CONGRESSMAN GOLDSBOROUGH WINS NOMINATION OVER SENATOR BECK

Wm. H. Jackson Wins Election as National Republican Committeeman Over Senator O. E. Weller

The primary election on Monday last was quite a spirited one in this county with both parties. Senator Beck received a very flattering majority over his opponent, Congressman Goldsborough, in this county, but lost out in the district.

The official count of the vote cast in this county by both parties follows:

FIVE COUNTY ALFALFA CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

5000 ADDITIONAL ACRES, GOAL SET

The merger vogue has invaded the ranks of Maryland's Extension Service. Five agricultural agents of the Northern Peninsula Group in conference last Friday at Denton pledged to each other their mutual support and co-operation in the launching of a Five County Alfalfa campaign calculated to add five thousand new acres of alfalfa to the acreage in this crop already existing in Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Talbot and Dorchester counties in the heart of the State's most important dairying section, says E. I. Oswald, of the State Extension Service, in discussing the Denton meeting.

"The men in the Northern Peninsular counties have struck at the very keynote of dairy prosperity in this campaign. Figures secured by the dairy organizations delivering milk from this area to Philadelphia show conclusively that milk production per cow is approximately three thousand pounds annually. This is too low for profitable dairying, and the main cause is lack of feed. Alfalfa hay, containing as it does, eleven percent protein, is the best home grown milk producer known. If this campaign brings about its proposed alfalfa increase, an acre of alfalfa on the Eastern Shore will maintain about six dairy animals while the same acre under the present alfalfa shortage is expected to maintain nearly eleven. Every industry directly or indirectly connected with farmer prosperity will be vitally interested in the success of this undertaking."

U. S. Dept. Cooperating.

The Five County Campaign has already secured the support and sanction of the United States Department of Agriculture. H. W. Hochbaum, agriculturist of the Eastern states, with headquarters at Washington, has interested himself to the extent of providing Maryland forces with a carefully worked out plan of procedure which has proved effective in a similar enterprise in the Middle West. Intensive publicity for the next few weeks, specified by the Hochbaum plan, is already arranged for. Special stationery for circularizing all farmers in the five counties is now in hand. Arrangements will soon be complete for keeping all farmers of the section in thorough touch with progress of events through local papers and other agencies. One of the leading newspapers of the Shore is now planning a special edition in the interest of alfalfa production for a future issue.

Local Cooperation Expected.

Present campaign plans include the support of the Farm Bureau Chambers of Commerce, Banks lime companies operating in the territory involved, seed companies, and other interested enterprises. Surveys of the alfalfa acreage already in existence will probably be run with the aid of the schools and county farm bureaus. Every available facility in the five counties will be secured and placed behind the campaign.

Approved Seed to Be Used

Of firstimportance inthe minds of those in charge of the drive will be the use of approved seed. Plans are already afoot for bringing inone carload of alfalfa seed duly approved by the Department of Agriculture. It is said that an effort is being made to gain the support of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to the extent of shipping this car in from a point of origin in South Dakota via Chicago and Baltimore to a convenient location in the Northern Peninsula. Local dealers will be invited to co-operate in this seed importation.

Three to Conduct Soil Tests

Caroline, Talbot and Dorchester counties will shortly engage in extensive testing of soil for the determination of lime requirements. Queen Anne's and Kent Counties carried on exhaustive tests two years ago in which more than eighty thousand acres of land were tested. It is worthy of note that only four percent of this enormous acreage showed lime enough at that time for profitable alfalfa production. It is prophesied that alfalfa plans in the three new counties testing soil will open ertensive fields of operations for lime companies distributing their products this summer and fall. Two years ago, according to advice from the Extension Service in Queen Anne's County, farmers purchased two thousand tons of lime immediately following the completion of the soil tests. Facilities are already arranged for the testing of soil by the Agricultural Agents at Denton, Easton and Cambridge. Testing will also be continued at Chestertown and Centreville.

Vital Results Possible.

Far reaching results will be forthcoming from the Five County Campaign, if present plans work out to the satisfaction of those in charge. While the primary motive behind the drive is the increase in the per cow production of milk and the consequent increase in revenue, other items nearly as important can be easily foreseen. Among these is the inevitable land improvement which must come from increasing legume acreage. Another quite important factor will be savings resulting from replacing expensive dairy feeds with home grown high protein hay. It is said that protein secured from Alfalfa is the cheapest protein known to dairymen. Increased dairying efficiency may thus be expected. Many results attractive to dairymen should prove quite as attractive to those interests of the five counties dependent directly upon farmer prosperity for support. It is probable that no enterprise could be engaged in that would have more attractive returns for the entire section, or more universal support and approval from all local interests.

The sponsors of the campaign are the Agricultural Agents of the five counties mentioned: Horace B. Derrick, of Kent County, Ernest W. Grubb, of Queen Anne's; Thomas D. Holder, of Caroline; R. S. Brown, of Talbot and W. R. McKnight, of Dorchester. These five agents are cooperating under the auspices of the Maryland Extension Service and the United States Department of Agriculture in their regular offices at the county seat in each of the five counties. Mutual cohesion will be obtained from frequent meetings altermating between counties. Rivalry is the keynote of the campaign. The fight is on in the five counties.
