were guests of the Chestertown Rotary Club at their weekly meeting Monday evening.

Mr. E. Thomas Massey in an address to the club told of the Farm Bureau Organization and its work among the local, county, state and national units. He pointed out the necessity of farming interests becoming thoroughly organized.

Mr. W. G. Smith was called on to make a short talk and he told of the Kent County Farm Bureau, its accomplishments and program for future work in the county.

TELEPHONE ALMANAC BEING DISTRIBUTED

The 1928 telephone almanac, which presents in unique form, a mass of valuable information relative to the telephone and telephone development, is now being distributed to more than 1,000,000 families, according to a statement just made by R. C. Harris, manager of the Chesapeake and Potmac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

In addition to telephone data the almanac contains many references to important events in American history. This feature has given it wide use in public schools, in some of which it has been adopted as a supplement to regular text books in history.

A rather whimsical touch is "A Rebus Page for Our Young Readers" which seems to appeal to "grown-ups" as well as children. The information department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company each year receives thousands of requests for translations of this puzzle page.

COMMISSIONERS RECOMMEND ROAD BUILDING PROGRAM

At the regular meeting of the Kent County Commissioners on Tuesday of this week, their recommendations for the concrete road building program for Kent County this year were mapped out.

A concrete road from Massey to Sassafras, a distance of four miles and three-quarters was recommended. A continuation of half a mile beyond Sassafras to the Sassafras River will connect with the Cecil county road.

The recommendation included one mile of concrete road from Millington toward Peacock's Corner and the Delaware line.

A road was recommended from Redding's Corner on the Betterton Road through Lynch to Katts Corner The road from Hopewell to Katts corner has been started and construction work will continue as soon as weather permits.

Kent county is alloted approximately $80,000 this year for state road building, the county's share of this amount is paid for by the present gasoline tax and the county is relieved of the usual $20,000 annual bonded indebtness for road building. The revenue from the gas tax passed the revenue estimated by state authorities.

With the present revenue Kent county will be able to build five miles of nine foot concrete road each year which in twenty years will connect practically every road in the county with the highways.

NO CHOLERA IN KENT LAST MONTH

The disease was reported to exist on 15 premises in the state during the month against 46 a year ago, and a 9 year average of 20 for the same period. 12 were classed as primary or new outbreaks while 3 were recorded as secondary or spread of the infection. 3 were of the back-yard type, while 12 occurred on farms where hogs are bred and raised.

Washington County got a running start for the year and showed the way with 5 outbreaks. Calvert, Caroline, Harford and Queen Anne each chalked up 2 cases of the disease. Baltimore and Cecil were "under the wire" for third place with 1 outbreak each. Kent reported no outbreaks.

Of the 12 primary outbreaks 8 were apparently due to infected pork in garbage, table scraps, kitchen swill, etc. 2 were due to the purchase of new stock. 1 was a result of a departing tenant leaving unburied carcasses on the place he was vacating. In 1 instance the owner could not or would not give any information on which to base the source of infection. The 3 secondary outbreaks were due to the movement of hogs or permitting such animals to run at large.

On the premises where hog cholera was reported to exist during the month there were 252 hogs when the disease appeared, 54 of these were dead and 62 were visibly sick before the cases were reported.

The principles of the Maryland Plan for The Prevention of Hog Cholera have been approved by a report adopted by the United States Live Stock Sanitary Association.

Last December an outbreak of cholera was reported on a farm occupied by a tenant. This party was informed that the carcasses of all hogs that died must be buried. His method of burial appeared to be to cover the carcasses up in the straw stack. This tenant left the place on January 1st and his successor took possession. The new tenant brought a number of hogs with him which soon found the carcasses and now another outbreak of cholera is reported on that same farm. We fail to see how the first tenant can get any satisfaction because his successor suffered losses on account of his carelessness.

BRIDGE CO. OPTOMISTIC

In spite of the rather discouraging report about the Chesapeake Bay bridge made by Mr. John N. Mackall at a recent Rotary meeting in Chestertown, optimistic reports come from the bridge headquarters this week.

Since the last Maryland Legislature passed the bill permitting the construction of the bridge there has been much written, and numerous discussions and hearings held. While many residents of Kent county state that they do not expect to live to see the bridge, others hold a more optimistic view and expect construction to start shortly.

Most recent reports from bridge headquarters state that the specifications which are now before the Board of Army Engineers as presented by Major Pettis, are the same as agreed upon at the last Chesapeake Bay Bridge hearing, and if approved by the above board will assure construction of the bridge.

The bridge company states that they are in constant touch with the Army Engineers and that they have been assured that the Board will take up the matter as soon as possible.

Reports from other sources which includes men financially interested in the bridge state that the bridge is going to be built.

"UNDERWORLD" A SPLENDID, SMASHING ENTERTAINMENT

For weeks, word has been coming from Hollywood of "a new picture sensation."

Apparently it is arousing more discussion among directors, producers and stars than anything made in recent months.

The title is "Underworld" a melodramatic story of modern crime in a great American city. According to all reports, it daringly tears aside all the pretense, subterfuges and ignorant ranting that have been shielding crime conditions from the eyes of truth.

Ben Hecht's story is declared to be the most startling that has yet come from his versatile pen, dealing with actual conditions that exist in a metropolitan center, these woven into a stirring romance.

Dives, criminal haunts, gangsters, their women, their feuds with each other, their battles with police, their marauding expeditions into treasure vaults—all are shown in a realistic manner by Josef Von Sternberg, Paramount director.

Hector Turnbull, under whose supervision the picture was produced says:

"One of the chief difficulties of making the picture was in finding a cast capable of sincerely handling the powerful characterizations called for. We succeeded, as the roll call of player shows. The names are all famous—George Bancroft, Clive Brook, Evelyn Brent, Larry Semon and Fred Kohler—are among them. The striking performances they have given make it worth while."

"Underworld" comes to the Lyceum Theatre for a first showing on Thursday and Friday, March 1 and 2.
