If your car is wearing out: Do not give it up we pray. But have it rebabbited, regasketed, remotored, reaxled then off and away.

It will last you as long as the one horse shay.

When all the parts are new, lad,
And all the spark plugs clean,
And every axle true, lad,
And every mile serene,
Then give your tank its fill, lad,
And around the world away;
Young blood must have its thrill, lad,
And every car its day.

When all the parts are worn, lad,
And all the gaskets leak,
And every cushion's torn, lad,
And every batt'ry's weak,
Then let your motor cool, lad,
The used-car shops among;
Mayhap you'll find some fool, lad,
Sun.
Who's waiting to be stung.
