THE NEW FORD CAR

The Following Are Some of the Out-standing Features of the New Ford Car:

DRIVE SHAFT

The drive shaft originally designed by The Ford Motor Company used by most of the finest cars of America and Europe, is retained in the new Ford Model A car. In the new car the drive shaft is large and exceptionally strong and the seamless all steel torque tube, in which it is encased likewise is large. The universal joint also has been made larger to withstand the high torque of the new engine, and radius rods, both front and rear are strong and sturdy. The universal joint housing is of steel forging, making it both lighter and stronger than the malleable iron casting.

REAR AXLE

The new Model A rear axle is of the three-quarter floating type which means that the wheels are mounted on axle housing, rather than on the axle shaft. This reduces the strain on the axle shaft and will prevent the breaking of the rear axle. The gear ratio is but 3.7-to-one which means compartively few engine revolutions per mile, greater fuel economy and less wear and tear on engine. The rear axle gears are now of the spiral bevel type, which, combined with Ford accuracy, means a quiet durable drive. The minimum road clearance is 9 1-2 inches which is one-half inch more than the Model T Ford. The rear axle housing are of pressed steel construction reducing unsprung weight and tire wear and given a smoother running car. All bearings are roller bearings.

FRONT AXLE

The front axle is a downward sweep and is a drop forging of 1-beam section, mounted with a rake of 5 degrees to give steadier steering. The front wheels are mounted on adjustable tension roller bearings. The front radius rod is large and strong and is forked at its front end toattach both tip and bottom of the front axle. The upper and lower king pin bearings are of bronze. But the feature of the new roller bearings making it possible to steer the car with ease.

IN MEMORIAN

In loving rememberance of my dear wife, Mary E. Dolan, who died 12 years ago, April 8th.

Day by day we saw her fade and slowly sink away
Yet in our hearts we often prayed
That she might longer stay.
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we love is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
By her Husband, James Dolan

Forever dear mother thou are at rest
And shall forever be,
You could not say on earth with us
But we can come to thee.
In our home we sadly miss your many acts of love.
But we know you are waiting for us in our father's home above.
By your daughter, Mattie E. Dolan

In memory of Harry S. Belby who died March 31st, 1928.

You were called away so sudden
Without time to say goodbye,
And little did I think that you
So soon in death would sleep
And leave us all alone.

Although you couldnot talk to us
Nor couldn't say good-bye,
We know your thoughts were with us
When you were called to die.

Bryden: In loving remembrance of my dear son, Gilmore, who departed this life April 8th, 1924.

You suffered hours, yes hours of pain,
To wait for cure, but all in vain,
Till God alone knew what was best
He called you home to give you rest.

In my heart your memory lingers.
Sweetly, tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear son,
That I do not think of you.

By his loving mother, Mary D. Bryden.

Today, Prosperity Follows the Tractor

NECESSITY and the changing times have brought about great improvements on the farms. The young farmer and the older farmer who keeps his mind young are working on the new and profitable scale. They are making money by handling the most productive work in the least time with the lowest labor cost. They are increasing per-acre yields—plowing more furrows per trip—planting every hill full—cultivating more rows—cutting wider swaths. They are beating down the high price of labor by making that labor do two and three days' work in one, and that method leads to farm profit.

The tremendous call for the standard farm tractors—the McCormick-Deering 10-20 and 15-30, and now the new FARM-ALL—is evidence of the new era in farming. When you repower your operations, stick to McCormick-Deering and the many McCormick-Deering machines built to go hand in hand with these tractors. An easy way to get first-hand information on these tractors and machines is to ask us for a demonstration. No obligation, you understand. Stop in or phone us.
